Reds Press Drive For Czech Control

Purge Begins; Ranks Of Key Party Divided

Communists Charge Revolution Plotted

PRAGUE, Feb. 23 (AP)—Czechoslovakia apparently was headed tonight for a Communist-controlled government. This was implied by a split in the ranks of the Social Democratic Party, which had held the balance of power in the nation's political crisis.

Communists already were in control of the state government of semi - autonomous Slovakia. They threw out the non-Communist there and gave their posts to Communists. Slovakia was cut off from normal telephone communication with Prague.

The Social Democratic split and the direct action in Slovakia came after the Communists, driving for complete power in the nation, had paraded their armed police power in Prague and raided the headquarters of the Czech National Socialist Party, a bulwark of the anti-Red forces.

The raid was followed by Communist charges that the National Socialists were plotting armed revolution against the government.

Vaclav Nosek, Communist Minister of the Interior, has seen President Eduard Benes and informed him of evidence implicating the National Socialists in a plot against the government, the Prague radio announced.

Premier Sees Crisis Solved

The same station quoted Premier Klement Gottwald, a Communist, as telling a group of Communist Party, trade union and government officials: "The government crisis may be solved in the next few hours. It certainly will be solved within the next few days."

Thus far the Communist actions in Prague seem to be within the letter of the law. Still to be debated is the move in Slovakia where Communist ministers assumed the state posts taken from non-Communists.

Several prominent anti-Communist political figures and student leaders were arrested. Czechoslovak citizens virtually were isolated from the rest of Europe. This was done when the Communist - controlled Ministry of the Interior issued an order requiring new stamps of approval on valid passports. The same ministry directs the security police.

Police armed with rifles and machine guns spread out through Prague. They took up posts before the nation's parliament building, government offices and foreign embassies. Parliament, which had been scheduled to meet tomorrow, has postponed its session indefinitely.

President Eduard Benes, who has been trying to hold Czechoslovakia's coalition government together, conferred with ministers of the National Socialist and Catholic Peoples' Parties. There was no announcement on the discussions.

One-Hour Strike Scheduled

The country awaited a one-hour token union strike tomorrow, ordered at a Communist solidarity rally Sunday.

The political crisis developed Friday when 12 anti-Communist ministers belonging to the National

Coed Strangles Infant; Feared Family Disgrace

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 23—(AP)—A pretty coed today calmly related, the coroner said, that she strangled her new-born baby, "so as not to disgrace my family."

Dr. W. F. Lamkin, Champaign County coroner, said the unwed brunette pre-law student said that she had given birth to the infant unaided in a boarding house room Friday night, and then tightened a stocking around the baby's neck.

The girl is Muriel Ostrowsky, Lawrence, N. Y., a third-year student at the University of Illinois. She will be 20 years old tomorrow.

State's Attorney John Bresee said Miss Ostrowsky steadfastly refused to name the baby's father.

Sen. Taylor Joins Wallace; Will Seek Vice Presidency

JOINS WALLACE—Sen. Glen H. Taylor (above), of Idaho, yesterday became a candidate for the vice presidency on the third party ticket of Henry Wallace.

Report Idahoan Will Quit Senate Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Sen. Glen H. Taylor, the "Crooning Cowboy" from Idaho, came out formally tonight as a vice presidential candidate on Henry Wallace's third party ticket.

He said he did it to back Wallace's "gallant fight for peace" and because the Democratic Party has surrendered to "Wall Street and the military." It was a decision he had been pondering since early January.

"I am not leaving the Democratic Party, it left me," Taylor said in his announcement broadcast over CBS.

Associates denied a report that he would quit the Senate, where he has sat on the Democratic side for half a term. Taylor himself has said previously, however, that he realized he would be reading himself out of the party if he joined Wallace.

Wallace Hears Tribute

The Senator accused the Democrats of having "betrayed the principles in which I believe." He said it would be "wonderful" to be free to campaign with Wallace against "this bi-partisan coalition and all its works; Taft-Hartley—universal military training—this drive toward war—high prices and racial discrimination and suppression of civil liberties."

Wallace appeared at the microphone with him and heard this tribute from his new political partner:

"I am convinced that Henry Wallace is the only leader capable of ending the cold war and re-establishing even the beginnings of international good will. He is the only leader of sufficient stature to aspire to the presidency who has not sought the cheap applause of the reactionary press by blaming all our troubles on Russia."

To Carry Out FDR Policies

Taylor said he had a mandate from his Idaho supporters to carry out the policies of Franklin D. Roosevelt. He quoted the late President as having said that if the Democrats nominated conservatives or "lipservice candidates on a straddle-bug platform" Roosevelt could take no active part in the campaign. Implying that he was following a Rooseveltian course, he said that "happily" he had "a place to go" to carry on the fight.

Taylor said he had been asked if he would renounce the support of "certain groups," and replied with questions of his own:

"Will the old party bosses renounce the support of anyone who is a member of the National Association of Manufacturers? x x x Will any politician renounce the support of the high moguls of the steel trust?"

He asserted that NAM policies lead to "economic disaster." He accused the steelmakers of having

Bradley Lists Four Ways U. S. May Gain Peace

Urges U. N. Support, UMT And Europe Aid

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 23 (AP)—In his first public address as Army Chief of Staff, Gen. Omar N. Bradley said tonight Americans may achieve lasting peace in four ways.

He said they are:

1. Support the United Nations.
2. Establish universal military training.
3. Aid in the reconstruction of Europe and Asia.
4. "Do not give comfort to those nations who would risk aggression."

Must Remain U. N. Champion

Bradley said the world is free of fear of aggression today only because "the drain of war on the industrial and manpower resources of the nations has temporarily exhausted much of their vigor."

In a speech prepared for the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators, Bradley put across his ideas for peace in this language:

"Security will be gained not through singular dependence on long - range aircraft, mobile land forces, or naval might, but only upon a balanced trust in all three as they are used in support of the United Nations. x x x

"Our best assurance against the inevitability of another war lies in some measure of universal subordination of absolute national sovereignty to a community of nations. x x x.

"As long as the United States is a champion of the United Nations—so long will its armed strength serve to benefit rather than threaten the progress of that endeavor. x x x.

No Alternative To UMT

"As a soldier entrusted with the preparation of our nation's defense, I can find no satisfactory alternative to universal military training in any comparable expenditure or plan. x x x

"Although exhaustion may have brought a temporary guarantee against immediate or deliberate aggression, it has nevertheless also created a new and alarming peril. For unless we halt this conquest of hunger and chaos—by aiding in the reconstruction of Europe and Asia—we may suffer strategic defeats. x x x.

"x x x I shall urge the American

Truman Leaves Virgin Islands

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, Virgin Islands, Feb. 23. (AP)—President Truman left the Virgin Islands today to the applause of the islanders and the strains of a Calypso band.

He left behind him a promise to "do everything in my power" to get Congress to renew the charter of the Virgin Islands Company and to return again some day as a private citizen when he hopes to find the islands on "a self-supporting basis."

He spoke here and at Frederiksted, once centers of a thriving slave market before the old Danish owners decreed an end to slavery in the islands 100 years ago.

The Virgin Islands Company, according to Negro Gov. William H. Hastie, the President's host, means the difference between a "marginal and a starvation economy." Financed by the government, it furnishes employment for many.

The President boarded the presidential yacht U.S.S. Williamsburg at Frederiksted at 1 p. m. (EST) for a two-day Caribbean cruise to the United States naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

From there he will fly back to Key West, Fla., Wednesday for a nine-day rest at the naval submarine base.

Third Party Convention Set For June In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—A National third party convention to nominate Henry A. Wallace for president has been set tentatively for June 11, 12 and 13 in Chicago.

A conference to make definite arrangements will be held in Chicago April 10 and 11, an Illinois third party leader said today.

The conference will be attended by national and state leaders of the Progressive Citizens of America and other third party groups, he said.

Benelux Given Voice In Big 3 German Talks

Seven-Point Agenda Is Swiftly Adopted

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Big Three western powers today granted Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg a voice in vital discussions on the role Western Germany will play in the Marshall plan for European recovery.

The United States, Britain and France adopted swiftly a seven-point agenda for their talks. The subjects ranged from discusion of reparations to control of the mineral-rich Ruhr Valley and Western Germany's future frontiers.

Russia was absent and uninvited. Coincident with the opening of the talks, Britain rejected Soviet protests against the conference and charged that Russian opposition to working out a genuine economic unity of Germany had imposed a heavy burden upon the other wartime Allies.

Terms Of Invitation Undisclosed

It was still uncertain whether Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—the Benelux countries—would be given full partnership in the conference. The terms of the invitation remained undisclosed pending their receipt by the three governments.

Official sources said, however, that the three nations would be given full rights of participation on all questions of Germany affecting them. These were expected to include all major policy decisions, but not those affecting Western Germany's actual administration.

The agenda agreed upon for the conference:

1. Association of Benelux countries in policy regarding Germany.
2. Relationship of Western Germany under the occupying powers to the European recovery program.
3. The role of the German economy in the European economy; control of the Ruhr.
4. Security against Germany.
5. Reparations.
6. The evolution of the political and economic organization of Germany.

Douglas Hurries To London

7. Provisional territorial arrangements, which includes the question of frontiers.

Representatives of the Low Countries were expected to join the discussions by Wednesday.

Tomorrow the conference will swing into consideration of Germany's role under the Marshall plan.

Utilization of Germany's manpower, material and industrial potential to help rebuild Europe has been set down as the primary aim of the United States.

Lewis Douglas, United States ambassador to Britain, hurried back to London to serve as chief of the American delegation. He had been playing a leading role in Washington in presentation of the Marshall plan to Congress.

O'Conor Introduces Bill Authorizing Bay Span

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.) introduced a bill today to authorize a Chesapeake Bay bridge or tunnel between Sandy Point and Kent Island.

Its provisions previously had been agreed upon by the Federal Works Agency and state officials and the bill is expected to be given quick consideration by the Public Works Committee.

It also contains authority for construction of a bridge or tunnel spanning the Baltimore harbor.

ADA Convention Delegates Vote To Back Liberals

Henderson Elected National Chairman

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 (AP) — Americans for Democratic Action voted today to support liberal congressmen "regardless of party label" and then elected as its national chairman former OPA Chief Leon Henderson.

Following the most heated debate of the three-day national convention, ADA adopted a resolution "unreservedly" condemning the third party presidential candidacy of Henry A. Wallace.

The new political group voted down a resolution to "put a candle in the window for Wallace's followers" who the resolution said should be part of ADA.

ADA listed among its reason for rejecting Wallace's candidacy that he is committed to defeat of the Marshall plan, that his organizational support comes principally from the Communist Party and that he would betray wartime pledges.

"The introduction of third party candidates in congressional races," ADA said, "can serve only to elect an isolationist and reactionary Congress. The alleged voice of protest would silence the voice of protest. The so-called Progressive Party would wilfully send the nation on the road to reaction."

Henderson succeeds Wilson Wyatt, former National Housing Expeditor and former Mayor of Louisville.

Big Surplus Seen

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23—(AP)—The Maryland state surplus by next June will be about $4,000,000 more than expected if taxes keep coming in at the present rate, State Comptroller James J. Lacy said today.

Installation Will Take Place Today

BALTIMORE, Ftb. 23 (AP)—The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough tonight became the eleventh Archbishop of Baltimore—premier Roman Catholic see of the country—in simple ceremonies in his new residence.

The former Bishop of Providence, R. I., assumed administration of the archdiocese two hours after he was given an unexpected reception by a large crowd which jammed Pennsylvania station.

The Archbishop and clergymen who made the trip from Providence with him were surrounded by the milling throng and police details were needed to clear a path.

The smiling, 56-year-old prelate was met by Bishop John M. McNamara, administrator of the archdiocese since the death of Archbishop Michael J. Curley last May; the Most. Rev. Lawrence Shehan, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, and other consultors of the archdiocese.

R. I. Governor Welcomed

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and other city officials were on hand to welcome Gov. John O. Pastors, of Rhode Island, and other dignitaries from New England who were on the train and who will attend formal installation ceremonies in the Basilica of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary tomorrow morning.

Archbishop Keough was driven directly to his new residence, a three-story home in the rear of the cathedral Basilica.

One of his first acts was to visit the cathedral and pray at the main altar, before which three cardinals have received their red hats and about 30 bishops have been consecrated.

Afterwards, he met with the consultors and presented his credentials from Pope Pius XII.

With that act, he became Archbishop.

The formalities will come tomorrow at the installation ceremony, to be witnessed by six archbishops, 33 bishops, and almost 2,000 other clergy and religious.

A relatively small number of Maryland and New England dignitaries and Catholic lay leaders will attend.

Archbishop Keough was obviously pleased by the spontaneous reception on his arrival.

Issues Formal Statement

He granted no interviews, but issued this formal statement:

"While I cannot say truthfully that I leave Catholic Providence and the charitable people of that great diocese without any sense of loss, I am at the same time deeply aware of the fact that my nomination to the first ranking see in the United States and my appointment to Baltimore is a great honor. x x x

"To succeed to the place occupied by the first bishop and archbishop of the nation, by the renowned (James) Cardinal Gibbons and by the distinguished and dynamic

Live Pork Prices Drop $1.50 A Hundred Pounds

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Live pork prices today slumped as much as $1.50 a hundred pounds. Cattle and sheep prices were mostly steady.

Except for livestock trading, all other markets were closed in observance of Washington's anniversary.

Hogs started off at 25 to 50 cents lower with an early top price of $23.60, but by the close of trading were $1.50 off and the top was $22.50.

Cattle, however, showed a steady to strong market tone and some medium grade steers were 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Jews Slay Four Arabs In Attack On Bus Near Gaza

Jerusalem Bombing Death Toll Now 52

JERUSALEM, Feb. 23 (AP)—Police said members of a Jewish motor convoy opened fire tonight on an Arab bus on a highway near Gaza, killing four Arabs and wounding nine others.

Two other Arabs were killed during the day in shooting incidents outside Jerusalem.

Sporadic firing broke out tonight in Jerusalem, where British, Jewish and Arab forces waited grimly behind barricaded zones for any large scale attacks.

An explosion destroyed a culvert tonight on the road to Mount Scopus, in Jerusalem's outskirts, rendering impassable the only road to the Jewish Hadassah Hospital, police said.

The Holy City was virtually paralyzed in the wake of the Sunday bombing of the Jewish business district which killed 52 persons.

The Arabs said Arab commandos in British uniform set off the blast, but the feeling persisted among Jews that the British had something to do with it.

The Palestine government, which has already denied Jewish implications that the British were involved in the explosion, issued a new statement.

It said a search had failed to disclose whereabouts of a police type armored car witnesses said was involved in the placing of the explosives. The statement said all police cars had been accounted for except in the Gaza area far to the south, and noted that 32 armored police cars, two army cars and 100 army vehicles of various types had been stolen recently.

Six British soldiers were injured in apparent reprisal actions during the day. This brought the British toll to nine soldiers killed and 14 injured since Irgun Zvai, Leumi, Jewish extremist group, warned that any Britons entering Jewish zones would be subject to execution.

Sirens sounded when an electrically detonated street mine smashed a military car, injuring a warrant officer and two soldiers in a Jewish section in Northern Jerusalem.

Governors Ask All Democrats To Join Revolt

McGrath Says "No" To Dixie Requests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—A group of southern governors tonight called on "Democrats everywhere" to join the revolt against President Truman's civil rights program.

Declaring that the South is no longer "in the bag" for the Democratic Party, they said "strong and effective" action is needed to "save" the party and to "preserve American democracy."

The call was issued by the governors of North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Arkansas after they and Gov. W. Preston Lane, Jr., of Maryland, held a showdown session with Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath.

McGrath gave a flat 'no" to their request that he work for withdrawal of Mr. Truman's anti-discrimination proposals.

They also asked McGrath—and he refused—to back restoration of the "two-thirds rule" which would give the South a veto in the choice of a presidential candidate by this year's Democratic national convention.

Southern States "Aroused"

"The southern states," the governors said, "are aroused and the present leadership of the Democratic Party will soon realize that the South is no longer 'in the bag.'

"Each southern state, under the framework of an overall program, will work out the most effective means of resisting the proposals of the present leadership of the party, but resist them we will."

"The time has come," the governors said, "for strong and effective action by the southern states not only to save the Democratic Party but to preserve the rights of the states to govern themselves and preserve American democracy.

"In this fight we are not only expecting support from the Democrats of the South but support from Democrats everywhere who are opposed to a centarlized government invading the rights of the people and the rights of the respective states."

The statement said the governors —a committee named by the Southern Governors Conference at Tallahassee, Fla., earlier this month—would make its report to the full conference at a time and place to be announced soon.

Party in "Rout," Morse Says

Their statement came as Sen. Morse (R-Ore.) declared that the Democratic Party is in "complete collapse and rout" as the result of a "great revolt" over civil rights.

Republicans, Morse said in a speech, "can almost go fishing and still win that (the 1948) election."

McGrath told the governors he hoped for "a happy reunion in the not too distant future." He said the South "has much to gain in playing along with the (Democratic) party."

The governors, who came here amid threats that southern Democrats will break with the national party over Mr. Truman's civil rights proposals, got only two reassurances from the national chairman:

He said he would not support any laws that interfered with matters which are the proper concern of the states.

And he denied that Mr. Truman was striking at the South when he proposed the creation of a civil rights division in the Justice De-

Tydings Has Pneumonia; Condition "Satisfactory"

BETHESDA, Md., Feb. 23. (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md) is a pneumonia patient in the United States Naval Hospital here, it was disclosed today.

Hospital officials said his condition tonight was "satisfactory."

Miss Corine Barger, the Senator's secretary, said he was taken to the hospital Saturday, after he had been ill two days.

She said at first it was thought the senior Senator from Maryland had a slight attack of influenza or grippe. However, an examination Saturday showed it was pneumonia, she explained.

Tydings is 57 and has been a senator since 1926. His present term expires in 1950.

Truman Urges Stronger Rent Curbs And Federal Aid To Home Building

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — President Truman prodded Congress today to strengthen and prolong rent controls and pass a huge program designed to encourage the building of 10,000,000 homes in 10 years.

The President slapped at the "staggering, uncertain" course of housing legislation in the past. In a special message sent from the White House during the absence of the vacationing President, he urged prompt passage of a package of laws which would:

First, guarantee rent ceilings "at least through April 30, 1949," grant a $2,000,000,000 increase in FHA's liberal wartime mortgage insurance, bolster housing credit, and channel more federal help to builders of rental dwellings.

Second, launch the country on a 10-year, 10,000,000-home, long-range program. A five-year public housing plan and city slum clearance bulked large in his proposals, although the later would be delayed.

The message found the two houses meeting in brief Washington's Birthday exercises. There was no sign of immediate action there on Mr. Truman's proposals.

However, Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter before he left Washington for talks in Detroit, that he is determined to push some housing bill through this session of Congress.

Rent control is due to expire next weekend. The Republican leadership now plans to vote on a 30-day stopgap extension this week, to give time for more debate on a 14-month extension. Long-range housing bills have been stalled on the House side for two years.

"In the past we have proceeded separately on short-range and long-range proposals," Mr. Truman prodded. "Now we must recognize the need for shaping the long and short range legislation with reference to each other.

"We must adopt them together so that they may work together. We must make orderly progress, not a staggering, uncertain series of starts and halts."

Continued rent control and better enforcement are "imperative," the President said. He added:

"Tenants in many parts of the country have been receiving notices from landlords that their rent will be substantially raised if rent control legislation is allowed to expire on February 29."

Political Doom Of Benes Sealed, Pfeiffer Asserts

By ZOLTAN PFEIFFER
Leader-in-exile of the Hungarian Independence Party

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—The communist drive to take over the government of Czechoslovakia is in the familiar pattern of the previous Soviet conquests of all the countries now behind the iron curtain.

There is nothing surprising in the present Communist coup—at least to those of us who have seen our own countries gobbled up in just the same way.

The pattern is now an old one. First, the grab of the police and security forces.

Then the suddenly-discovered "plot" against the government, followed by arrests, "protective" measures and—finally—complete seizure of the state and the suppressing of its true democratic leaders.

President Eduard Benes, of Czechoslovakia, has been under the heaviest pressure for many months. So has his foreign minister, Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czech republic.

Their days as free leaders of their country have been numbered ever since they made the fatal "mistake" of trying to join Western Europe in the Marshall plan.

Benes and Masaryk doomed themselves with the Soviets then and there, even though Czechoslovakia quickly reversed itself—under pressure, of course—and said, in effect, that it was all a mistake.

Apparently since that time the Communists have been preparing for the moment when they might discipline the indiscreet Benes and his supporters, and have chosen this moment.

U. S. Uncertain Of Allies If Attacked, Hoover Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Herbert Hoover said tonight that Britain and Western Europe might remain neutral in the event of an attack upon the United States.

"This is not an accusation as to their good faith or their gratitude for our having spent so much American treasure and blood in their liberation from Hitler," the former President said.

"It is the bare stark fact of divided and weakened European nations in the face of Red armies of 2,500,000 men along the iron curtain."

"We must realize that in case some one would make war upon us we have no certainty of military allies in the world," Hoover said in a speech prepared for a Washington's Birthday banquet of the Sons of the Revolution.

Hoover expressed belief that a federation of Western Europe "would strengthen the forces of peace and defense."

He declared that although it has been suggested that "we enter into a military alliance with such a federation," he believed that a better plan would be a regional grouping under the United Nations Charter. This would be similar to the Western Hemisphere group that signed the inter-American defense treaty at Rio De Janeiro.

"That would enable them (nations of Western Europe) to better co-operate with all the Western Hemisphere states, both inside and outside of the United Nations," Hoover said.

Such an action would bring more vitality and strength into the Unit-

Truman Leaves Virgin Islands

CHRISTIANSTED, St. Croix, Virgin Islands, Feb. 23. (AP)—President Truman left the Virgin Islands today to the applause of the islanders and the strains of a Calypso band.

He left behind him a promise to "do everything in my power" to get Congress to renew the charter of the Virgin Islands Company and to return again some day as a private citizen when he hopes to find the islands on "a self-supporting basis."

He spoke here and at Frederiksted, once centers of a thriving slave market before the old Danish owners decreed an end to slavery in the islands 100 years ago.

The Virgin Islands Company, according to Negro Gov. William H. Hastie, the President's host, means the difference between a "marginal and a starvation economy." Financed by the government, it furnishes employment for many.

The President boarded the presidential yacht U.S.S. Williamsburg at Frederiksted at 1 p. m. (EST) for a two-day Caribbean cruise to the United States naval base at Guantanamo, Cuba.

From there he will fly back to Key West, Fla., Wednesday for a nine-day rest at the naval submarine base.

Third Party Convention Set For June In Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—A National third party convention to nominate Henry A. Wallace for president has been set tentatively for June 11, 12 and 13 in Chicago.

A conference to make definite arrangements will be held in Chicago April 10 and 11, an Illinois third party leader said today.

The conference will be attended by national and state leaders of the Progressive Citizens of America and other third party groups, he said.

Benelux Given Voice In Big 3 German Talks

Seven-Point Agenda Is Swiftly Adopted

LONDON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Big Three western powers today granted Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg a voice in vital discussions on the role Western Germany will play in the Marshall plan for European recovery.

The United States, Britain and France adopted swiftly a seven-point agenda for their talks. The subjects ranged from discusion of reparations to control of the mineral-rich Ruhr Valley and Western Germany's future frontiers.

Russia was absent and uninvited. Coincident with the opening of the talks, Britain rejected Soviet protests against the conference and charged that Russian opposition to working out a genuine economic unity of Germany had imposed a heavy burden upon the other wartime Allies.

Terms Of Invitation Undisclosed

It was still uncertain whether Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—the Benelux countries—would be given full partnership in the conference. The terms of the invitation remained undisclosed pending their receipt by the three governments.

Official sources said, however, that the three nations would be given full rights of participation on all questions of Germany affecting them. These were expected to include all major policy decisions, but not those affecting Western Germany's actual administration.

The agenda agreed upon for the conference:

1. Association of Benelux countries in policy regarding Germany.
2. Relationship of Western Germany under the occupying powers to the European recovery program.
3. The role of the German economy in the European economy; control of the Ruhr.
4. Security against Germany.
5. Reparations.
6. The evolution of the political and economic organization of Germany.

Douglas Hurries To London

7. Provisional territorial arrangements, which includes the question of frontiers.

Representatives of the Low Countries were expected to join the discussions by Wednesday.

Tomorrow the conference will swing into consideration of Germany's role under the Marshall plan.

Utilization of Germany's manpower, material and industrial potential to help rebuild Europe has been set down as the primary aim of the United States.

Lewis Douglas, United States ambassador to Britain, hurried back to London to serve as chief of the American delegation. He had been playing a leading role in Washington in presentation of the Marshall plan to Congress.

O'Conor Introduces Bill Authorizing Bay Span

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Sen. O'Conor (D-Md.) introduced a bill today to authorize a Chesapeake Bay bridge or tunnel between Sandy Point and Kent Island.

Its provisions previously had been agreed upon by the Federal Works Agency and state officials and the bill is expected to be given quick consideration by the Public Works Committee.

It also contains authority for construction of a bridge or tunnel spanning the Baltimore harbor.

ADA Convention Delegates Vote To Back Liberals

Henderson Elected National Chairman

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 (AP) — Americans for Democratic Action voted today to support liberal congressmen "regardless of party label" and then elected as its national chairman former OPA Chief Leon Henderson.

Following the most heated debate of the three-day national convention, ADA adopted a resolution "unreservedly" condemning the third party presidential candidacy of Henry A. Wallace.

The new political group voted down a resolution to "put a candle in the window for Wallace's followers" who the resolution said should be part of ADA.

ADA listed among its reason for rejecting Wallace's candidacy that he is committed to defeat of the Marshall plan, that his organizational support comes principally from the Communist Party and that he would betray wartime pledges.

"The introduction of third party candidates in congressional races," ADA said, "can serve only to elect an isolationist and reactionary Congress. The alleged voice of protest would silence the voice of protest. The so-called Progressive Party would wilfully send the nation on the road to reaction."

Henderson succeeds Wilson Wyatt, former National Housing Expeditor and former Mayor of Louisville.

Big Surplus Seen

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23—(AP)—The Maryland state surplus by next June will be about $4,000,000 more than expected if taxes keep coming in at the present rate, State Comptroller James J. Lacy said today.

Installation Will Take Place Today

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Most Rev. Francis P. Keough tonight became the eleventh Archbishop of Baltimore—premier Roman Catholic see of the country—in simple ceremonies in his new residence.

The former Bishop of Providence, R. I., assumed administration of the archdiocese two hours after he was given an unexpected reception by a large crowd which jammed Pennsylvania station.

The Archbishop and clergymen who made the trip from Providence with him were surrounded by the milling throng and police details were needed to clear a path.

The smiling, 56-year-old prelate was met by Bishop John M. McNamara, administrator of the archdiocese since the death of Archbishop Michael J. Curley last May; the Most. Rev. Lawrence Shehan, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore, and other consultors of the archdiocese.

R. I. Governor Welcomed

Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro and other city officials were on hand to welcome Gov. John O. Pastors, of Rhode Island, and other dignitaries from New England who were on the train and who will attend formal installation ceremonies in the Basilica of the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary tomorrow morning.

Archbishop Keough was driven directly to his new residence, a three-story home in the rear of the cathedral Basilica.

One of his first acts was to visit the cathedral and pray at the main altar, before which three cardinals have received their red hats and about 30 bishops have been consecrated.

Afterwards, he met with the consultors and presented his credentials from Pope Pius XII.

With that act, he became Archbishop.

The formalities will come tomorrow at the installation ceremony, to be witnessed by six archbishops, 33 bishops, and almost 2,000 other clergy and religious.

A relatively small number of Maryland and New England dignitaries and Catholic lay leaders will attend.

Issues Formal Statement

He granted no interviews, but issued this formal statement:

"While I cannot say truthfully that I leave Catholic Providence and the charitable people of that great diocese without any sense of loss, I am at the same time deeply aware of the fact that my nomination to the first ranking see in the United States and my appointment to Baltimore is a great honor. x x x

"To succeed to the place occupied by the first bishop and archbishop of the nation, by the renowned (James) Cardinal Gibbons and by the distinguished and dynamic

Jews Slay Four Arabs In Attack On Bus Near Gaza

Jerusalem Bombing Death Toll Now 52

JERUSALEM, Feb. 23 (AP)—Police said members of a Jewish motor convoy opened fire tonight on an Arab bus on a highway near Gaza, killing four Arabs and wounding nine others.

Two other Arabs were killed during the day in shooting incidents outside Jerusalem.

Sporadic firing broke out tonight in Jerusalem, where British, Jewish and Arab forces waited grimly behind barricaded zones for any large scale attacks.

An explosion destroyed a culvert tonight on the road to Mount Scopus, in Jerusalem's outskirts, rendering impassable the only road to the Jewish Hadassah Hospital, police said.

The Holy City was virtually paralyzed in the wake of the Sunday bombing of the Jewish business district which killed 52 persons.

The Arabs said Arab commandos in British uniform set off the blast, but the feeling persisted among Jews that the British had something to do with it.

The Palestine government, which has already denied Jewish implications that the British were involved in the explosion, issued a new statement.

It said a search had failed to disclose whereabouts of a police type armored car witnesses said was involved in the placing of the explosives. The statement said all police cars had been accounted for except in the Gaza area far to the south, and noted that 32 armored police cars, two army cars and 100 army vehicles of various types had been stolen recently.

Six British soldiers were injured in apparent reprisal actions during the day. This brought the British toll to nine soldiers killed and 14 injured since Irgun Zvai, Leumi, Jewish extremist group, warned that any Britons entering Jewish zones would be subject to execution.

Sirens sounded when an electrically detonated street mine smashed a military car, injuring a warrant officer and two soldiers in a Jewish section in Northern Jerusalem.

Governors Ask All Democrats To Join Revolt

McGrath Says "No" To Dixie Requests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—A group of southern governors tonight called on "Democrats everywhere" to join the revolt against President Truman's civil rights program.

Declaring that the South is no longer "in the bag" for the Democratic Party, they said "strong and effective" action is needed to "save" the party and to "preserve American democracy."

The call was issued by the governors of North Carolina, South Carolina, Texas and Arkansas after they and Gov. W. Preston Lane, Jr., of Maryland, held a showdown session with Democratic National Chairman J. Howard McGrath.

McGrath gave a flat 'no" to their request that he work for withdrawal of Mr. Truman's anti-discrimination proposals.

They also asked McGrath—and he refused—to back restoration of the "two-thirds rule" which would give the South a veto in the choice of a presidential candidate by this year's Democratic national convention.

Southern States "Aroused"

"The southern states," the governors said, "are aroused and the present leadership of the Democratic Party will soon realize that the South is no longer 'in the bag.'

"Each southern state, under the framework of an overall program, will work out the most effective means of resisting the proposals of the present leadership of the party, but resist them we will."

"The time has come," the governors said, "for strong and effective action by the southern states not only to save the Democratic Party but to preserve the rights of the states to govern themselves and preserve American democracy.

"In this fight we are not only expecting support from the Democrats of the South but support from Democrats everywhere who are opposed to a centarlized government invading the rights of the people and the rights of the respective states."

The statement said the governors—a committee named by the Southern Governors Conference at Tallahassee, Fla., earlier this month—would make its report to the full conference at a time and place to be announced soon.

Party in "Rout," Morse Says

Their statement came as Sen. Morse (R-Ore.) declared that the Democratic Party is in "complete collapse and rout" as the result of a "great revolt" over civil rights.

Republicans, Morse said in a speech, "can almost go fishing and still win that (the 1948) election."

McGrath told the governors he hoped for "a happy reunion in the not too distant future." He said the South "has much to gain in playing along with the (Democratic) party."

The governors, who came here amid threats that southern Democrats will break with the national party over Mr. Truman's civil rights proposals, got only two reassurances from the national chairman:

He said he would not support any laws that interfered with matters which are the proper concern of the states.

And he denied that Mr. Truman was striking at the South when he proposed the creation of a civil rights division in the Justice De-

Tydings Has Pneumonia; Condition "Satisfactory"

BETHESDA, Md., Feb. 23. (AP)—Sen. Tydings (D-Md) is a pneumonia patient in the United States Naval Hospital here, it was disclosed today.

Hospital officials said his condition tonight was "satisfactory."

Miss Corine Barger, the Senator's secretary, said he was taken to the hospital Saturday, after he had been ill two days.

She said at first it was thought the senior Senator from Maryland had a slight attack of influenza or grippe. However, an examination Saturday showed it was pneumonia, she explained.

Tydings is 57 and has been a senator since 1926. His present term expires in 1950.

Truman Urges Stronger Rent Curbs And Federal Aid To Home Building

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — President Truman prodded Congress today to strengthen and prolong rent controls and pass a huge program designed to encourage the building of 10,000,000 homes in 10 years.

The President slapped at the "staggering, uncertain" course of housing legislation in the past. In a special message sent from the White House during the absence of the vacationing President, he urged prompt passage of a package of laws which would:

First, guarantee rent ceilings "at least through April 30, 1949," grant a $2,000,000,000 increase in FHA's liberal wartime mortgage insurance, bolster housing credit, and channel more federal help to builders of rental dwellings.

Second, launch the country on a 10-year, 10,000,000-home, long-range program. A five-year public housing plan and city slum clearance bulked large in his proposals, although the later would be delayed.

The message found the two houses meeting in brief Washington's Birthday exercises. There was no sign of immediate action there on Mr. Truman's proposals.

However, Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter before he left Washington for talks in Detroit, that he is determined to push some housing bill through this session of Congress.

Rent control is due to expire next weekend. The Republican leadership now plans to vote on a 30-day stopgap extension this week, to give time for more debate on a 14-month extension. Long-range housing bills have been stalled on the House side for two years.

"In the past we have proceeded separately on short-range and long-range proposals," Mr. Truman prodded. "Now we must recognize the need for shaping the long and short range legislation with reference to each other.

"We must adopt them together so that they may work together. We must make orderly progress, not a staggering, uncertain series of starts and halts."

Continued rent control and better enforcement are "imperative," the President said. He added:

"Tenants in many parts of the country have been receiving notices from landlords that their rent will be substantially raised if rent control legislation is allowed to expire on February 29."

Live Pork Prices Drop $1.50 A Hundred Pounds

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—Live pork prices today slumped as much as $1.50 a hundred pounds. Cattle and sheep prices were mostly steady.

Except for livestock trading, all other markets were closed in observance of Washington's anniversary.

Hogs started off at 25 to 50 cents lower with an early top price of $23.60, but by the close of trading were $1.50 off and the top was $22.50.

Cattle, however, showed a steady to strong market tone and some medium grade steers were 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Political Doom Of Benes Sealed, Pfeiffer Asserts

By ZOLTAN PFEIFFER
Leader-in-exile of the Hungarian Independence Party

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—The communist drive to take over the government of Czechoslovakia is in the familiar pattern of the previous Soviet conquests of all the countries now behind the iron curtain.

There is nothing surprising in the present Communist coup—at least to those of us who have seen our own countries gobbled up in just the same way.

The pattern is now an old one. First, the grab of the police and security forces.

Then the suddenly-discovered "plot" against the government, followed by arrests, "protective" measures and—finally—complete seizure of the state and the suppressing of its true democratic leaders.

President Eduard Benes, of Czechoslovakia, has been under the heaviest pressure for many months. So has his foreign minister, Jan Masaryk, son of the founder of the Czech republic.

Their days as free leaders of their country have been numbered ever since they made the fatal "mistake" of trying to join Western Europe in the Marshall plan.

Benes and Masaryk doomed themselves with the Soviets then and there, even though Czechoslovakia quickly reversed itself—under pressure, of course—and said, in effect, that it was all a mistake.

Apparently since that time the Communists have been preparing for the moment when they might discipline the indiscreet Benes and his supporters, and have chosen this moment.

U. S. Uncertain Of Allies If Attacked, Hoover Says

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—Herbert Hoover said tonight that Britain and Western Europe might remain neutral in the event of an attack upon the United States.

"This is not an accusation as to their good faith or their gratitude for our having spent so much American treasure and blood in their liberation from Hitler," the former President said.

"It is the bare stark fact of divided and weakened European nations in the face of Red armies of 2,500,000 men along the iron curtain."

"We must realize that in case some one would make war upon us we have no certainty of military allies in the world," Hoover said in a speech prepared for a Washington's Birthday banquet of the Sons of the Revolution.

Hoover expressed belief that a federation of Western Europe "would strengthen the forces of peace and defense."

He declared that although it has been suggested that "we enter into a military alliance with such a federation," he believed that a better plan would be a regional grouping under the United Nations Charter. This would be similar to the Western Hemisphere group that signed the inter-American defense treaty at Rio De Janeiro.

"That would enable them (nations of Western Europe) to better co-operate with all the Western Hemisphere states, both inside and outside of the United Nations," Hoover said.

Such an action would bring more vitality and strength into the Unit-

Rev. Shaffer, assisted by Rev. F. B. Grimm, pastor of the Point Marion Church, performed the double ring ceremony December 27, 1947, in First Methodist Church, Point Marion, in the presence of the immediate families and intimate friends.

An arrangement of evergreens, holly and baskets of white chrysanthemums formed the background for the ceremony. Miss Laura Marie Bierer was her sister's maid of honor and Paul Shaffer served as his brother's best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a suit of Gothic taupe with dubonnet accessories and an orchid corsage. A single strand of pearls with matching earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and her grandmother's ring, were her only jewelry.

Her maid of honor was attired in a gray suit with which she wore a corsage of pink roses. The bride's mother chose a black crepe dress with sequin trim and used black accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in teal-blue with black accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses.

Mrs. Shaffer is a graduate of Point Marion High School, State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa., and is now a member of the Commercial department of Apollo High School, Apollo, Pa.

Rev. Shaffer, assisted by Rev. F. B. Grimm, pastor of the Point Marion Church, performed the double ring ceremony December 27, 1947, in First Methodist Church, Point Marion, in the presence of the immediate families and intimate friends.

An arrangement of evergreens, holly and baskets of white chrysanthemums formed the background for the ceremony. Miss Jessie Neiman, aunt of the bride, presented a 15-minute organ recital preceding the ceremony, played the traditional wedding marches of Mendelssohn and Wagner and melodies from the Old Hymns of the Church.

Miss Laura Marie Bierer was her sister's maid of honor and Paul Shaffer served as his brother's best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a suit of Gothic taupe with dubonnet accessories and an orchid corsage. A single strand of pearls with matching earrings, a gift of the bridegroom, and her grandmother's ring, were her only jewelry.

Her maid of honor was attired in a gray suit with which she wore a corsage of pink roses. The bride's mother chose a black crepe dress with sequin trim and used black accessories. The bridegroom's mother was attired in teal-blue with black accessories. Both wore corsages of red roses.

Mrs. Shaffer is a graduate of Point Marion High School, State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa., and is now a member of the Commercial department of Apollo High School, Apollo, Pa.

Mr. Shaffer is a graduate of Altoona High School, and is a veteran of World War II, having served 34 months in the Army, of which 18 months were spent in the ETO. At present he is enrolled in the Business department of State Teachers College, Indiana, Pa. He is a member of Emanuel Evangelical United Brethren Church, Altoona, of which his father is pastor. His father was a former pastor of Calvary Evangelical United Brethren Church here.

Following the ceremony the guests were entertained at a reception and luncheon in the home of the bride's parents. The decorations were white chrysanthemums, gladioli, pine, tapers and wedding bells. The bride's table was set with a large three tier wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Upon their return from a trip through eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York City, the couple is residing at 213 North Warren Avenue, Apollo, Pa.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Devon Menges, city; and guests from Altoona, Pa., Fairmont, W. Va., Canton, O., Belleville, Ill., and Churchtown, Pa.

Senate Tax-Slash Hearings Are Set

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Senate will start drawing its own pattern for income tax cuts next Monday with the chief designers aiming at a slimmer figure than the fat $6,500,000,000 that came out of the House.

Chairman Millikin (R-Colo), of the tax-writing Finance Committee, announced today that the group had decided to start hearings Monday.

He added that he had told the committee, in the closed session at which the hearings were planned, that he believed the cut should be "somewhat less" than the House voted. He told reporters he had not decided how much less.

Nevertheless the House's Knutson bill with its $6,500,000,000 reduction for individual income taxpayers will be the measure the Senate committee takes up. Secretary of the Treasury Snyder, who has expressed opposition to so big a cut at this time, probably will be the first witness.

On the House side, Chairman Knutson (R-Minn) called a meeting of the Ways and Means Committee tomorrow to discuss separate legislation for a general overhauling of the tax laws.

"We will discuss the scope of a general tax revision bill," Knutson told reporters. "We will go as far this session as time permits in overhauling the tax laws."

The committee has held long hearings on such legislation, embracing proposals by various witnesses for changes in: Excise levies, so-called double taxation on corporate dividends, and taxes on co-operatives.

"That would seem an easier method for Western Europe than a purely military alliance.

Woman Fights Prowler Hour Before Baby Born

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 23. (AP)—Within an hour after she fought with a prowler who entered her bedroom, a woman gave birth to a healthy seven-pound baby girl in City Hospital early today.

Mrs. Rose Alvin, 28, was aroused shortly after 3 a. m. today when a man climbed through her window.

She grappled with the intruder and her screams brought Apartment House Superintendent Nathan Marcus. Marcus came to her aid and called police.

Police took a suspect into custody and rushed Mrs. Alvin to the hospital.

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—A steel air compressor tank, sent hurtling high in the air by an explosion, crashed through the roof of a neighboring building today, killing James J. Mitchum, 55, an executive, at his desk.

The explosion occurred in the E. F. Ewing Foundry, 426 South Pennsylvania Street. The tank, weighing about 400 pounds, tore through the roof of the foundry. It came down through the roof of the Mitchum Coppersmith plant next door to the foundry.

Long Heavy Favorite In Louisiana Runoff

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Earl K. Long, who talks a lot like his late brother Huey, will try a political comeback tomorrow at the expense of the reform forces which have ruled Louisiana for eight years.

His opponent for the governorship in a Democratic runoff primary election is Sam H. Jones, conqueror in 1940 of Earl and the remnants of the old Huey Long faction.

It is a back-to-the-wall fight for Jones. Aided by Huey's old followers, Long piled up a lead of 119,924 votes in the first primary January 20. Long got 41.5 per cent of the 643,905 ballots. Jones finished second with 22.8 per cent. Long backed 109,400 votes of a majority, however.

Scores Flee Blazing Hotel At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 23—(AP)—Firemen carried 40 persons down extension ladders from the burning, smoke-filled Martin Hotel in downtown Milwaukee tonight.

Another 100 fled the five-alarm blaze by fire escapes and stairways.

Ten persons were overcome by smoke but there were no fatalities.

Some of those trapped in the six-story hotel were unconscious and an invalid was lowered to the ground by ropes.

The fire was confined to the basement and the first floor of the Wisconsin Avenue building and was brought under control within 45 minutes.

Grimy Painting Proves $50,000 Masterpiece

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—A grimy painting at the Ringling Art Museum has been identified as a $50,000 early 17th century masterpiece.

The museum director, Everette Austin, Jr., said today that Julius H. Weitzner, New York collector, had identified the paintng as a long lost work by Peter Paul Rubens, the great Flemish master.

It is a tapestry panel entitled "Thetis Plunging Archilles into the Styx." The original lines appeared only after an accumulation of centuries of varnish and dirt was removed, Austin said.

Purge Begins

Socialist, Catholic People's and Slovak Democratic Parties handed their resignations to Benes, an independent. They said they took this step because Communists would not withdraw an order replacing non-Communists with Communists in the security police.

Benes refused to accept the resignation. He also refused to allow Gottwald the right to appoint Communist sympathizers to the posts of the 12 ministers who offered their resignations.

Benes' office announced that he would address the nation in a broadcast within the next few days. The announcement was made before the Social Democrats' decision was known.

After an all-day meeting a left wing of the Social Democratic Party drafted a resolution calling for the party to remain within the government and to begin negotiations with the Communists for Cabinet posts. The resolution also directed the party to support the Trade Union Congress proposals for further nationalization and other Communist program aims and to take part in forming new action committees.

partment. The President's primary intention was to curb "hoodlumism" in industrial disputes, McGrath added.

South Carolina's Gov. Thurmond asked most of the questions in the hour-and-a-half closed session.

In perhaps the most important of them, he asked if McGrath would use his influence "to have the highly-controversial civil rights legislation, which tends to divide our people, withdrawn from consideration by the congress."

"No," McGrath replied.

McGrath Regrets Controversy

The other "payoff" question was whether the chairman would back a return to the rule whereby the selection of the party's candidates for President and Vice President would require a two-thirds vote at the national convention.

McGrath said he would not support this. He said it would be "a step backwards" for the party, which since 1936 has required only a majority vote.

McGrath said he regretted "the events that have brought us to this situation within our party."

He said he and other members of the National Committee "appreciate the great loyalty our party has had from the southern states through the years."

"I don't take the attitude that they are with us anyway and so the 'L' with them," he said, adding:

"I just hope that somehow in our deliberations as time goes on, and when we weigh specific proposals that come before Congress, we will have a happy reunion in the not too distant future.

"As time goes on I know it is bad for our morale and hurts the spirit of party workers in other states.

"I think the South has much to gain in playing along with the party and in fighting our battles out for them in Congress."

Woman Fights Prowler Hour Before Baby Born

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 23. (AP)—Within an hour after she fought with a prowler who entered her bedroom, a woman gave birth to a healthy seven-pound baby girl in City Hospital early today.

Mrs. Rose Alvin, 28, was aroused shortly after 3 a. m. today when a man climbed through her window.

She grappled with the intruder and her screams brought Apartment House Superintendent Nathan Marcus. Marcus came to her aid and called police.

Police took a suspect into custody and rushed Mrs. Alvin to the hospital.

Tank Hurled Into Air By Blast Kills Executive

INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—A steel air compressor tank, sent hurtling high in the air by an explosion, crashed through the roof of a neighboring building today, killing James J. Mitchum, 55, an executive, at his desk.

The explosion occurred in the E. F. Ewing Foundry, 426 South Pennsylvania Street. The tank, weighing about 400 pounds, tore through the roof of the foundry. It came down through the roof of the Mitchum Coppersmith plant next door to the foundry.

Long Heavy Favorite In Louisiana Runoff

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Earl K. Long, who talks a lot like his late brother Huey, will try a political comeback tomorrow at the expense of the reform forces which have ruled Louisiana for eight years.

His opponent for the governorship in a Democratic runoff primary election is Sam H. Jones, conqueror in 1940 of Earl and the remnants of the old Huey Long faction.

It is a back-to-the-wall fight for Jones. Aided by Huey's old followers, Long piled up a lead of 119,924 votes in the first primary January 20. Long got 41.5 per cent of the 643,905 ballots. Jones finished second with 22.8 per cent. Long backed 109,400 votes of a majority, however.

Scores Flee Blazing Hotel At Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 23—(AP)—Firemen carried 40 persons down extension ladders from the burning, smoke-filled Martin Hotel in downtown Milwaukee tonight.

Another 100 fled the five-alarm blaze by fire escapes and stairways.

Ten persons were overcome by smoke but there were no fatalities.

Some of those trapped in the six-story hotel were unconscious and an invalid was lowered to the ground by ropes.

The fire was confined to the basement and the first floor of the Wisconsin Avenue building and was brought under control within 45 minutes.

Grimy Painting Proves $50,000 Masterpiece

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—A grimy painting at the Ringling Art Museum has been identified as a $50,000 early 17th century masterpiece.

The museum director, Everette Austin, Jr., said today that Julius H. Weitzner, New York collector, had identified the paintng as a long lost work by Peter Paul Rubens, the great Flemish master.

It is a tapestry panel entitled "Thetis Plunging Archilles into the Styx." The original lines appeared only after an accumulation of centuries of varnish and dirt was removed, Austin said.

Socialist, Catholic People's and Slovak Democratic Parties handed their resignations to Benes, an independent. They said they took this step because Communists would not withdraw an order replacing non-Communists with Communists in the security police.

Benes refused to accept the resignation. He also refused to allow Gottwald the right to appoint Communist sympathizers to the posts of the 12 ministers who offered their resignations.

Benes' office announced that he would address the nation in a broadcast within the next few days. The announcement was made before the Social Democrats' decision was known.

After an all-day meeting a left wing of the Social Democratic Party drafted a resolution calling for the party to remain within the government and to begin negotiations with the Communists for Cabinet posts. The resolution also directed the party to support the Trade Union Congress proposals for further nationalization and other Communist program aims and to take part in forming new action committees.

partment. The President's primary intention was to curb "hoodlumism" in industrial disputes, McGrath added.

South Carolina's Gov. Thurmond asked most of the questions in the hour-and-a-half closed session.

In perhaps the most important of them, he asked if McGrath would use his influence "to have the highly-controversial civil rights legislation, which tends to divide our people, withdrawn from consideration by the congress."

"No," McGrath replied.

McGrath Regrets Controversy

The other "payoff" question was whether the chairman would back a return to the rule whereby the selection of the party's candidates for President and Vice President would require a two-thirds vote at the national convention.

McGrath said he would not support this. He said it would be "a step backwards" for the party, which since 1936 has required only a majority vote.

McGrath said he regretted "the events that have brought us to this situation within our party."

He said he and other members of the National Committee "appreciate the great loyalty our party has had from the southern states through the years."

"I don't take the attitude that they are with us anyway and so the 'L' with them," he said, adding:

"I just hope that somehow in our deliberations as time goes on, and when we weigh specific proposals that come before Congress, we will have a happy reunion in the not too distant future.

"As time goes on I know it is bad for our morale and hurts the spirit of party workers in other states.

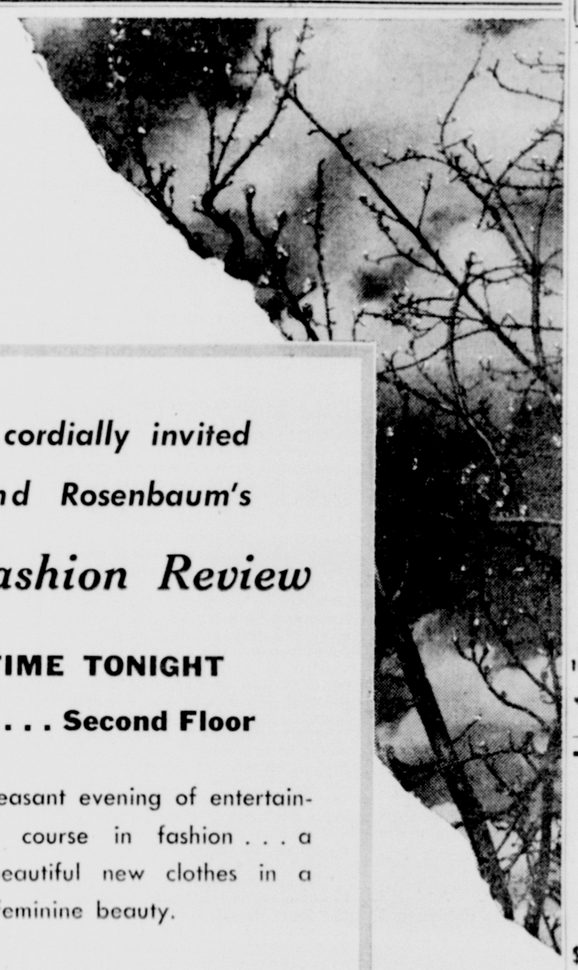

"I think the South has much to gain in playing along with the party and in fighting our battles out for them in Congress."

Surplus Welcome News To Taxpayers Of City

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson reported the other day that a surplus of $60,000 in the city government is possible for the fiscal year ending on March 31. Mr. Gibson pointed out that collections for the years 1947-48 exceed the levy by $37,740.93 for the ten months of this fiscal year. He anticipates additional income of $23,500 and another $5,000 which may be unspent by the departments from their appropriations. Added to this, is the income from various state sources which is expected to total $20,000.

That makes a total of $86,240 so, to bring the surplus into line with the auditor's statement, an appropriation of $25,000 from previous surpluses must be deducted to bring the surplus expected to be in the city's coffers by the end of next month to $61,240.

The surplus will stand us in good stead, Mr. Gibson asserts. It will help, he says, to ease the financial burden of having to levy for 15 instead of 12 months during the next fiscal year. This is made necessary by a state law requiring the city to begin its fiscal year January 1 or July 1. The latter date is considered more advantageous inasmuch as the current fiscal year does not end until three months after the first suggested date. So it will be necessary to levy twice for the months of April, May and June, this year.

Of course, any time a city government can come up with a surplus is genuine news to taxpayers, and this is true for those of Cumberland who must shoulder the cost of government operation.

And how was this surplus built up? It can be ascribed to prompt tax payments on a greater assessment, prompt payments of water rents and as good, if not better, receipts of whatever charges were made against property owners for street and sewer improvements.

So, that is how it's done, taxpayers. And it's much better than thinking up new taxes unless that be found necessary in order to carry out some extraordinary program of city improvement.

Wallace Would Rejoin Democrats On His Own Terms

Henry Wallace has been reported as saying he would give serious consideration to the Truman Administration plea that he return to the Democratic fold if that Party would become a peace party, which of course, means that Mr. Wallace wants the United States to humbly appease Russia. It can hardly be believed that the Democrats are so desperate as to even consider it.

This comes in the wake of Mr. Wallace's declaration, while haranguing an overflow crowd in New York's Bronx little more than a week ago, that Mayor O'Dwyer had invited him to rejoin the Democratic Party because "the Democratic high command in Washington is scared to death." The result of the special congressional election in the Bronx a week ago indicates that if the Democratic leaders were not scared they should have been.

In the habitually Democratic 24th District, Wallace's man, an American Labor Party nominee, as is well known, not only upset all predictions by winning the election. He got more votes than his three opponents combined and nearly twice as many as the regular Democratic candidate, who had the backing of Bronx boss Ed Flynn and the vocal support of O'Dwyer and Mrs. Roosevelt. It was a complete and significant Democratic defeat.

The official Democratic comment seeks what consolation it can in the "absolute disappearance of the Republican Party in the district." But the important thing is not that the G. O. P. man received only 1,400 votes. In a largely foreign-born New York district, with a heavy sprinkling of Communists and fellow-travelers, a Republican has never had any more chance than a Republican would have in Mississippi. The important fact is that the Democratic vote dropped from 39,000 to 12,000 in two years.

Nothing is sure in politics, but the handwriting on the wall for Harry Truman seems plain enough for a child to read. The radical fringe of the Democratic Party has been proved big enough to cut deeply into the Truman vote in New York City. And if he can't carry the city he surely can't carry the state. New York, with its 47 electoral votes looks like a hopeless Democratic goal in '48.

Republicans are interested in the bone-crushing Democratic defeat on their own account. Until now many of the plaudits and pollsters have argued that only Gov. Dewey could carry New York for the Republicans. But the prospect of a deeply split Democratic vote indicates that the G. O. P. candidate, whoever he is, may have a comparatively easy time of it in New York.

Citizen of the World

The reasons behind the decision of 24-year-old Henry Noel of Princeton, N. J., who has renounced his American citizenship, are nothing like those ascribed to Philip Nolan in Edward Everett Hale's famous "The Man Without a Country." Noel has no "personal dislike" for the United States, its people, or its policies.

According to the statement he has left with American military government authorities in Germany, where he is now working as a laborer, Noel believes that nationalism is the cause of the world's ills. We are seeing, he says, a "climax of nationalism, the spectacle of separate national political entities each thinking to realize its own private national ambition, each desperate to maintain or enlarge its own national powers or prestige . . ." He believes citizenship is "tacit acceptance and approval of this situation" and therefore he will not be a citizen of this or any country.

Is he right? It is true that extreme nationalism can be charged with much of the trouble now distressing the world. We must all recognize that Hitler's frenzied patriotism led him to immerse Europe in war. We must recognize, too, that efforts to mitigate nationalism, in the postwar years, have not been very successful. As long as any great nation puts its own ends first the result must be something resembling anarchy.

But can Noel accomplish anything by his stand? Perhaps. He can at least dramatize the issue, as he has done. Yet he may do his own cause more harm than good. As a citizen of the world—when there is no such thing as a world in the sense of a community—he can do nothing more than symbolize a hope still far short of any possible realization.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

The Adolescent Child

Dr. Van Dellen

The adolescent has been a topic of conversation for years and is still a popular subject in medical meetings and women's clubs. This age group obviously presents a problem; otherwise the whole subject would have been settled long ago and parents in every generation would not be floundering trying to find the answers.

Despite all the worry, however, youngsters throughout the centuries have survived their beanpole years, growing up to be just as worth while as their parents. When a child fails to become a good citizen, the blame usually falls on the father or mother but this is not always the case, as any study will reveal.

During adolescense, the boy or girl passes from the protected period of childhood into independent adult life. This is the way nature intended but civilized communities have set up so many taboos, customs, economic barriers, and social conditions that it is difficult for a young person to adjust to such enviromental handicaps. As a child, he could act like a child and no one objected. Then suddenly he finds himself an adult but in name only. It is here that the trouble lies and unless he is grounded thoroughly in the advantages of our man-made rules, he is likely to resent restrictions. But he cannot be expected to learn overnight; training should be started long before adolescence and continued thereafter.

The awkwardness associated with the teen age is frequently more trying to Dad and Mother than the boy or girl. "Look at that poor kid—he has outgrown his suit and looks so gangling, and clumsy," is a common remark. Actually Johnny is unconcerned about his appearance and secretly flattered at his phenomenal growth. The giggling bobby soxers are full of vim and vigor. They pity their staid, aged parents (who are in their late thirties) because they cannot jitterbug or horse around like the young folk.

What can parents do toward making a success of their responsibilities? If they had the choice between a barrel of books on this subject or a barrel of common sense, they would be wise to take the latter. Sex education, for example, should be brought up to date at this time because it is an integral part of adolescence and helps the young sprouts to understand the changes that are occurring.

Many families neglect this phase because of embarrassment. Others hesitate to talk over the phenomenon because they fear the consequences of their youngsters' knowing the facts. But if instruction is not given at home, where its real purpose can be described, the information is often obtained from sources that make it appear sordid. If parents acquainted their offspring with all the necessary details, by using proper terms and a few animal illustrations, the ordeal should take less than five minutes.

NOT THE FLUID

F. N. writes: In bursitis of the shoulder, will the injured fluid show in the X-ray?

Reply

No, but in a large percentage of cases, the plates will show calcium formation which develops as a result of inflammation.

UNNECESSARY

C. W. writes: Is there anything I can take to clean out the kidneys in the same way that laxatives clean out the bowel?

Reply

Physicians have enough trouble with individuals who are always taking drugs for "constipation" so let's not start on the kidneys. The renal organs do not need flushing but if you wish to increase urination, double the amount of fluids you now drink.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

This year California holds a centennial celebration commemorating the discovery of gold. A hundred years ago, a man named James Marshall, working around Sutter's Mill, discovered the first tourist.

You know what gold is . . . that's brass with class.

You'd be surprised how little California has changed since then. With the gold rush on and thousands pouring in from the east . . . Mad Man Murtz's great grandfather could be seen everwhere making offers for covered wagons.

John L. Lewis' grandfather had a hand in it too. He came out to California and called all the gold miners out to strike for an $8,000 day.

History records that the gold rush country was so full of desperadoes there were hangings every day. In fact, the sheriffs were hanging them from so many branches they could enforce the law and harvest the orange crop at the same time.

It was one of the greatest strikes in history and the ground was really saturated with the precious metal. In fact, no matter what kinds of seeds the farmers around there planted . . . only golden bantam corn would come up.

The incredible part of it all is that after a hundred years of prospecting, there's as much gold in the California ground as the day it was discovered. As fast as the miners dig it out of the ground . . . Crosby keeps burying it.

My father once struck gold but, frankly, I wasn't happy about it. He struck it so hard he knocked out three of my teeth.

Dewey-Men May Support Vandenberg If Convention Deadlocks; Brass Hats Continue To Publicize U.M.T.; GOP Jubilant Over Wallace Win

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Hottest report on the political battlefront is that Governor Tom Dewey will swing his supporters to Senator Arthur Vandenberg if Dewey gets in a convention deadlock with Senator Taft and can't get the GOP nomination himself.

Despite repeated disavowals of White House ambitions, Vandenberg will have strong "silent" backing at the Philadelphia convention—particularly among the so-called Willkieites in GOP ranks, most of whom are now supporting Dewey, but who are ready to swing to Vandenberg as their second choice because of the Michigan Senator's broadgauged stand on foreign affairs.

Those close to Vandenberg, however, insist that he does not want the nomination. The Michigan Senator will be 64 years old next month and feels the Presidency would be too great a burden, though a recent physical checkup showed him to be in good shape.

Vandenberg is also upset about the health of his wife, who has been ill. He left a Lincoln Day dinner early the other night to rush to her bedside.

Inside betting, however, is that Vandenberg can probably get the nomination, and that he will accept if a deadlocked convention drafts him.

Brass-Hat Publicity

The House Expenditures Committee has unearthed new and interesting facts showing that military leaders are talking through their brass hats when they deny they are using public funds to propagandize for peacetime conscription.

There are only 650 trainees at the Army's Universal Military Training Camp at Fort Knox, Ky., during a six-month cycle. Yet every week the Army publishes 5,000 copies of the camp newspaper, "U.M.T. Pioneer." Of these, 1,000 copies are distributed at Fort Knox, while the remaining 4,000 are mailed throughout the country.

Unlike the typical camp newspaper, devoted to local news items of interest to soldiers on the post, the "Pioneer" is filled with articles extolling the benefits of compulsory training of American youth.

The Congressional Committee has also discovered that no other Army enterprise has received as much publicity from Army public relations as the effort to sell U.M.T. to the people. In the last year more than 75,000 U.M.T. pamphlets have been published, plus 9,150 mimeographed articles and more than 30,000 other publications.

The paper cost of this propaganda blizzard alone amounted to $5,218, Congressional investigators have learned.

Jubilant GOP

News that Henry Wallace's candidate, Leo Isacson, stole a Congressional seat away from the Democratic machine in the Bronx reached one jubilant group of GOP Congressmen while holding an off-the-record, round-table discussion, Massachusetts' John Heselton announced the New York results.

"Here's some welcome news for the Republican party," he grinned.

Speaker Joe Martin was so astounded, he asked to have the announcement read again. After thoroughly digesting it, he predicted it would force President Truman to shift to the left.

"I don't think Wallace will come back into the Democratic fold," the Speaker added, "unless Truman is replaced on the ticket. And there is no chance for that."

Cutting The Veterans

President Truman hit the ceiling the other day when Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic whip, informed him that the Veterans Administration faced another sizable personnel cut due to lack of operating funds. Dropping this personnel, McCormack warned, would mean a breakdown of vital veterans functions, including disability payments.

"Well, why hasn't the agency asked Congress for a deficiency appropriation?" inquired the President. "That's the usual procedure."

"They can't," replied McCormack, "because the House Appropriations Committee exacted a promise from VA officials that they wouldn't ask for a deficiency fund at the time the Committee approved the agency's regular appropriation for this fiscal year."

For years it has been customary for executive departments of the Government which run short of money to come back to Congress later in the year for deficiency appropriations. But the GOP Congress has served notice that "deficit" grants would not be voted. Having long been familiar with this practice as a Senator, the President exploded.

"I've never heard of such a thing," he said. "The Committee had no authority to do that."

Truman instructed an aide to tell Budget Director James E. Webb to notify the VA to "put in" a deficiency request at once.

"We'll have a showdown on this," remarked Truman, crisply. "It's carrying economy a little too far."

Note—Dropping Veterans Administration personnel, including nurses and doctors in the middle of the year, means that they are almost impossible to hire back again when more money is voted for the new year.

Truman on Commodities

On the day before President Truman held his press conference on commodity prices, White House Assistant Clark Clifford rushed over to the Council of Economic Advisers and requested a detailed analysis of the market break.

"The President wants to read it to the press," he informed Chairman Edwin G. Nourse.

Nourse worked his staff overtime preparing the statement, but is still wondering why it wasn't publicized. Inside fact is that when Clifford placed the report on the President's desk, Truman informed him in nettled voice that he could do his own talking to the press.

Other White House aides, incidentally, advised Truman against reading the economic statement. The newspaper boys, they said, might get the idea that he was not qualified to talk for himself and had to rely on experts. So the President briefed himself thoroughly on the contents of the council's report, then gave the press his commodity views.

Merry-Go-Round

Talking to friends the other day, speaker Joe Martin confided his real views on the Marshall Plan. "If we keep on the way we're going," he snorted, "it (the Marshal Plan) will cost us $60 billion and we will be broke. Then we might as well turn the country over to Russia." . . . West Virginia's Senator Kilgore, long-time champion of GI's, is working on a plan for a supreme court for the armed services—in order to bring fairer courts-martial. Any GI could appeal his court-martial sentence to this supreme court.

Wallace Victory In New York Not Measure Of His Strength

By MARK SULLIVAN

After the unexpected and rather sensational success last week of the Henry Wallace candidate in a congressional by-election in a New York City District, explanations emphasized a local condition and a momentarily acute issue. The press and radio comment pointed out that the district is largely Jewish, the estimates range from 35 to 55 per cent. They said also that a large issue was Palestine. The successful candidate, Mr. Isacson, spoke of "the emphasis we placed on the Palestine issue" as a large cause of the result. If this was a principal factor in a Wallace victory in one congressional district, it is not a complete measure of his strength in the country as a whole. In meetings he has addressed in parts of the country widely separated and diverse in character, he has drawn immense audiences and evoked spectacular demonstrations of zeal for him. His principal appeal is promise of peace and prosperity. Those words or equivalents are a dominant theme in his addresses. He conveys comfort to persons who long for assurance that there shall be no war, and that their hope is a permanent possibility. These are drawn to Mr. Wallace by his declaration that the foreign policy of the Truman administration leads toward war, and by his opposition to universal military training. The prosperity part of Mr. Wallace's appeal includes, especially, security. The longing to which this gives comfort, especially widespread and acute just now, is a permanent and universal human trait.

Nationwide Strength Negligible

These factors make the Wallace movement more formidable than has been supposed. But Mr. Wallace's nation-wide strength is politically negligible compared to the victory of his candidate in a New York Congressional District. As is this district, so is much of New York City. And if in the city as a whole Mr. Wallace has corresponding strength next November, President Truman might as well give up hope of carrying New York State and hence of carrying the country.

When the successful Wallace candidate says "We placed . . . emphasis on the Palestine issue", he means that the Zionist Jewish voters were expressing rebuke to Mr. Truman because he has not yet taken steps about Palestine which they demand. The principal demands are: Lift the embargo on shipment of arms to Palestine, and assent to formation of an international army to defend Palestine against the Arabs, with an American contingent in it.

These are demanded of Mr. Truman by the Zionist leaders. They are urged upon him by the Democratic leaders in New York, who tell him that unless he satisfies the Zionists he will lose New York and hence the country next November.

The situation will within a few days be made urgent upon Mr. Truman and conspicuous to the country's attention. This work in the United Nations will be discussed the report of its Palestine Commission recommending use of an international army in Palestine. It will be made further urgent at a latter date and long before the November election, for in May the British forces which now police Palestine and restrains the civil war there, will be withdrawn.

Situation Torture To Truman

To Mr. Truman the situation is a troture with complex presures. He had a considerable part in the United Nations decision to make a part of Palestine a separate Zionist state. When armed resistance came from the Arabs, in Palestine and in neighboring Arab countries. Mr. Truman was called on to use force to carry out the decision he had had a considerable part in bringing about, in the form of a United Nations army containing an American contingent. This is the pressure that bears down on Mr. Truman from the Zionists.

From sources feeling responsibility for our armed services and our foreign relations, especially with Russia, comes pressure which says that we must not further offend the Arabs, already resentful. Arab good-will is important to use because of their geographical position and sources of oil they possess.

Pressure on Mr. Truman from New York Democratic leaders to satisfy the Zionists is met by a counter pressure. To send American troops to Palestine, authority of Congress would have to be asked. It is not certain Congress would give it, and it is likely that they request would stir turmoil in Congress, in Mr. Truman's party, and in the country.

All was brought to pointed focus by the victory of the Henry Wallace candidate in the New York Congressional election. It will come to focus again this week, through the discussion in the United Nations about whether to send an international army to Palestine.

Wallace Group Gives Truman Most Trouble In Party Split

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington,Feb. 23.—The Democratic Party is being split three ways. First, there are followers of Wallace who want the party to adopt a radical course on domestic affairs and a less belligerent policy toward Russia. They want also to get legislation on the negro question so that poll taxes will be abolished and the federal government will enforce civil rights.

Second, there are the so-called "liberals" who declare they are anti-communist, that they support the Administration's policy toward Russia, that they favor a liberal course on domestic affairs and support of the civil-rights program with protection for the negro voters, antilynching laws and nondiscrimination for all minority groups.

Third, there are the southern conservatives who oppose the civil-rights program and interference with states' rights in the matter of negro voting. On foreign affairs, they support the administration's policy toward Russia and much of its domestic program, but they tend to favor measures restrictive of labor unions and proposals to bring taxes down.

No Support For Radical Program

There is no support for any radical program of the administration.

Now President Truman feels he can hold the South in line because he thinks their revolt will peter out and their electoral votes will go Democratic anyway. He isn't afraid of the third group.

Mr. Truman has the enthusiastic support of the second group.

His problem therefore lies in the first group—the Wallace followers.

The votes of the first group could be dangerous. The polls already show that enough of a defection in the Democratic vote could develop as to give the Republicans several important states with big electoral votes.

The southern leaders are calling for a reorganization of the party along the lines of their traditional thinking. The late President Roosevelt faced the same kind of schism, but he chose to battle it out with the southerners and he was able to muster the negro vote in the big cities in the north which helped swing many of the states with large electoral votes.

Mr. Truman must make up his mind how far he will go to appease the Wallace group. He has already embarked on such a course. The civil-rights message was a direct effort to take the negro vote away from the Wallace group and keep it intact for the Democrats in the face of threats that it might go Republican or to Wallace. Until Mr. Truman stepped in with his challenging message, it looked as if part of the negro vote would go to Wallace and part to the Republicans and very little would stay in the Democratic column.

The more fuss the southerners kick up, the better the dramatization of the political heroism of Truman in defying his own party in the South and taking a bold stand in behalf of the negroes.

Might Change Policy

But in the end Mr. Truman may find that his civil-rights message isn't enough. If he is to reduce the Wallace strength, he must begin a change in his policy toward Russia. Maybe after the Marshall Plan is approved by Congress something of that sort may develop.

Also Mr. Truman isn't sufficiently radical to please the Wallace followers. He must come out for legislation to confiscate incomes and wealth. He must reverse himself on universal military training. Above all he must find a way to bring Wallace himself into camp. Wallace is bitter against the political machines of the big cities which connived to deprive him of the vice-presidential nomination in Chicago in 1944. The President cannot make up with Wallace without losing some of the enthusiasm of the big-city machines. But they, too, need a Truman election. So they will go along. It's in the cards for Truman to make peace with Wallace and many a liberal labor-union leader is losing sleep trying to figure out how to effect such a reconciliation.

The Right Of Petition

ONE of the inalienable rights of an American citizen is "to petition the government for a redress of grievances." That appears in the First Amendment to the Constitution to the extent that Congress cannot pass any law abridging, limiting or waiving that right.

So much for the Constitution. When it comes to actual practice, the citizen gets a run-around unless he belongs to a powerful pressure group. If he stands alone, one man speaking to his government, he usually discovers that there is no one who will listen to him. And there is no law that requires anyone to listen to him.

A case in point is Commander Charles Van Newkirk, a resident of Amherst in New Hampshire who has a grievance which he can get no one to listen to, much less redress. He has apparently had a wonderful time discovering that a citizen does not count.

It seems that Van Newkirk was the Chief Engineer on the S/S Knute Rockne, this ship being owned by the people of the United States through their agent, the Maritime Commission. He was the Chief Engineer on such ship during September, 1944. He was required to certify for payment extra wages, called overtime, which he could not in conscience do because he regarded it as a deliberate theft of public money, and being a stubborn and self-respecting New Englander, he declined to put his name to the approval of a theft.

He thus incurred the enmity of the Pacific Coast Firemen, Oilers, Watertenders and Wipers Association with which the Government of the United States had entered into an agreement for the supply of labor to the exclusion of non-members. So on November 13, 1944, W. W. Jordan and J. Davidson, according to Van Newkirk, boarded the ship to beat him up. He applied to the Disciplinary Unit of the Coast Guard which notified him that nothing could be done. In a word he could not even get ordinary police protection. To this Van Newkirk swears in an affidavit.

Van Newkirk went looking as to what can be done about such things and he is still a-looking. According to Assistant United States Attorney McLoughlin in New York, no statute applied. Anybody may beat up a Chief Engineer on a ship owned by the American people. Van Newkirk went before a Grand Jury, but the aforesaid McLoughlin opposed not only action but even an investigation. (I am taking this from the petition for a redress of grievances.)

When Van Newkirk tried to get a court order, he was told to try a Congressional Investigation. Meanwhile, the aforesaid union put a boycott on Van Newkirk, forbidding its members to ship with him. Henceforth he could not get a job.

So Van Newkirk, in pursuance of the law, petitioned the Maritime Commission for redress of grievances, receiving no hearing, no acknowledgement in any form whatsoever until September 23, 1946, which date followed a petition to the President of the United States. He also petitioned the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries of the House of Representatives, then headed by Schuyler Otis Bland, of Virginia.

Nowhere did he get any action because inadvertently he was raising two questions: one, the right of union representatives to beat up a Chief [illegible] United States-owned ship; the other, and this is dynamite, the right of workers to steal the money of the American people by faking overtime. It was the second question that got him the run-around. It is too hot to handle.

So far as the President of the United States is concerned, the two petitions addressed to him were undoubtedly put on the line, passing from hand to hand, and ultimately landing in some pigeonhole. Nobody even said, "Brother, you got a raw deal. We are sorry. But votes is votes. You only have one vote; the unions have millions of votes."

Leslie Biffle, the amiable friend of the President, when asked to present the petition, wrote:

"I do not feel that I am in a position to present this to the President. I regret that I am unable to be more encouraging in my letter to you."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Folks are asking me how about that Hankus Wallace try-out last week. Well, Hank has improved his standing like a stork that has changed to the other foot.

He's wading more than he's walking and he's bogged down more than he's wading. Don't forget that Hankus is selling oleomargarine for butter.

He is wise unto his generation. But, as I said before, his generation is wise unto him. He's picking his spots like a lady shopping for measles.

One thing to remember is that Hankus is a slick politician. Even if he doesn't win, it is better than working for a living.

Surplus Welcome News To Taxpayers Of City

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson reported the other day that a surplus of $60,000 in the city government is possible for the fiscal year ending on March 31. Mr. Gibson pointed out that collections for the years 1947-48 exceed the levy by $37,740.93 for the ten months of this fiscal year. He anticipates additional income of $23,500 and another $5,000 which may be unspent by the departments from their appropriations. Added to this, is the income from various state sources which is expected to total $20,000.

That makes a total of $86,240 so, to bring the surplus into line with the auditor's statement, an appropriation of $25,000 from previous surpluses must be deducted to bring the surplus expected to be in the city's coffers by the end of next month to $61,240.

The surplus will stand us in good stead, Mr. Gibson asserts. It will help, he says, to ease the financial burden of having to levy for 15 instead of 12 months during the next fiscal year. This is made necessary by a state law requiring the city to begin its fiscal year January 1 or July 1. The latter date is considered more advantageous inasmuch as the current fiscal year does not end until three months after the first suggested date. So it will be necessary to levy twice for the months of April, May and June, this year.

Of course, any time a city government can come up with a surplus is genuine news to taxpayers, and this is true for those of Cumberland who must shoulder the cost of government operation.

And how was this surplus built up? It can be ascribed to prompt tax payments on a greater assessment, prompt payments of water rents and as good, if not better, receipts of whatever charges were made against property owners for street and sewer improvements.

So, that is how it's done, taxpayers. And it's much better than thinking up new taxes unless that be found necessary in order to carry out some extraordinary program of city improvement.

Wallace Would Rejoin Democrats On His Own Terms

Henry Wallace has been reported as saying he would give serious consideration to the Truman Administration plea that he return to the Democratic fold if that Party would become a peace party, which of course, means that Mr. Wallace wants the United States to humbly appease Russia. It can hardly be believed that the Democrats are so desperate as to even consider it.

This comes in the wake of Mr. Wallace's declaration, while haranguing an overflow crowd in New York's Bronx little more than a week ago, that Mayor O'Dwyer had invited him to rejoin the Democratic Party because "the Democratic high command in Washington is scared to death." The result of the special congressional election in the Bronx a week ago indicates that if the Democratic leaders were not scared they should have been.

In the habitually Democratic 24th District, Wallace's man, an American Labor Party nominee, as is well known, not only upset all predictions by winning the election. He got more votes than his three opponents combined and nearly twice as many as the regular Democratic candidate, who had the backing of Bronx boss Ed Flynn and the vocal support of O'Dwyer and Mrs. Roosevelt. It was a complete and significant Democratic defeat.

The official Democratic comment seeks what consolation it can in the "absolute disappearance of the Republican Party in the district." But the important thing is not that the G. O. P. man received only 1,400 votes. In a largely foreign-born New York district, with a heavy sprinkling of Communists and fellow-travelers, a Republican has never had any more chance than a Republican would have in Mississippi. The important fact is that the Democratic vote dropped from 39,000 to 12,000 in two years.

Nothing is sure in politics, but the handwriting on the wall for Harry Truman seems plain enough for a child to read. The radical fringe of the Democratic Party has been proved big enough to cut deeply into the Truman vote in New York City. And if he can't carry the city he surely can't carry the state. New York, with its 47 electoral votes looks like a hopeless Democratic goal in '48.

Republicans are interested in the bone-crushing Democratic defeat on their own account. Until now many of the plaudits and pollsters have argued that only Gov. Dewey could carry New York for the Republicans. But the prospect of a deeply split Democratic vote indicates that the G. O. P. candidate, whoever he is, may have a comparatively easy time of it in New York.

Citizen of the World

The reasons behind the decision of 24-year-old Henry Noel of Princeton, N. J., who has renounced his American citizenship, are nothing like those ascribed to Philip Nolan in Edward Everett Hale's famous "The Man Without a Country." Noel has no "personal dislike" for the United States, its people, or its policies.

According to the statement he has left with American military government authorities in Germany, where he is now working as a laborer, Noel believes that nationalism is the cause of the world's ills. We are seeing, he says, a "climax of nationalism, the spectacle of separate national political entities each thinking to realize its own private national ambition, each desperate to maintain or enlarge its own national powers or prestige . . ." He believes citizenship is "tacit acceptance and approval of this situation" and therefore he will not be a citizen of this or any country.

Is he right? It is true that extreme nationalism can be charged with much of the trouble now distressing the world. We must all recognize that Hitler's frenzied patriotism led him to immerse Europe in war. We must recognize, too, that efforts to mitigate nationalism, in the postwar years, have not been very successful. As long as any great nation puts its own ends first the result must be something resembling anarchy.

But can Noel accomplish anything by his stand? Perhaps. He can at least dramatize the issue, as he has done. Yet he may do his own cause more harm than good. As a citizen of the world—when there is no such thing as a world in the sense of a community—he can do nothing more than symbolize a hope still far short of any possible realization.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

The Adolescent Child

The adolescent has been a topic of conversation for years and is still a popular subject in medical meetings and women's clubs. This age group obviously presents a problem; otherwise the whole subject would have been settled long ago and parents in every generation would not be floundering trying to find the answers.

Dr. Van Dellen

Despite all the worry, however, youngsters throughout the centuries have survived their beanpole years, growing up to be just as worth while as their parents. When a child fails to become a good citizen, the blame usually falls on the father or mother but this is not always the case, as any study will reveal.

During adolescense, the boy or girl passes from the protected period of childhood into independent adult life. This is the way nature intended but civilized communities have set up so many taboos, customs, economic barriers, and social conditions that it is difficult for a young person to adjust to such enviromental handicaps. As a child, he could act like a child and no one objected. Then suddenly he finds himself an adult but in name only. It is here that the trouble lies and unless he is grounded thoroughly in the advantages of our man-made rules, he is likely to resent restrictions. But he cannot be expected to learn overnight; training should be started long before adolescence and continued thereafter.

The awkwardness associated with the teen age is frequently more trying to Dad and Mother than the boy or girl. "Look at that poor kid—he has outgrown his suit and looks so gangling, and clumsy," is a common remark. Actually Johnny is unconcerned about his appearance and secretly flattered at his phenomenal growth. The giggling bobby soxers are full of vim and vigor. They pity their staid, aged parents (who are in their late thirties) because they cannot jitterbug or horse around like the young folk.

What can parents do toward making a success of their responsibilities? If they had the choice between a barrel of books on this subject or a barrel of common sense, they would be wise to take the latter. Sex education, for example, should be brought up to date at this time because it is an integral part of adolescence and helps the young sprouts to understand the changes that are occurring.

Many families neglect this phase because of embarrassment. Others hesitate to talk over the phenomenon because they fear the consequences of their youngsters' knowing the facts. But if instruction is not given at home, where its real purpose can be described, the information is often obtained from sources that make it appear sordid. If parents acquainted their offspring with all the necessary details, by using proper terms and a few animal illustrations, the ordeal should take less than five minutes.

No, but in a large percentage of cases, the plates will show calcium formation which develops as a result of inflammation.

Physicians have enough trouble with individuals who are always taking drugs for "constipation" so let's not start on the kidneys. The renal organs do not need flushing but if you wish to increase urination, double the amount of fluids you now drink.

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

This year California holds a centennial celebration commemorating the discovery of gold. A hundred years ago, a man named James Marshall, working around Sutter's Mill, discovered the first tourist.

You know what gold is . . . that's brass with class.

You'd be surprised how little California has changed since then. With the gold rush on and thousands pouring in from the east . . . Mad Man Murtz's great grandfather could be seen everwhere making offers for covered wagons.

John L. Lewis' grandfather had a hand in it too. He came out to California and called all the gold miners out to strike for an $8,000 day.

History records that the gold rush country was so full of desperadoes there were hangings every day. In fact, the sheriffs were hanging them from so many branches they could enforce the law and harvest the orange crop at the same time.

It was one of the greatest strikes in history and the ground was really saturated with the precious metal. In fact, no matter what kinds of seeds the farmers around there planted . . . only golden bantam corn would come up.

The incredible part of it all is that after a hundred years of prospecting, there's as much gold in the California ground as the day it was discovered. As fast as the miners dig it out of the ground . . . Crosby keeps burying it.

My father once struck gold but, frankly, I wasn't happy about it. He struck it so hard he knocked out three of my teeth.

Dewey-Men May Support Vandenberg If Convention Deadlocks; Brass Hats Continue To Publicize U.M.T.; GOP Jubilant Over Wallace Win

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—Hottest report on the political battlefront is that Governor Tom Dewey will swing his supporters to Senator Arthur Vandenberg if Dewey gets in a convention deadlock with Senator Taft and can't get the GOP nomination himself.

Despite repeated disavowals of White House ambitions, Vandenberg will have strong "silent" backing at the Philadelphia convention—particularly among the so-called Willkieites in GOP ranks, most of whom are now supporting Dewey, but who are ready to swing to Vandenberg as their second choice because of the Michigan Senator's broadgauged stand on foreign affairs.

Those close to Vandenberg, however, insist that he does not want the nomination. The Michigan Senator will be 64 years old next month and feels the Presidency would be too great a burden, though a recent physical checkup showed him to be in good shape.

Vandenberg is also upset about the health of his wife, who has been ill. He left a Lincoln Day dinner early the other night to rush to her bedside.

Inside betting, however, is that Vandenberg can probably get the nomination, and that he will accept if a deadlocked convention drafts him.

Brass-Hat Publicity

The House Expenditures Committee has unearthed new and interesting facts showing that military leaders are talking through their brass hats when they deny they are using public funds to propagandize for peacetime conscription.

There are only 650 trainees at the Army's Universal Military Training Camp at Fort Knox, Ky., during a six-month cycle. Yet every week the Army publishes 5,000 copies of the camp newspaper, "U.M.T. Pioneer." Of these, 1,000 copies are distributed at Fort Knox, while the remaining 4,000 are mailed throughout the country.

Unlike the typical camp newspaper, devoted to local news items of interest to soldiers on the post, the "Pioneer" is filled with articles extolling the benefits of compulsory training of American youth.

The Congressional Committee has also discovered that no other Army enterprise has received as much publicity from Army public relations as the effort to sell U.M.T. to the people. In the last year more than 75,000 U.M.T. pamphlets have been published, plus 9,150 mimeographed articles and more than 30,000 other publications.

The paper cost of this propaganda blizzard alone amounted to $5,218, Congressional investigators have learned.

Jubilant GOP

News that Henry Wallace's candidate, Leo Isacson, stole a Congressional seat away from the Democratic machine in the Bronx reached one jubilant group of GOP Congressmen while holding an off-the-record, round-table discussion, Massachusetts' John Heselton announced the New York results.

"Here's some welcome news for the Republican party," he grinned.

Speaker Joe Martin was so astounded, he asked to have the announcement read again. After thoroughly digesting it, he predicted it would force President Truman to shift to the left.

"I don't think Wallace will come back into the Democratic fold," the Speaker added, "unless Truman is replaced on the ticket. And there is no chance for that."

Cutting The Veterans

President Truman hit the ceiling the other day when Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic whip, informed him that the Veterans Administration faced another sizable personnel cut due to lack of operating funds. Dropping this personnel, McCormack warned, would mean a breakdown of vital veterans functions, including disability payments.

"Well, why hasn't the agency asked Congress for a deficiency appropriation?" inquired the President. "That's the usual procedure."

"They can't," replied McCormack, "because the House Appropriations Committee exacted a promise from VA officials that they wouldn't ask for a deficiency fund at the time the Committee approved the agency's regular appropriation for this fiscal year."

For years it has been customary for executive departments of the Government which run short of money to come back to Congress later in the year for deficiency appropriations. But the GOP Congress has served notice that "deficit" grants would not be voted. Having long been familiar with this practice as a Senator, the President exploded.

"I've never heard of such a thing," he said. "The Committee had no authority to do that."

Truman instructed an aide to tell Budget Director James E. Webb to notify the VA to "put in" a deficiency request at once.

"We'll have a showdown on this," remarked Truman, crisply. "It's carrying economy a little too far."

Note—Dropping Veterans Administration personnel, including nurses and doctors in the middle of the year, means that they are almost impossible to hire back again when more money is voted for the new year.

Truman on Commodities

On the day before President Truman held his press conference on commodity prices, White House Assistant Clark Clifford rushed over to the Council of Economic Advisers and requested a detailed analysis of the market break.

"The President wants to read it to the press," he informed Chairman Edwin G. Nourse.

Nourse worked his staff overtime preparing the statement, but is still wondering why it wasn't publicized. Inside fact is that when Clifford placed the report on the President's desk, Truman informed him in nettled voice that he could do his own talking to the press.

Other White House aides, incidentally, advised Truman against reading the economic statement. The newspaper boys, they said, might get the idea that he was not qualified to talk for himself and had to rely on experts. So the President briefed himself thoroughly on the contents of the council's report, then gave the press his commodity views.

Merry-Go-Round

Talking to friends the other day, speaker Joe Martin confided his real views on the Marshall Plan. "If we keep on the way we're going," he snorted, "it (the Marshal Plan) will cost us $60 billion and we will be broke. Then we might as well turn the country over to Russia." . . . West Virginia's Senator Kilgore, long-time champion of GI's, is working on a plan for a supreme court for the armed services—in order to bring fairer courts-martial. Any GI could appeal his court-martial sentence to this supreme court.

Wallace Victory In New York Not Measure Of His Strength

By MARK SULLIVAN

After the unexpected and rather sensational success last week of the Henry Wallace candidate in a congressional by-election in a New York City District, explanations emphasized a local condition and a momentarily acute issue. The press and radio comment pointed out that the district is largely Jewish, the estimates range from 35 to 55 per cent. They said also that a large issue was Palestine. The successful candidate, Mr. Isacson, spoke of "the emphasis we placed on the Palestine issue" as a large cause of the result. If this was a principal factor in a Wallace victory in one congressional district, it is not a complete measure of his strength in the country as a whole. In meetings he has addressed in parts of the country widely separated and diverse in character, he has drawn immense audiences and evoked spectacular demonstrations of zeal for him. His principal appeal is promise of peace and prosperity. Those words or equivalents are a dominant theme in his addresses. He conveys comfort to persons who long for assurance that there shall be no war, and that their hope is a permanent possibility. These are drawn to Mr. Wallace by his declaration that the foreign policy of the Truman administration leads toward war, and by his opposition to universal military training. The prosperity part of Mr. Wallace's appeal includes, especially, security. The longing to which this gives comfort, especially widespread and acute just now, is a permanent and universal human trait.

Nationwide Strength Negligible

These factors make the Wallace movement more formidable than has been supposed. But Mr. Wallace's nation-wide strength is politically negligible compared to the victory of his candidate in a New York Congressional District. As is this district, so is much of New York City. And if in the city as a whole Mr. Wallace has corresponding strength next November, President Truman might as well give up hope of carrying New York State and hence of carrying the country.

When the successful Wallace candidate says "We placed . . . emphasis on the Palestine issue", he means that the Zionist Jewish voters were expressing rebuke to Mr. Truman because he has not yet taken steps about Palestine which they demand. The principal demands are: Lift the embargo on shipment of arms to Palestine, and assent to formation of an international army to defend Palestine against the Arabs, with an American contingent in it.

These are demanded of Mr. Truman by the Zionist leaders. They are urged upon him by the Democratic leaders in New York, who tell him that unless he satisfies the Zionists he will lose New York and hence the country next November.

The situation will within a few days be made urgent upon Mr. Truman and conspicuous to the country's attention. This work in the United Nations will be discussed the report of its Palestine Commission recommending use of an international army in Palestine. It will be made further urgent at a latter date and long before the November election, for in May the British forces which now police Palestine and restrains the civil war there, will be withdrawn.

Situation Torture To Truman

To Mr. Truman the situation is a troture with complex presures. He had a considerable part in the United Nations decision to make a part of Palestine a separate Zionist state. When armed resistance came from the Arabs, in Palestine and in neighboring Arab countries. Mr. Truman was called on to use force to carry out the decision he had had a considerable part in bringing about, in the form of a United Nations army containing an American contingent. This is the pressure that bears down on Mr. Truman from the Zionists.

From sources feeling responsibility for our armed services and our foreign relations, especially with Russia, comes pressure which says that we must not further offend the Arabs, already resentful. Arab good-will is important to use because of their geographical position and sources of oil they possess.

Pressure on Mr. Truman from New York Democratic leaders to satisfy the Zionists is met by a counter pressure. To send American troops to Palestine, authority of Congress would have to be asked. It is not certain Congress would give it, and it is likely that they request would stir turmoil in Congress, in Mr. Truman's party, and in the country.

All was brought to pointed focus by the victory of the Henry Wallace candidate in the New York Congressional election. It will come to focus again this week, through the discussion in the United Nations about whether to send an international army to Palestine.

Wallace Group Gives Truman Most Trouble In Party Split

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Feb. 23.—The Democratic Party is being split three ways. First, there are followers of Wallace who want the party to adopt a radical course on domestic affairs and a less belligerent policy toward Russia. They want also to get legislation on the negro question so that poll taxes will be abolished and the federal government will enforce civil rights.

Second, there are the so-called "liberals" who declare they are anti-communist, that they support the Administration's policy toward Russia, that they favor a liberal course on domestic affairs and support of the civil-rights program with protection for the negro voters, antilynching laws and nondiscrimination for all minority groups.

Third, there are the southern conservatives who oppose the civil-rights program and interference with states' rights in the matter of negro voting. On foreign affairs, they support the administration's policy toward Russia and much of its domestic program, but they tend to favor measures restrictive of labor unions and proposals to bring taxes down.

No Support For Radical Program

There is no support for any radical program of the administration.

Now President Truman feels he can hold the South in line because he thinks their revolt will peter out and their electoral votes will go Democratic anyway. He isn't afraid of the third group.

Mr. Truman has the enthusiastic support of the second group.

His problem therefore lies in the first group—the Wallace followers.

The votes of the first group could be dangerous. The polls already show that enough of a defection in the Democratic vote could develop as to give the Republicans several important states with big electoral votes.

The southern leaders are calling for a reorganization of the party along the lines of their traditional thinking. The late President Roosevelt faced the same kind of schism, but he chose to battle it out with the southerners and he was able to muster the negro vote in the big cities in the north which helped swing many of the states with large electoral votes.

Mr. Truman must make up his mind how far he will go to appease the Wallace group. He has already embarked on such a course. The civil-rights message was a direct effort to take the negro vote away from the Wallace group and keep it intact for the Democrats in the face of threats that it might go Republican or to Wallace. Until Mr. Truman stepped in with his challenging message, it looked as if part of the negro vote would go to Wallace and part to the Republicans and very little would stay in the Democratic column.

The more fuss the southerners kick up, the better the dramatization of the political heroism of Truman in defying his own party in the South and taking a bold stand in behalf of the negroes.

Might Change Policy

But in the end Mr. Truman may find that his civil-rights message isn't enough. If he is to reduce the Wallace strength, he must begin a change in his policy toward Russia. Maybe after the Marshall Plan is approved by Congress something of that sort may develop.

Also Mr. Truman isn't sufficiently radical to please the Wallace followers. He must come out for legislation to confiscate incomes and wealth. He must reverse himself on universal military training. Above all he must find a way to bring Wallace himself into camp. Wallace is bitter against the political machines of the big cities which connived to deprive him of the vice-presidential nomination in Chicago in 1944. The President cannot make up with Wallace without losing some of the enthusiasm of the big-city machines. But they, too, need a Truman election. So they will go along. It's in the cards for Truman to make peace with Wallace and many a liberal labor-union leader is losing sleep trying to figure out how to effect such a reconciliation.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Right Of Petition

ONE of the inalienable rights of an American citizen is "to petition the government for a redress of grievances." That appears in the First Amendment to the Constitution to the extent that Congress cannot pass any law abridging, limiting or waiving that right.

So much for the Constitution. When it comes to actual practice, the citizen gets a run-around unless he belongs to a powerful pressure group. If he stands alone, one man speaking to his government, he usually discovers that there is no one who will listen to him. And there is no law that requires anyone to listen to him.

A case in point is Commander Charles Van Newkirk, a resident of Amherst in New Hampshire who has a grievance which he can get no one to listen to, much less redress. He has apparently had a wonderful time discovering that a citizen does not count.

It seems that Van Newkirk was the Chief Engineer on the S/S Knute Rockne, this ship being owned by the people of the United States through their agent, the Maritime Commission. He was the Chief Engineer on such ship during September, 1944. He was required to certify for payment extra wages, called overtime, which he could not in conscience do because he regarded it as a deliberate theft of public money, and being a stubborn and self-respecting New Englander, he declined to put his name to the approval of a theft.

He thus incurred the enmity of the Pacific Coast Firemen, Oilers, Watertenders and Wipers Association with which the Government of the United States had entered into an agreement for the supply of labor to the exclusion of non-members. So on November 13, 1944, W. W. Jordan and J. Davidson, according to Van Newkirk, boarded the ship to beat him up. He applied to the Disciplinary Unit of the Coast Guard which notified him that nothing could be done. In a word he could not even get ordinary police protection. To this Van Newkirk swears in an affidavit.

Van Newkirk went looking as to what can be done about such things and he is still a-looking. According to Assistant United States Attorney McLoughlin in New York, no statute applied. Anybody may beat up a Chief Engineer on a ship owned by the American people. Van Newkirk went before a Grand Jury, but the aforesaid McLoughlin opposed not only action but even an investigation. (I am taking this from the petition for a redress of grievances.)

When Van Newkirk tried to get a court order, he was told to try a Congressional Investigation. Meanwhile, the aforesaid union put a boycott on Van Newkirk, forbidding its members to ship with him. Henceforth he could not get a job.

So Van Newkirk, in pursuance of the law, petitioned the Maritime Commission for redress of grievances, receiving no hearing, no acknowledgement in any form whatsoever until September 23, 1946, which date followed a petition to the President of the United States. He also petitioned the Committee on Merchant Marine and Fisheries of the House of Representatives, then headed by Schuyler Otis Bland, of Virginia.

Nowhere did he get any action because inadvertently he was raising two questions, one the right of union representatives to beat up a Chief Engineer on the United States-owned ship; the other, and this is dynamite, the right of workers to steal the money of the American people by faking overtime. It was the second question that got him the run-around. It is too hot to handle.

So far as the President of the United States is concerned, the two petitions addressed to him were undoubtedly put on the line, passing from hand to hand, and ultimately landing in some pigeonhole. Nobody even said, "Brother, you got a raw deal. We are sorry. But votes is votes. You only have one vote; the unions have millions of votes."

Leslie Biffle, the amiable friend of the President, when asked to present the petition, wrote:

"I do not feel that I am in a position to present this to the President. I regret that I am unable to be more encouraging in my letter to you."

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Folks are asking me how about that Hankus Wallace try-out last week. Well, Hank has improved his standing like a stork that has changed to the other foot.

He's wading more than he's walking and he's bogged down more than he's wading. Don't forget that Hankus is selling oleomargarine for butter.

He is wise unto his generation. But, as I said before, his generation is wise unto him. He's picking his spots like a lady shopping for measles.

One thing to remember is that Hankus is a slick politician. Even if he doesn't win, it is better than working for a living.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

I would suggest that stock brokers skip this story of Jacques Lebaudy. It might do bad things to their egos.

Jacques was probably the supreme screwball of all time. Shortly after he was born, he was nicknamed "Le Petit Sucrier" or "The Little Sugar-bowl," which was natural enough, seeing as how his pop was Jules Lebaudy, the French sugar king.

Billy Rose

By the time the tot was old enough to play with his solid gold blocks, his parents knew he was as balmy as a Rio breeze. Nevertheless, when Jacques was 21, he was handed the nice, untidy sum of five million bucks. The European Nutsy Fagan immediately put both his heads together and decided to become a king. Jimmy Langerman, an American soldier of fortune, informed Jacques there was an 185-mile strip of sandy coast in West Africa which no nation had ever claimed.

•—•—•

The ready-made regent bought himself a second-hand throne for seventy-five grand, and blew in another forty for a crown with red stones. Then he acquired a yacht and an empress, Marie de Loche Delliere, a 16-year-old Parisian actress whom he selected because her press agent claimed she was a countess.

Accompanied by twenty sailors armed with champagne bottles and cans of pate de fois gras, Jacques landed in Africa. The throne was set up on the beach, and Le Sucrier pulled the crown over his ears and proclaimed himself Jacques I, Emperor of the Sahara.

Twenty minutes later, his reign ended. Three touchy Arab tribesmen fired a couple of inaccurate bullets in the direction of the monarch. Jacques and his entourage scrammed back on the yacht leaving most of the pate de fois gras behind.

In Paris, Lebaudy registered at a hotel as Jacques I, Emperor of the Sahara. The class-conscious manager gave him the heave-ho. (Unless the French were different at the Turn of the Century, I have my doubts about this part of the story.) The following month, England told him to get lost after he did a handstand on Trafalgar Square dressed in ermine and wearing his crown.

Piqued, Jacques moved himself and his empress to New York. The old Waldorf Astoria didn't mind how he signed the register, but it did mind when he started sending bellboys down to the United States Sub-Treasury Building to ask for a lend of the Government's money-counting machines. And it minded even more the front-page story of its guest's attempt to slip the President of the United Sates a satchel full of gold in exchange for one of the Philippine Islands.

After a while, even the tolerant New York hotels wanted no part of the Emperor's business. But Lebaudy was not an easy man to say "No" to. Dressed like a tramp and carrying a battered suitcase held together with clothesline, he would stomp into a hotel and demand the best suite. When he was turned down, Jacques would open the suitcase, dump thousands of gold pieces on the desk and holler, "Is this democracy?"

In 1913, Lebaudy walked into the New York Public Library, followed by two retainers lugging a heavy trunk. He pulled some letters out of his pocket, got on the trunk and began dictating in a loud voice. Some attendants with muscles escorted the Emperor to the door, but Jacques insisted on leaving the trunk behind. When it was opened months later by court order, it was found to contain $200,000 in negotiable securities.

All this time, Lebaudy had been buying and selling stocks like crazy. And his methods were the lunchtime jokes of Wall Street. To begin with, he refused to talk to brokers in moving taxicabs. He would only buy stock in companies where the president wore a beard. If the pictures on the engraved certificates didn't appeal to him, he immediately sold them. One year he traded only on days with an "R" in them; the following year only on days when the wind was blowing from the south.

When World War I came along, the Emporer demoted himself to General and decided to raise a private army consisting entirely of cavalry. He bought scores of broken-down milk horses and advertised for ex-Western Union messenger boys.

During these years, Marie de Loche Delliere had stuck by this regal pistachio, and even had a daughter by him. But the Western Union boys on milk horses finally convinced her that Jacques needed a shirt with a lot of starch in it. She had him committed to an asylum at Amityville, Long Island, but he escaped.

On January 11, 1919, she shot him to death in self-defense. A grand jury refused to indict her.

And now here's the paragraph my friends at the New York Stock Exchange had better skip. After Jacques' death, his estate was appraised, and it was found that his stocks and bonds were worth $15,000,000. While some of the smartest fellows on the Street were going broke, the loony Emperor had tripled his fortune. His most successful investments had been in companies run by men with beards.

Every so often a certain brokerage house in New York sends me printed matter recommending this and that stock. This is to inform them they're wasting their stamps. I'm not investing a nickel until one of the partners shows up at my office dressed as Henry VIII.

Income Tax Primer

Most Wage Earners May Use Their Withholding Slips As Tax Returns

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — There are three kinds of individual income tax returns:

1. The wage withholding statement.
2. The short return on Form 1040.
3. The long return on form 1040.

Most wage earners use their withholding statements as tax returns because they are the easiest to fill out. Some wage earners and other taxpayers are not allowed to use the withholding statement as a return. They must use either the long Form 1040 or the short Form 1040.

A number of wage earners who are allowed to use the withholding statement can save tax money by using the long Form 1040 or the short Form 1040.

The withholding statement, which employers are required to give employes, is an extra-simplified return. You may use it (1) if your income was less than $5,000 last year and consisted entirely of withholding wages (2) if it consisted of withholding wages and not more than $100 in other wages, dividends and interest.

If you received any income from rents or royalties, or from the sale of exchange of property, you must use either the long return or the short return on Form 1040.

You must use the long Form 1040 if (1) your income was $5,000 or more or (2) if, regardless of amount of income, you claim deductions amounting to more than 10 per cent of your income. You may use the short Form 1040 if your income was less than $5,000 regardless of source.

The withholding statement is the easiest way to make a return. But if you have unusually large allowable deductions you probably can save tax money by using the more complicated long return on Form 1040.

On the withholding statement and the short Form 1040, your deduction allowance is limited to 10 per cent of your income. That deduction allowance is automatically provided in the tax table. You don't list your deductions. On the long form you may itemize and claim deductions amounting to more than 10 per cent of your income.

Anyone may use the long form regardless of the size or source of his income.

Two other groups of wage earners who are allowed to use the withholding statement will want instead to make their returns on the short or long Form 1040. They are:

1. Persons who had travel expenses and "reimbursed expenses" in connection with their employment.

2. Those who desire to know the amount of their tax at once without waiting for the collector's notice on it.

On the withholding statement you simply state your income, name of wife or husband, your occupation and names and relationship of your dependents. You file the statement with the Collector of Internal Revenue.

But don't send any money with it.

The collector figures your tax. He gives you credit for tax already paid and sends you either a bill or a refund check for any difference.

On the short Form 1040 a tax table tells you the amount of your tax. On the long Form 1040 you have to figure out your tax.

(Tomorrow: Long Form 1040).

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (INS)— Darryl Zanuck dashed off for the weekend to Sun Valley to join Virginia, who has been there for 10 days. Darryl was filled with joy at having received 22 nominations for the Academy awards.

Virginia Bruce

"How do you feel about all this glory?" I asked him.

"Very happy," he said, "how else?"

Then he told me that Gregory Peck, an Academy nominee for "Gentleman's agreement," also nominated as a best picture, had agreed to make "Yellow Sky" for him. It is the name of W. I. Burnett's new book.

The life of William Shakespeare is being readied for the screen with Laurence Olivier, Ronald Colman, Maurice Evans or Gregory Peck playing the Bard of Avon.

I can tell you that all of these actors, who would be right in highly different interpretations of Shakespeare, have told P. J. Wolfson that they are interested when he makes this $3,000,000 movie in Hollywood and London.

Wolfson, former writer-producer at Paramount, has been working on the project for over 15 months and has already obtained the cooperation of the J. Arthur Rank organization.

Sam Goldwyn says the most important thing in motion pictures for 1948 is the new group of talented young personalities.

He lists Elizabeth Taylor, Wanda Hendrix, Ann Blyth, Jane Greer, Louis Jourdon and Valli as the six most promising newcomers.

Not one of these are with the Goldwyn company, but if you question Sam closely enough he'll tell you that Cathy O'Donnell and Farley Grainger are the two most romantic stars he's had since Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman.

That was canny of Sam, because he included his own two players without having to say so.

Nancy Guild, who has just returned from Europe, imparts the information that Orson Welles has taken a house for two years in Rome and will do "Cyrano De Bergerac" as his next picture.

Sounds as if Orson the Great has said goodbye to Hollywood or was it Hollywood that said goodbye to Orson?

Boy Told He Hasn't Long To Live Wants To Break With Girl

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I had been going steady over nine months with a very nice boy when he told me he wanted to break off. I was very surprised and asked him the reason.

He told me he had been to a doctor who told him that he had contracted some disease in his lung while he was in the Navy,and that the doctor told him he didn't have long to live if he wasn't careful. I told him it didn't make any difference in the way I felt about him, but he said it would be better to hurt me now than to wait until after we were married and have something to happen to him.

I know he loves me, and he knows how I feel. Please tell me what I can do.

"LOST."

Dear "Lost":

It is possible, of course, that this boy is telling you the exact truth: that he really does love you and wants to marry you, but is afraid of tying you up to a lame duck.

My advice is that you suggest to him that the two of you go together to this doctor and discuss the situation with him. If he is sincere, I think he should be quite ready, even anxious, to do this. For he would feel either that the doctor might be able to find a way out of your dilemma, or that, if things are as serious as he has told you, you could be persuaded that marriage is out of the question. Certainly such a talk with the doctor would be to his own interest, from any angle.

On the other hand, I am afraid I am always just a little suspicious of a story of this kind. It is one that has been used too often by young men who want to get out of a romantic entaglement and choose a way that will make them seem noble instead of unkind.

Your young man's reaction to your suggestion of a visit to the doctor should give you a clue as to just how matters really stand.

Income Tax Primer

Most Wage Earners May Use Their Withholding Slips As Tax Returns

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP) — There are three kinds of individual income tax returns:

1. The wage withholding statement.
2. The short return on Form 1040.
3. The long return on form 1040.

Most wage earners use their withholding statements as tax returns because they are the easiest to fill out. Some wage earners and other taxpayers are not allowed to use the withholding statement as a return. They must use either the long Form 1040 or the short Form 1040.

A number of wage earners who are allowed to use the withholding statement can save tax money by using the long Form 1040 or the short Form 1040.

The withholding statement, which employers are required to give employes, is an extra-simplified return. You may use it (1) if your income was less than $5,000 last year and consisted entirely of withholding wages (2) if it consisted of withholding wages and not more than $100 in other wages, dividends and interest.

If you received any income from rents or royalties, or from the sale of exchange of property, you must use either the long return or the short return on Form 1040.

You must use the long Form 1040 if (1) your income was $5,000 or more or (2) if, regardless of amount of income, you claim deductions amounting to more than 10 per cent of your income. You may use the short Form 1040 if your income was less than $5,000 regardless of source.

The withholding statement is the easiest way to make a return. But if you have unusually large allowable deductions you probably can save tax money by using the more complicated long return on Form 1040.

On the withholding statement and the short Form 1040, your deduction allowance is limited to 10 per cent of your income. That deduction allowance is automatically provided in the tax table. You don't list your deductions. On the long form you may itemize and claim deductions amounting to more than 10 per cent of your income.

Anyone may use the long form regardless of the size or source of his income.

Two other groups of wage earners who are allowed to use the withholding statement will want instead to make their returns on the short or long Form 1040. They are:

1. Persons who had travel expenses and "reimbursed expenses" in connection with their employment.

2. Those who desire to know the amount of their tax at once without waiting for the collector's notice on it.

On the withholding statement you simply state your income, name of wife or husband, your occupation and names and relationship of your dependents. You file the statement with the Collector of Internal Revenue.

But don't send any money with it.

The collector figures your tax. He gives you credit for tax already paid and sends you either a bill or a refund check for any difference.

On the short Form 1040 a tax table tells you the amount of your tax. On the long Form 1040 you have to figure out your tax.

(Tomorrow: Long Form 1040).

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 12 (INS)— Darryl Zanuck dashed off for the weekend to Sun Valley to join Virginia, who has been there for 10 days. Darryl was filled with joy at having received 22 nominations for the Academy awards.

Virginia Bruce

"How do you feel about all this glory?" I asked him.

"Very happy," he said, "how else?"

Then he told me that Gregory Peck, an Academy nominee for "Gentleman's agreement," also nominated as a best picture, had agreed to make "Yellow Sky" for him. It is the name of W. I. Burnett's new book.

The life of William Shakespeare is being readied for the screen with Laurence Olivier, Ronald Colman, Maurice Evans or Gregory Peck playing the Bard of Avon.

Wolfson, former writer-producer at Paramount, has been working on the project for over 15 months and has already obtained the cooperation of the J. Arthur Rank organization.

Sentinels Beat Hagerstown By Score Of 63-40

Fort Hill Floormen Notch 22nd Victory

Fort Hill High School registered its twenty-second victory of the season last night by defeating Hagerstown High School on the local court by the score of 63 to 40.

The triumph gave Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's passers a clean sweep of the two-game series.

Hagerstown jumped away to an 11-2 lead early in the fray when everything they threw basketward went through the cords. Sparked by Murray's Hardinger, who connected for four fielders, the Sentinels staged a comeback and caught up with the Hubtown quint at the quarter whistle, 13-13.

The Washington Countians took the lead again in the second quarter and were on top 21-19 when the Hilltoppers poured 10 straight points through the hoop to grab the long end of a 29-21 count at intermission. When the third quarter ended the Scarlet and White held a 17-point advantage at 46-29.

Charley Lattimer and Hardinger shared high point honors for the victors with 17 and 13 markers while Buehler fired eight fielders and 17 points to pace the visitors.

In the opening game of the doubleheader, Fort Hill's Reserves defeated the Cumberland DeMolay quint by the score of 46-28.

Relic Is Withdrawn From $50,000 Race

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Citation, Calumet Farm's sensational three year old, ranked the standout favorite today in the $50,000 Flamingo Stakes to be run Saturday at Hialeah race course after Circle M Farms announced that Relic had been withdrawn.

Relic, number two on the Kentucky Derby winter book, pulled a muscle in the right hindquarter during workouts this past week, Trainer Herb Williams reported.

With Relic out of the way, Calumet's "two year old of 1947" will find his competition among 10 or 12 handicap horses, none of which are ranked in his class.

Nominees for the mile and an eighth test for three year olds include William Woodward's Hypnos, and Athlete, Mrs. Stanley Sagner's Saddy, A. C. Ernst's Alfoxie and Alphara; Hart & Jacobson's Big Deal, and Rarco Stable's Tight Squeeze, Silverling, Cheops and Sashay.

In return the Browns have received an unknown number of players whose names they will announce at a later date.

According to the Browns' statement, the trade was made with "a view to strengthening the overall league structure."

At the recent conference meeting at Chicago, the league owners decided to bolster the rosters of the Chicago Rockets, Baltimore Colts and Brooklyn Dodgers. It is believed that the rights of Chappuis have gone to one of these clubs.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Los Angeles Dons of the all-America Pro Football League want Michigan's Fritz Crisler to coach the 1948 team and General Manager Harry Thayer says "Crisler can write his own ticket."

A spokesman indicated Crisler would get more than $50,000 a year if he signed a Don contract, but Thayer declined to discuss the maximum he would pay.

"If Crisler is willing to enter the pro ranks he can't afford to turn down what we are ready to offer him," Thayer told newsmen.

Shea Turns Down Greatest Salary Ever Offered Sophomore Twirler

"Spec" Becomes First 1948 Yankee Holdout

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—The New York Yankees finally came up today with a first-class holdout.

The world's champions admitted that Frank (Spec) Shea, their brilliant rookie pitcher of 1947, has turned down "the greatest salary ever offered a sophomore in the history of the club."

The Yanks did not reveal what amount they had offered the Naugatuck, Conn. hurler, or what salary he had demanded. All that is known is that Shea is understood to have received $7,000 last year when he won 14 games while losing only five, and polished off the campaign by winning two games in the world series.

The Yankees made it clear that the Shea situation definitely is a stalemate and not a temporary difference. Yankee officials insisted that negotiations "definitely are off."

Shea thus becomes the first 1948 holdout on the world's champions,

FRANK SHEA

who have been bringing their regulars into the fold heretofore with little difficulty.

Baroudi's Age Falsified, Illinois Commission Says

Solons Will Hear Spinelli March 8

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP) — The Illinois State Athletic Commission today ordered Mike Spinelli, New York textile trucker, to show cause on March 8 why he should not be suspended as a boxing manager in connection with the ring death of Sam Baroudi.

The commission said that as Baroudi's manager, Spinelli falsely gave 21 as the age of the 20-year-old Akron, O., Negro fighter, who died of cerebral hemorrhage early Saturday, six hours after a 10-round bout with Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati.

Under the Illinois code, a fighter under 21 cannot participate in bouts of more than six rounds.

To Interrogate Spinelli

The commission said it intended also to interrogate Spinelli on his "conduct" after Baroudi was floored by Charles in the 10th round of their Chicago Stadium fight Friday night.

At a coroner's inquest Saturday, it was disclosed that Spinelli attempted to catch a plane for New York several hours before Baroudi died at Columbus Hospital and had with him his fighter's share of the purse, $4,000. Spinelli missed the plane, and when accosted by photographers and newsmen returned to the inquest.

Spinelli applied for an Illinois manager's license on Jan. 23.

Fred Tuerk, commission member, emphasized that if Illinois banned Spinelli as a manager, the National Boxing Association of which the state is a member, would follow suit. NBA membership includes most states in which boxing officially is recognized, except New York and Pennsylvania.

The commission, expressing desire to award Baroudi's impounded purse to the dead fighter's family, asked the state attorney general to rule on the legality of such action since Baroudi was a minor.

Not only Spinelli, but Baroudi, whose real name is Crandall, falsified his age, the fighter swearing previously before the commission that he was 22.

Promoter Jack Begun said he planned to stage a benefit bout early in April for Baroudi's parents and sister.

Charles, No. 1 claimant to Gus Lesnevich' light heavyweight crown, expressed willingness to meet any opponent picked for the benefit.

The fistic firm of Begun, Irv Shoenwald, and Jack Hurley said Baroudi's family would get the full purse of $5,600 accruing from last Friday's fight, explaining they earlier had advanced the fighter $1,600, but would contribute that sum to the impounded purse.

Funeral Set Thursday

The commission delegated one of its officials, Monk Harris, to attend Baroudi's funeral at Akron, O., Thursday, and said it was sending flowers.

Meanwhile, a coroner's jury continued investigation of the fatality and will hold a formal session Friday.

Spinelli To Quit

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—Mike Spinelli, manager of negro boxer Sam Baroudi wro died six hours after he was knocked out by Ezzard Charles in Chicago last Friday, announced his retirement tonight from the "racket."

Spinelli said he would confine his future activities solely to his New York trucking business.

Spanelli blamed low blows by Charles as the contributing factor in the ring tragedy, explainig:

"Those fouls caused my boy to drop his guard and he was leading with his chin after the seventh round."

Testimony at the coroner's inquest into the death disclosed that Baroudi had been injured in a fight about a year ago, and that he bled from the nose followinug the match.

The inquest will be resumed in Chicago Friday.

SNAVELY TURNS DOWN LOS ANGELES OFFER

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Feb. 23 (AP)—Carl Snavely, 21 years a head coach of college football, today turned down an offer to guide the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Conference. The job reportedly carries a $25,000 annual salary.

The gray-haired veteran, who now is 58 years old, said in a formal statement that when he and his wife "came face to face with the termination of our Carolina associations and with the thought that the work in which so many of us have joined might be impaired, we simply found ourselves unable to leave."

The Pennsylvanian has two years remaining on his five-year coaching contract at the University of North Carolina. His salary here is said to be about $12,000 a year.

Last fall the Tar Heels lost two of their first three games, but then settled down and won the last seven in a row.

NYU Defeats St. John's To Extend Win Streak

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—New York University, the only unbeaten major basketball team in the nation, stretched its winning streak to 18 games tonight by defeating St. John's, of Brooklyn, 59-54, at Madison Square Garden.

Adolph Schayes, tall center, sparked the Violets to victory. He grabbed every rebound, targeted sets and pivots, and fed his mates.

In the opener of the twin bill, LaSalle defeated St. Francis, 59-50.

ENGLE WITHDRAWS NAME AS COACHING PROSPECT AT YALE

CHARLES (RIP) ENGLE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 23—Charles (Rip) Engle of Brown today withdrew his name for consideration as Yale football coach, leaving Norm Daniels of Wesleyan as a leading prospect.

A Yale spokesman said, however, that a few other coaches will be interviewed this week. Slated to come here for a chat with the Yale alumni football advisory committee and university officials are Ray Morrison of Temple, and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, among others.

Engle explained at Providence, R. I., that if he was chosen to succeed Howie Odell at Yale, his selection would come late and Brown might have difficulty finding another coach. Spring football practice is scheduled to start at Brown on March 15.

Jacobs Trains 32 Horses At Bowie

1948 Eastern Season Opens There March 29

By GREG JOHNSON

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 23—Hirsch Jacobs of New York, America's leading winning trainer from 1933 to 1939, and from 1941 to 1944, inclusive has 32 horses in training here for the opening of the 1948 Eastern racing season on March 29.

There are two French bred horses in the Jacobs' barn. Flambeau, five year old bay son of Fair Copy and Red Flame, who was bred in France by the late Joseph E. Widener, cost Jacobs' $30,000. The other is Basileus 2nd., six year old chestnut son of Victrix and Barberybush 2nd, bred in France by Jean Couturie.

Stymie, world's largest money winning thoroughbred with earnings of more than $800,000, and who is the pet of the Jacobs' family, is still in Virginia. It is very doubtful whether Stymie will be asked to race until the summer months. However, Jacobs should have a highly successful meeting here, as he has 15 well bred two-year-olds among the band he has in training.

Another big string quartered here is the 25 head, which Trainer Ed Christmas is handling for William L. Brann of Walkersville, Md. In Christmas' care are two candidates for the $100,000 Preakness on May 15 at Pimlico.

Up to February 20, there were a bit over 300 horses on the grounds. However, Track Superintendent Richard Pending had stall applications for more than 2,000 horses, although he has only stabling room for 1,200.

Nominations for the four stakes to be run here this spring, close on March 15 with Secretary Edward L. O'Hara, 317 Baltimore Life Building, Baltimore, Md.

Only Two Quints May Repeat, Get Tournament Bids

Lineup For N.C.A.A. Is Virtually Certain

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Only defending champion Holy Cross College in this year's N.C.A.A. and Kentucky in the National Invitation, loomed today as sure fire repeaters from last season's major post season basketball tournaments.

The lineup for the N.C.A.A., which gets under way in Kansas City and New York March 18, is virtually set with the eight district and conference champions eligible.

Although only one conference champ, Baylor in the Southwest, has definitely been decided, at least three other teams are practically "in." They are Holy Cross (18-13), representing the New England section (District 1), undefeated New York University (17-0), in the Middle Atlantic sector (District 2), and Brigham Young (13-9), in the Rocky Mountain Territory (District 7). Baylor's record is 18-4 including 10 wins and no defeats in conference competition.

The field for the National Invitation which gets under way March 11 at New York's Madison Square Garden, has narrowed down to 18 teams. The selection committee, headed by Chairman Asa Bushnell, plans to mail the invitations next Wednesday.

WVU May Have Chance

In addition to Kentucky, semi-finalists in the '47 playoffs, St. Louis University (19-2), Western Kentucky (21-1), and De Paul (19-5), appear certainties to receive invitations. Kentucky, beaten only by Temple and Notre Dame, has won 25 games.

Others in the list probably include Bradley (25-2), Texas (17-4), Tulane (19-2), Bowling Green, (24-5), Loyola of Chicago (28-8), La Salle of Philadelphia (17-2), Seton Hall (18-3), Rhode Island State (16-3), Muhlenberg (15-3), West Virginia (13-3), Colgate (11-3), Kansas State (18-3), Long Island University (14-4) and City College (14-3).

Of course much depends upon what happens this week. A crushing defeat suffered by any of these eligibles might kill off their chances.

Such quintets as Utah, last year's winner, Duquesne and St. John's of the '47 invitation crop, apparently are not under consideration. LIU and West Virginia are among the probabilities. North Caroline State, the remaining participant, is expected to enter the N.C.A.A. this year.

Beavers' Chances Slim

Besides Holy Cross, the only other squad from the '47 N.C.A.A. lineup with a chance this season is Oregon State. However, the Beavers' chances are slim. Currently trailing Washington in the Northern Division, they must not only win their division championship but also defeat the southern champ in order to represent the Pacific Coast.

The chances of Navy, City College, Wisconsin, Texas, Wyoming and Oklahoma, who participated last year, appear almost negligible.

The most likely looking playmates for Holy Cross, NYU, Baylor and Brigham Young in this year's N.C.A.A., appear to be N.C. State (23-2), in the Southeast (District 3), Michigan (11-5) in the Midwest (District 4), Oklahoma A. and M. (22-2) in the Missouri Valley-Big Seven playoff (District 5), and California (21-6) on the Pacific Coast (District 8).

N. C. State clinched the Southern Conference title but must also win the special conference tournament to gain the nod. Michigan is being pressed by Iowa for the Big Nine championship. The Aggies are almost a cinch to cop the Missouri Valley title and in line to meet the Big Seven winner for the playoff honor. Kansas State leads the Big Seven. California already has earned at least a tie for the southern half of the Pacific Coast crown.

Michigan Wins

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 23 (INS)—Michigan's flag - conscious Wolverines smashed Purdue tonight, 46 to 35, to take a whole game's lead over Iowa in the stretch run for the big nine basketball crown.

Pep Favored To Retain His Title In Scrap With Sierra In Florida

Tandberg And Hafer Meet In Semi-Final

MIAMI, Feb. 23 (INS)—Featherweight Champion Willie Pep completed workouts today for his sixth title defense and found himself only a 2 to 1 betting choice to retain the crown in his bout with Humberto Sierra in Miami Tuesday night.

Local book-makers were giving even money that the challenger will last through the 15 rounds.

The odds on Pep's chances nosedived as reports from Sierra's training quarters indicated the wiry Cuban is looking unusually good.

A record turnout for a Miami fight card—around 50,000—is expected to be on hand in the Orange Bowl for the star-studded charity program.

The semi-final bout pitts Olle Tandberg, the European champion from Sweden, against Walter Hafer, ex-Marine Corps titlist from Washington, D. C.

In a 10-round non-title go in Hartford, Conn., last year, the

WILLIE PEP

champion outpointed the Cuban.

Jim Catanese Defeats Depan, Smith Scores

Tressler Is Victor, 687 See Nine Bouts

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, local welterweight ace, belted out a well earned decision over Wilbur "Young Joe" Lewis, negro puncher of the Keystate Athletic Club, of Central City, Pa., in the main five-rounder of a corking nine-bout amateur boxing card presented last night at the State Armory by the Police Boys' Club.

The three officials, Referee Howard "Red" Bush and Judges Jack Rorick and Gilbert Becker cast their ballots for Starkey. The final vote was 50-37, 50-40 and 49-45.

The tide of battle turned in Starkey's favor in the third round when a hard right to the mid-section almost doubled up the Pennsylvania Fancy Dan and from then on "Skeets" piled up enough points to win by a comfortable margin.

Lewis landed a terrific right to the jaw that caused Starkey's knees to buckle in the final round but the latter recovered quickly and finished strongly.

Pennsy Boxers Routed

Central City's team failed to win a single bout on last night's card. Jimmy Catanese started the rout of Mike Yelovich's team when he won a punchfest from the willing Joey Depan. These featherweights belted each other all over the place and the bout was one of the best on the card.

After Starkey took the measure of Lewis, in the sixth bout, Earl Smith, local flyweight star, gained a 3-0 verdict over Johnny Choby, of the Central City team. This was a close one with the officials voting 29-28, 30-23 and 29-28 in favor of "Smitty."

Roy Richardson, Frostburg 112-pounder, won the nod over Dick Nagy, of Central City, in the ninth and final match to give the Pennsylvanians two goose eggs for the evening.

Bob Rank, North End Athletic Club lightweight, started off the program by whipping Russell Bean in three fast rounds. Bean hit the deck three times in the first round and both of the boys went down together in the second stanza.

Two Knockouts Scored

Two knockouts enlivened the evening's card. In the second match, Jimmy Deetz flattened Donnie Booth in 1:40 of the second stanza while in the fifth bout Bill Lafferty, of St. Mary's A. C. chilled Ray Stott, of Frostburg, in 1:40 of the opening round.

Melvin Washington met a worthy foe in the person of Bernard Chabot, Frostburg welterweight, and emerged the winner on a split decision.

The heavyweight battle between Bobby Porter, of Eckhart, and Johnny Tressler, local scrapper, was a humdinger, and was settled in the third and final round when Tressler floored his opponent thrice and then both of the boys hit the deck together for no count. Tressler was floored from a wallop on the whiskers in the second round. Johnny outweighed his game opponent by 22 pounds and romped off with a 3-0 decision.

687 See Good Show

A crowd of 687 persons paid to see a classy show for which John Henry Stitcher was matchmaker. Bush refereed all of the matches, Rorick and Becker were the judges, Arthur G. Ramey, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Relic Is Withdrawn From $50,000 Race

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 (AP)—Citation, Calumet Farm's sensational three year old, ranked the standout favorite today in the $50,000 Flamingo Stakes to be run Saturday at Hialeah race course after Circle M Farms announced that Relic had been withdrawn.

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23. (INS)—The Cleveland Browns announced today that they have traded the draft rights to Bob Chappuis, University of Michigan halfback, to an unnamed club in the All-America Football Conference.

In return the Browns have received an unknown number of players whose names they will announce at a later date.

According to the Browns' statement, the trade was made with "a view to strengthening the overall league structure."

At the recent conference meeting at Chicago, the league owners decided to bolster the rosters of the Chicago Rockets, Baltimore Colts and Brooklyn Dodgers. It is believed that the rights of Chappuis have gone to one of these clubs.

A spokesman indicated Crisler would get more than $50,000 a year if he signed a Don contract, but Thayer declined to discuss the maximum he would pay.

"If Crisler is willing to enter the pro ranks he can't afford to turn down what we are ready to offer him," Thayer told newsmen.

Layne Is Unsigned

Shea Turns Down Greatest Salary Ever Offered Sophomore Twirler

"Spec" Becomes First 1948 Yankee Holdout

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—The New York Yankees finally came up today with a first-class holdout.

The world's champions admitted that Frank (Spec) Shea, their brilliant rookie pitcher of 1947, has turned down "the greatest salary ever offered a sophomore in the history of the club."

The Yanks did not reveal what amount they had offered the Naugatuck, Conn. hurler, or what salary he had demanded. All that is known is that Shea is understood to have received $7,000 last year when he won 14 games while losing only five, and polished off the campaign by winning two games in the world series.

The Yankees made it clear that the Shea situation definitely is a stalemate and not a temporary difference. Yankee officials insisted that negotiations "definitely are off."

Shea thus becomes the first 1948 holdout on the world's champions,

FRANK SHEA

who have been bringing their regulars into the fold heretofore with little difficulty.

Baroudi's Age Falsified, Illinois Commission Says

Solons Will Hear Spinelli March 8

CHICAGO, Feb. 23 (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission today ordered Mike Spinelli, New York textile trucker, to show cause on March 8 why he should not be suspended as a boxing manager in connection with the ring death of Sam Baroudi.

The commission said that as Baroudi's manager, Spinelli falsely gave 21 as the age of the 20-year-old Akron, O., Negro fighter, who died of cerebral hemorrhage early Saturday, six hours after a 10-round bout with Ezzard Charles of Cincinnati.

Under the Illinois code, a fighter under 21 cannot participate in bouts of more than six rounds.

To Interrogate Spinelli

The commission said it intended also to interrogate Spinelli on his "conduct" after Baroudi was floored by Charles in the 10th round of their Chicago Stadium fight Friday night.

At a coroner's inquest Saturday, it was disclosed that Spinelli attempted to catch a plane for New York several hours before Baroudi died at Columbus Hospital and had with him his fighter's share of the purse, $4,000. Spinelli missed the plane, and when accosted by photographers and newsmen returned to the inquest.

Spinelli applied for an Illinois manager's license on Jan. 23.

Fred Tuerk, commission member, emphasized that if Illinois banned Spinelli as a manager, the National Boxing Association of which the state is a member, would follow suit. NBA membership includes most states in which boxing officially is recognized, except New York and Pennsylvania.

The commission, expressing desire to award Baroudi's impounded purse to the dead fighter's family, asked the state attorney general to rule on the legality of such action since Baroudi was a minor.

Not only Spinelli, but Baroudi, whose real name is Crandall, falsified his age, the fighter swearing previously before the commission that he was 22.

Promoter Jack Begun said he planned to stage a benefit bout early in April for Baroudi's parents and sister.

Charles, No. 1 claimant to Gus Lesnevich' light heavyweight crown, expressed willingness to meet any opponent picked for the benefit.

The fistic firm of Begun, Irv Shoenwald, and Jack Hurley said Baroudi's family would get the full purse of $5,600 accruing from last Friday's fight, explaining they earlier had advanced the fighter $1,600, but would contribute that sum to the impounded purse.

Funeral Set Thursday

The commission delegated one of its officials, Monk Harris, to attend Baroudi's funeral at Akron, O., Thursday, and said it was sending flowers.

Meanwhile, a coroner's jury continued investigation of the fatality and will hold a formal session Friday.

Spinelli To Quit

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—Mike Spinelli, manager of negro boxer Sam Baroudi wro died six hours after he was knocked out by Ezzard Charles in Chicago last Friday, announced his retirement tonight from the "racket."

Spinelli said he would confine his future activities solely to his New York trucking business.

Spanelli blamed low blows by Charles as the contributing factor in the ring tragedy, explainig:

"Those fouls caused my boy to drop his guard and he was leading with his chin after the seventh round."

Testimony at the coroner's inquest into the death disclosed that Baroudi had been injured in a fight about a year ago, and that he bled from the nose followinug the match.

The inquest will be resumed in Chicago Friday.

SNAVELY TURNS DOWN LOS ANGELES OFFER

CHAPEL HILL, N. C., Feb. 23 (AP)—Carl Snavely, 21 years a head coach of college football, today turned down an offer to guide the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Conference. The job reportedly carries a $25,000 annual salary.

The gray-haired veteran, who now is 58 years old, said in a formal statement that when he and his wife "came face to face with the termination of our Carolina associations and with the thought that the work in which so many of us have joined might be impaired, we simply found ourselves unable to leave."

The Pennsylvanian has two years remaining on his five-year coaching contract at the University of North Carolina. His salary here is said to be about $12,000 a year.

Last fall the Tar Heels lost two of their first three games, but then settled down and won the last seven in a row.

NYU Defeats St. John's To Extend Win Streak

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (INS)—New York University, the only unbeaten major basketball team in the nation, stretched its winning streak to 18 games tonight by defeating St. John's, of Brooklyn, 59-54, at Madison Square Garden.

Adolph Schayes, tall center, sparked the Violets to victory. He grabbed every rebound, targeted sets and pivots, and fed his mates.

In the opener of the twin bill, LaSalle defeated St. Francis, 59-50.

CHARLES (RIP) ENGLE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 23—Charles (Rip) Engle of Brown today withdrew his name for consideration as Yale football coach, leaving Norm Daniels of Wesleyan as a leading prospect.

A Yale spokesman said, however, that a few other coaches will be interviewed this week. Slated to come here for a chat with the Yale alumni football advisory committee and university officials are Ray Morrison of Temple, and Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, among others.

Engle explained at Providence, R. I., that if he was chosen to succeed Howie Odell at Yale, his selection would come late and Brown might have difficulty finding another coach. Spring football practice is scheduled to start at Brown on March 15.

Jacobs Trains 32 Horses At Bowie

1948 Eastern Season Opens There March 29

By GREG JOHNSON

BOWIE, Md., Feb. 23—Hirsch Jacobs of New York, America's leading winning trainer from 1933 to 1939, and from 1941 to 1944, inclusive has 32 horses in training here for the opening of the 1948 Eastern racing season on March 29.

There are two French bred horses in the Jacobs' barn. Flambeau, five year old bay son of Fair Copy and Red Flame, who was bred in France by the late Joseph E. Widener, cost Jacobs' $30,000. The other is Basileus 2nd., six year old chestnut son of Victrix and Barberybush 2nd, bred in France by Jean Couturie.

Stymie, world's largest money winning thoroughbred with earnings of more than $800,000, and who is the pet of the Jacobs' family, is still in Virginia. It is very doubtful whether Stymie will be asked to race until the summer months. However, Jacobs should have a highly successful meeting here, as he has 15 well bred two-year-olds among the band he has in training.

Another big string quartered here is the 25 head, which Trainer Ed Christmas is handling for William L. Brann of Walkersville, Md. In Christmas' care are two candidates for the $100,000 Preakness on May 15 at Pimlico.

Up to February 20, there were a bit over 300 horses on the grounds. However, Track Superintendent Richard Pending had stall applications for more than 2,000 horses, although he has only stabling room for 1,200.

Nominations for the four stakes to be run here this spring, close on March 15 with Secretary Edward L. O'Hara, 317 Baltimore Life Building, Baltimore, Md.

Only Two Quints May Repeat, Get Tournament Bids

Lineup For N.C.A.A. Is Virtually Certain

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Only defending champion Holy Cross College in this year's N.C.A.A. and Kentucky in the National Invitation, loomed today as sure fire repeaters from last season's major post season basketball tournaments.

The lineup for the N.C.A.A., which gets under way in Kansas City and New York March 18, is virtually set with the eight district and conference champions eligible.

Although only one conference champ, Baylor in the Southwest, has definitely been decided, at least three other teams are practically "in." They are Holy Cross (18-13), representing the New England section (District 1), undefeated New York University (17-0), in the Middle Atlantic sector (District 2), and Brigham Young (13-9), in the Rocky Mountain Territory (District 7). Baylor's record is 18-4 including 10 wins and no defeats in conference competition.

The field for the National Invitation which gets under way March 11 at New York's Madison Square Garden, has narrowed down to 18 teams. The selection committee, headed by Chairman Asa Bushnell, plans to mail the invitations next Wednesday.

WVU May Have Chance

In addition to Kentucky, semi-finalists in the '47 playoffs, St. Louis University (19-2), Western Kentucky (21-1), and De Paul (19-5), appear certainties to receive invitations. Kentucky, beaten only by Temple and Notre Dame, has won 25 games.

Others in the list probably include Bradley (25-2), Texas (17-4), Tulane (19-2), Bowling Green, (24-5), Loyola of Chicago (28-8), La Salle of Philadelphia (17-2), Seton Hall (18-3), Rhode Island State (16-3), Muhlenberg (15-3), West Virginia (13-3), Colgate (11-3), Kansas State (18-3), Long Island University (14-4) and City College (14-3).

Of course much depends upon what happens this week. A crushing defeat suffered by any of these eligibles might kill off their chances.

Such quintets as Utah, last year's winner, Duquesne and St. John's of the '47 invitation crop, apparently are not under consideration. LIU and West Virginia are among the probabilities. North Caroline State, the remaining participant, is expected to enter the N.C.A.A. this year.

Beavers' Chances Slim

Besides Holy Cross, the only other squad from the '47 N.C.A.A. lineup with a chance this season is Oregon State. However, the Beavers' chances are slim. Currently trailing Washington in the Northern Division, they must not only win their division championship but also defeat the southern champ in order to represent the Pacific Coast.

The chances of Navy, City College, Wisconsin, Texas, Wyoming and Oklahoma, who participated last year, appear almost negligible.

The most likely looking playmates for Holy Cross, NYU, Baylor and Brigham Young in this year's N.C.A.A., appear to be N.C. State (23-2), in the Southeast (District 3), Michigan (11-5) in the Midwest (District 4), Oklahoma A. and M. (22-2) in the Missouri Valley-Big Seven playoff (District 5), and California (21-6) on the Pacific Coast (District 8).

N. C. State clinched the Southern Conference title but must also win the special conference tournament to gain the nod. Michigan is being pressed by Iowa for the Big Nine championship. The Aggies are almost a cinch to cop the Missouri Valley title and in line to meet the Big Seven winner for the playoff honor. Kansas State leads the Big Seven. California already has earned at least a tie for the southern half of the Pacific Coast crown.

Michigan Wins

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Feb. 23 (INS)—Michigan's flag - conscious Wolverines smashed Purdue tonight, 46 to 35, to take a whole game's lead over Iowa in the stretch run for the big nine basketball crown.

Horne Is Victor

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (INS)—George "Sonny" Horne, veteran Niles, Ohio, middleweight, won a decisive ten-round decision over Smuggy Hursey, of Washington, D. C., tonight before 3,278 fans at Uline Arena.

Duquesne Cops, 44-41

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Feb. 23 (AP)—Behind 24-16 at the half, Duquesne put on a big third period to defeat Geneva College tonight 44-41. A capacity crowd of 2,400 saw the game, which was close all the way.

Geneva lost to Duquesne earlier in the season at Pittsburgh, 45-29. Duquesne has won 17, lost four during the season.

Pep Favored To Retain His Title In Scrap With Sierra In Florida

Tandberg And Hafer Meet In Semi-Final

MIAMI, Feb. 23 (INS)—Featherweight Champion Willie Pep completed workouts today for his sixth title defense and found himself only a 2 to 1 betting choice to retain the crown in his bout with Humberto Sierra in Miami Tuesday night.

Local book-makers were giving even money that the challenger will last through the 15 rounds.

The odds on Pep's chances nosedived as reports from Sierra's training quarters indicated the wiry Cuban is looking unusually good.

A record turnout for a Miami fight card—around 50,000—is expected to be on hand in the Orange Bowl for the star-studded charity program.

The semi-final bout pits Ollie Tandberg, the European champion from Sweden, against Walter Hafer, ex-Marine Corps titlist from Washington, D. C.

In a 10-round non-title go in Hartford, Conn., last year, the

WILLIE PEP

champion outpointed the Cuban.

Pep has won 62 consecutive fights since he lost to lightweight champ Sammy Angott in an over-the-weight battle.

In his last title defense he kayoed Jock Leslie in the 12th round of a scheduled 15-round affray.

Jim Catanese Defeats Depan, Smith Scores

Tressler Is Victor, 687 See Nine Bouts

Randall "Skeets" Starkey, local welterweight ace, belted out a well earned decision over Wilbur "Young Joe" Lewis, negro puncher of the Keystate Athletic Club, of Central City, Pa., in the main five-rounder of a corking nine-bout amateur boxing card presented last night at the State Armory by the Police Boys' Club.

The three officials, Referee Howard "Red" Bush and Judges Jack Rorick and Gilbert Becker cast their ballots for Starkey. The final vote was 50-37, 50-40 and 49-45.

The tide of battle turned in Starkey's favor in the third round when a hard right to the mid-section almost doubled up the Pennsylvania Fancy Dan and from then on "Skeets" piled up enough points to win by a comfortable margin.

Lewis landed a terrific right to the jaw that caused Starkey's knees to buckle in the final round but the latter recovered quickly and finished strongly.

Pennsy Boxers Routed

Central City's team failed to win a single bout on last night's card. Jimmy Catanese started the rout of Mike Yelovich's team when he won a punchfest from the willing Joey Depan. These featherweights belted each other all over the place and the bout was one of the best on the card.

After Starkey took the measure of Lewis, in the sixth bout, Earl Smith, local flyweight star, gained a 3-0 verdict over Johnny Choby, of the Central City team. This was a close one with the officials voting 29-28, 30-23 and 29-28 in favor of "Smitty."

Roy Richardson, Frostburg 112-pounder, won the nod over Dick Nagy, of Central City, in the ninth and final match to give the Pennsylvanians two goose eggs for the evening.

Bob Rank, North End Athletic Club lightweight, started off the program by whipping Russell Bean in three fast rounds. Bean hit the deck three times in the first round and both of the boys went down together in the second stanza.

Two Knockouts Scored

Two knockouts enlivened the evening's card. In the second match, Jimmy Deetz flattened Donnie Booth in 1:40 of the second stanza while in the fifth bout Bill Lafferty, of St. Mary's A. C. chilled Ray Stott, of Frostburg, in 1:40 of the opening round.

Melvin Washington met a worthy foe in the person of Bernard Chabot, Frostburg welterweight, and emerged the winner on a split decision.

The heavyweight battle between Bobby Porter, of Eckhart, and Johnny Tressler, local scrapper, was a humdinger, and was settled in the third and final round when Tressler floored his opponent thrice and then both of the boys hit the deck together for no count. Tressler was floored from a wallop on the whiskers in the second round. Johnny outweighed his game opponent by 22 pounds and romped off with a 3-0 decision.

687 See Good Show

A crowd of 687 persons paid to see a classy show for which John Henry Stitcher was matchmaker. Bush refereed all of the matches, Rorick and Becker were the judges, Arthur G. Ramey, timer, and Nelson W. Russler, announcer.

Furillo And Rackley To Sign Contracts

NEW YORK, Feb. 23 (AP)—The local holdout situation eased up a bit today when the Brooklyn Dodgers announced they had finally come to terms with Outfielders Carl Furillo and Marvin Rackley, and the New York Yankees added the name of pitcher Frank Hiller to the satisfied list.

The double signing left a total of 15 players still unsigned a week from the start of the training season. The unsatisfied list includes five Yankees, four Dodgers and six members of the New York Giants.

Dizzy Trout Signs

DETROIT, Feb. 23 (AP)—Paul (Dizzy) Trout, 32-year-old veteran of the Detroit Tigers' pitching staff, signed his 1948 contract today, accepting a pay cut that will put his salary at approximately $13,000 for the next season.

Trout won only 10 games and lost 11 a year ago while drawing a pay check of more than $20,000.

Malone Will Coach

BROOKLYN, Feb. 23. (AP)—St. Francis College announced today it had signed Lew Malone, former Brooklyn Dodger second baseman, to a one-year contract to coach the college baseball team.

Malone was with Brooklyn in 1917 and 1919, and with the Philadelphia Athletics in 1915.

SALLY'S SALLIES

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Little Orly and Uncle Lumpy

Parents with a small child to entertain can shift this responsibility for a half hour at least every Wednesday to the Fred Waring organization (N. B. C. 10 a. m. Monday through Fridays). On that day Hugh Brannum, a bass player, deserts the orchestra for a few minutes to tell his hillbilly stories about the strange adventures of Little Orly, a small farm boy to whom the most extraordinary things happen.

John Crosby

In Little Orly's world pigs talk, barns dance, the wind behaves like a human. It's difficult to reproduce the Little Orly stories in print since the whole Waring organization—and a mighty big organization it is—pitches in to produce sound effects, voices and background music of wonderful ingenuity and variety. In fact, it's hard to tell whether these stories fall under the catagory of prose or music.

•—•—•

Well, Orly look up 'n' he saw 'n old shack.
The doors was all open 'n' the winders all cracked.
Orly's eyes got big 'n' he looked all araound
'n' all of a sudden he heerd a strange saound
(2 bars bass clarinet)
He stood stock still 'n' he says "I'm skeered!"
'n' then there came a saound that was twicet as weird.
(2 bars flute)
Orly grabbed up his dog 'n' held him tight
'n' still another sound came out of the night.
(2 bars piccolo)
Orly let out a yell 'n' tried to run away
But before he took a step he heard a funny voice say:
"Oh please don't go. We won't hurt you at all.
"C'mon in the house and pay us a call."
Well, Orly jest didn't know what to do
But he spoke right up 'n' said, "Who are you?"
"Well lissen," said the voice, "Orly don't be upset
"Cause I'm just the ghost of an old clarinet."
(2 bars clarinet)

There was quite a lot more of it but that's enough to give you the idea. Not all the Little Orly stories are told in rhyme but they're all in hillbilly dialect. ("Well, naow oncet upon a time lil ole Orly he-uz awalkin' through the woods, 'n' all of a suddent he seen a funny looking bird a-settin' up in a tree.") The sound effects frequently get far more elaborate than those in the above tale. Once Dingle Jolly, Little Orly's chum, blew such a big bubble with his bubble gum that it swallowed him and started rolling down the hill picking up everything in its path—an old man, an old woman, a duck, a cow, a church—each of which protested in a highly distinctive and euphonious style.

At various other times Little Orly has learned how to fly, held a dance with all the animals in his father's barn, persuaded the mountain to release the wind from bondage, and been kidnapped by poison ivy. Now and then he gets so mad he starts cussing and that alone is worth the price of admission. Here's a sample of Little Orly's invective: "O goodness double whiz fish and fiddlesticks!"

The Little Orly stories, which Brannum both writes and delivers under the pseudonym of Uncle Lumpy, developed out of some hillbilly songs and sketches Brannum wrote for the Waring organization. The first Little Orly tales were standard nursery stories put into hillbilly dialect with considerable up-to-date revision. However, Brannum soon exhausted the supply of nursery tales and now invents his own.

While presumably for children, they are designed to amuse the adults too. They last only three or four minutes apiece and sometimes in that brief period the entire Waring group—the band, the singers, Waring and the sound effects men all get a thorough workout, which on the whole is quite a feat. Brannum tacks on a moral to some though not to all of them (Don't except things from strangers. It's nice to learn how to swim.) This, says Brannum, is not meant to reform the tots, which he believes imposible, but to give the parents a glow of righteousness.

Brannum tries out the stories on his wife and twelve-year-old son before they go on the air and they frequently rewrite them completely. What started rather innocently as a gag has already enmeshed Brannum in what may turn into a career. Already a Little Orly book is planned and a Little Orly comic strip is in the works. Decca will issue an album of the Little Orly stories for children. The records will be a better bet, I think, than the book or the comic strip since Little Orly has to be heard to be fully appreciated.

And, in spite of all this activity, Mr. Brannum still plugs away in the bass section every day except Wednesday.

MIAMA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 23—Recommended for the attention of the New Yorker magazine, the invitation to the twin premiere of "The Arch of Triumph" in Miami Beach and Palm Beach reading: "Enterprise Studios et content d'annonce la Duel Premiere ouverture du Monde du 'L'Arch de Triomph' avec Ingrid Bergman et Charles Boyer, Mardi, Fevrier 17th. Toute les place reserve a $5.00. Demi-formal. Pour reservation, Telefone 5-2018 Miami-Telefore 7913 Palm Beach (See reverse for translation)." . . . Bob Taplinger, vice president of Enterprise and an old hand at dreaming up publicity stunts, seriously announced to the local press that the four-ton replica of the Arch of Triumph shipped from their studio in Hollywood to span a Palm Beach Street, was lit "by a flame from the Eternal Flame of the Arc de Triomphe, flown from Paris," and that this flame was kept alive during the war by the French Underground, which sacrificed precious matches to keep the light of liberty burning.

Kay Thompson and the Williams Brothers, currently the most ballyhooed act in show business, are playing a return engagement at the Miami Beach Copacabana, and while the act is smart, clean, fast-moving and superbly routined, it is hardly calculated to set North River afire. Miss Thompson is lean, spinsterish and definitely unpretty; her "compagnons" are four undersized young men who sing, dance, clown and do pratfalls as a background in La Thompson's ascetic comedy. The act will soon open in New York at the spot but recently known as Cafe Society Uptown, to be operated hereafter by Max Gordon of the Village Vanguard and Herbert Jacoby of the Blue Angel, and will unquestionably appeal to the chi-chi set that patronizes the latter. . . . William W. Bailey, former N. Y. attorney and owner of Buck Island (one of the Virgin Islands), has gone to St. Thomas in the Virgin Islands to become a partner of David E. Maas, ex-FBI agent in the West Indies.

Caribbean Notes: A number of textile manufacturers are leasing and building factories in Puerto Rico, attracted by cheap labor and other advantages. There's a 12-year exemption from taxes for many industries. . . . A group of financiers has pooled some ten million dollars to be used in making Puerto Rico replace Florida as a winter vacationland. . . . Construction continues now on a new 300-room hotel there (which, incidentally, will double the hotel rooms available for tourists today) . . . . Puerto Rico's White House (in San Juan) was built for the family of Ponce de Leon in 1523, and is at present the oldest governor's mansion under the U. S. flag. . . . The U. S. Army has converted into golf courses the grounds of the old forts at the four corners of the great wall that surrounds old San Juan. . . . Three enterprising ex-GI's, Johnny Gibbs, Eugene Card and Frank Vonasek, are introducing plantation dusting (by helicopter) to the Caribbean starting with Cuba.

The Manhattan Side: Today's Woman magazine's March issue has an article by a prominent medical reporter contradicting the Kinsey report. Page 122 of the magazine (the same piece) has an interesting typo that may make it a collector's item. . . . Recently a radio newscaster announced at the end of his session, "Highest temperature today, 30 degrees. Temperature now 32 degrees." . . . Jimmy Durante's theme song, "Who Will Be With You (When, I'm Far Away)," was penned by Bill Farrell, Place Elegante's perennial, 30 years ago this week. . . . SALLY'S SALLIES

By JOHN CROSBY

Little Orly and Uncle Lumpy

Parents with a small child to entertain can shift this responsibility for a half hour at least every Wednesday to the Fred Waring organization (N. B. C. 10 a. m. Monday through Fridays). On that day Hugh Brannum, a bass player, deserts the orchestra for a few minutes to tell his hillbilly stories about the strange adventures of Little Orly, a small farm boy to whom the most extraordinary things happen.

John Crosby

In Little Orly's world pigs talk, barns dance, the wind behaves like a human. It's difficult to reproduce the Little Orly stories in print since the whole Waring organization—and a mighty big organization it is—pitches in to produce sound effects, voices and background music of wonderful ingenuity and variety. In fact, it's hard to tell whether these stories fall under the catagory of prose or music.

•—•—•

Well, Orly look up 'n' he saw 'n old shack.
The doors was all open 'n' the winders all cracked.
Orly's eyes got big 'n' he looked all araound
'n' all of a sudden he heerd a strange saound
(2 bars bass clarinet)
He stood stock still 'n' he says "I'm skeered!"
'n' then there came a saound that was twicet as weird.
(2 bars flute)
Orly grabbed up his dog 'n' held him tight
'n' still another sound came out of the night.
(2 bars piccolo)
Orly jet out a yell 'n' tried to run away
But before he took a step he heard a funny voice say:
"Oh please don't go. We won't hurt you at all.
"C'mon in the house and pay us a call."
Well, Orly jest didn't know what to do
But he spoke right up 'n' said, "Who are you?"
"Well lissen," said the voice, "Orly don't be upset
"Cause I'm just the ghost of an old clarinet."
(2 bars clarinet)

There was quite a lot more of it but that's enough to give you the idea. Not all the Little Orly stories are told in rhyme but they're all in hillbilly dialect. ("Well, naow oncet upon a time lil ole Orly he-uz awalkin' through the woods, 'n' all of a suddent he seen a funny looking bird a-settin' up in a tree.") The sound effects frequently get far more elaborate than those in the above tale. Once Dingle Jolly, Little Orly's chum, blew such a big bubble with his bubble gum that it swallowed him and started rolling down the hill picking up everything in its path—an old man, an old woman, a duck, a cow, a church—each of which protested in a highly distinctive and euphonious style.

At various other times Little Orly has learned how to fly, held a dance with all the animals in his father's barn, persuaded the mountain to release the wind from bondage, and been kidnapped by poison ivy. Now and then he gets so mad he starts cussing and that alone is worth the price of admission. Here's a sample of Little Orly's invective: "O goodness double whiz fish and fiddlesticks!"

The Little Orly stories, which Brannum both writes and delivers under the pseudonym of Uncle Lumpy, developed out of some hillbilly songs and sketches Brannum wrote for the Waring organization. The first Little Orly tales were standard nursery stories put into hillbilly dialect with considerable up-to-date revision. However, Brannum soon exhausted the supply of nursery tales and now invents his own.

While presumably for children, they are designed to amuse the adults too. They last only three or four minutes apiece and sometimes in that brief period the entire Waring group—the band, the singers, Waring and the sound effects men all get a thorough workout, which on the whole is quite a feat. Brannum tacks on a moral to some though not to all of them (Don't except things from strangers. It's nice to learn how to swim.) This, says Brannum, is not meant to reform the tots, which he believes imposible, but to give the parents a glow of righteousness.

Brannum tries out the stories on his wife and twelve-year-old son before they go on the air and they frequently rewrite them completely. What started rather innocently as a gag has already enmeshed Brannum in what may turn into a career. Already a Little Orly book is planned and a Little Orly comic strip is in the works. Decca will issue an album of the Little Orly stories for children. The records will be a better bet, I think, than the book or the comic strip since Little Orly has to be heard to be fully appreciated.

And, in spite of all this activity, Mr. Brannum still plugs away in the bass section every day except Wednesday.

Red Cross Drive At Frostburg To Start March 1

Women Will Solicit In Surrounding Towns

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—The annual Red Cross drive for the Frostburg area will open officially March 1 with headquarters in the Gunter Hotel.

Mrs. J. C. Cobey, chairman of the Frostburg Chapter, said solicitors in Frostburg proper will be assisted by a group of women in the surrounding towns. Those who have consented to serve are Mrs. Vernon Kight and Mrs. Floyd Harden, National; Miss Thelma Nicol and Miss Shirley Kerr, Woodland and Klondyke; Mrs. Alice Chapman and Mrs. Sonia McKenzie, Borden Shaft; Miss Margaret Adams and Miss Mary Hitchins, Carlos; Mrs. Goldie Winters, Miss Doris Atkinson and Miss Mary Keister, Midlothian; Miss Lois Thorpe and Miss Rankin, Borden; Mrs. William Park, Borden Road; Mrs. Hazel McClintock and her daughter, Miss Mary McClintock, Miss Dorothy Huff and Mrs. Blanche Festerman, Grahamtown.

Supplies for the workers may be obtained at Gunter Hotel February 28.

During the past year, according to Mrs. Cobey, the Frostburg Chapter provided for more than 100 families.

The work of the Red Cross Motor Corps has been especially active in providing transportation for children and parents to and from the local children's clinic at the city hall, the welfare board in Cumberland and to local hospitals to give blood transfusions.

This service has been made available to residents of Ocean, National, Klondyke and other nearby points, including Garrett County. Trips have also been made to Children's Hospital, Baltimore. The Motor Corps, formed here in 1942 with 20 members, was equipped last year with a station wagon which is operated by Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, Mrs. Kathleen Todd and Mrs. Amer Suter, who are always available for emergency calls.

It was suggested yesterday that Frostburg residents keep in mind the fact that many of the collectors will begin making calls before the official opening of the drive March 1 and in such cases have their donations ready so that return calls will be unnecessary.

Thomas Lee, 77, Eckhart, a retired miner and native of Ireland, died Monday morning in Miners Hospital where he was admitted Sunday.

A son of the late William and Mary Lee, he resided with his sister, Mrs. Ella Harriman, who was admitted to Miners Hospital Thursday after breaking her leg in a fall on ice.

Besides his sister, he is survived by two brothers, Morris Lee, of Frostburg, and William Lee, LaVale.

A funeral mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Michael's Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery. The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home.

Frostburg Briefs

The Drum and Bugle Corps of Frrady Post No. 24, American Legion, will hold a rehearsal Wednesday night at Beall Elementary School. A bake sale, sponsored by the Missionary Societies of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will be held Saturday, March 6, at 10 a. m. at Harold Carl's Photo Shop, East Main Street. Proceeds will be used to memorialize members who died in the defense of the country in World War II.

The Frostburg Homemakers will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Alice Miller, 25 Broadway.

Mrs. Annetta Gerson, Beall Street, is a patient in Miners Hospital where she underwent an operation Wednesday.

Suit For $10,000 Against Cosner Is Dismissed

Action Follows Plaintiff's Motion

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—The suit filed in Mineral County Circuit Court by Scott Alt, administrator of the estate of Hazel Alt Cosner, deceased, in which he was asking $10,000 of Oscar Cosner in the death of his daughter, Mrs. Cosner, has been dismissed on the motion of the plaintiff.

Cosner was acquitted May 14, 1947, of the baseball bat slaying of his wife at their home, September 3, 1946. After deliberating six hours the jury returned a verdict of "not guilty due to temporary insanity at the time of the slaying."

Benefit Dance Planned

An informal dance under the sponsorship of the Women's Athletic Association of Potomac State School will be held in the school auditorium next Wednesday, March 4, from 8 until 11 p. m. Music for dancing will be furnished by Jack Hardy and his orchestra of Potomac State School, who have donated their services for the occasion.

Full proceeds from the dance will be given to the World Student Service Fund, a relief organization made up of students and teachers in American colleges and schools who are endeavoring to give much-needed assistance to their fellow students and teachers in war devastated countries.

Red Cross Drive At Frostburg To Start March 1

Women Will Solicit In Surrounding Towns

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—The annual Red Cross drive for the Frostburg area will open officially March 1 with headquarters in the Gunter Hotel.

Mrs. J. C. Cobey, chairman of the Frostburg Chapter, said solicitors in Frostburg proper will be assisted by a group of women in the surrounding towns. Those who have consented to serve are Mrs. Vernon Kight and Mrs. Floyd Harden, National; Miss Thelma Nicol and Miss Shirley Kerr, Woodland and Klondyke; Mrs. Alice Chapman and Mrs. Sonia McKenzie, Borden Shaft; Miss Margaret Adams and Miss Mary Hitchins, Carlos; Mrs. Goldie Winters, Miss Doris Atkinson and Miss Mary Keister, Midlothian; Miss Lois Thorpe and Miss Rankin, Borden; Mrs. William Park, Borden Road; Mrs. Hazel McClintock and her daughter, Miss Mary McClintock, Miss Dorothy Huff and Mrs. Blanche Festerman, Grahamtown.

Supplies for the workers may be obtained at Gunter Hotel February 28.

During the past year, according to Mrs. Cobey, the Frostburg Chapter provided for more than 100 families.

The work of the Red Cross Motor Corps has been especially active in providing transportation for children and parents to and from the local children's clinic at the city hall, the welfare board in Cumberland and to local hospitals to give blood transfusions.

This service has been made available to residents of Ocean, National, Klondyke and other nearby points, including Garrett County. Trips have also been made to Children's Hospital, Baltimore. The Motor Corps, formed here in 1942 with 20 members, was equipped last year with a station wagon which is operated by Mrs. Edward J. Ryan, Mrs. Kathleen Todd and Mrs. Amer Suter, who are always available for emergency calls.

It was suggested yesterday that Frostburg residents keep in mind the fact that many of the collectors will begin making calls before the official opening of the drive March 1 and in such cases have their donations ready so that return calls will be unnecessary.

Thomas Lee Dies

Thomas Lee, 77, Eckhart, a retired miner and native of Ireland, died Monday morning in Miners Hospital where he was admitted Sunday.

A son of the late William and Mary Lee, he resided with his sister, Mrs. Ella Harriman, who was admitted to Miners Hospital Thursday after breaking her leg in a fall on ice.

Besides his sister, he is survived by two brothers, Morris Lee, of Frostburg, and William Lee, LaVale.

A funeral mass will be celebrated Wednesday at 9:30 a. m. in St. Michael's Church. Interment will be in the church cemetery. The body is at the Hafer Funeral Home.

DINNER PLANNED FOR ORGAN FUND

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING—A George Washington dinner will be held today from 5 to 7 p. m. at First Methodist Church for the benefit of the organ fund. A candy sale will also be held.

Brief Items

The Lonaconing Homemakers Club featured a clothing demonstration by Mrs. James Crable, Church Street, at the meeting last night in the Red Cross room, Main Street. Arrangements to participate in the Stephen Foster pageant of the Allegany County Homemakers clubs in May were also made.

The Lonaconing Red Cross fund drive will open with a meeting Wednesday afternoon at the Red Cross room, Main Street.

A special meeting of Frostburg Lodge No. 470, B.P.O. Elks, will be held tonight, when candidates of the local lodge will be initiated by officers of Cumberland Lodge No. 63. Following the business meeting refreshments will be served.

A bake sale, sponsored by the Missionary Societies of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, will be held Saturday, March 6, at 10 a. m. at Harold Carl's Photo Shop, East Main Street. Proceeds will be used to memorialize members who died in the defense of the country in World War II.

The Frostburg Homemakers will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Alice Miller, 25 Broadway.

Mrs. Annetta Gerson, Beall Street, is a patient in Miners Hospital where she underwent an operation Wednesday.

Police identified the injured woman as Miss Ruth Humbertson, Oldtown Road, and said she suffered head injuries when she was thrown against the windshield of a truck operated by John H. Humbertson, also Oldtown.

Humbertson's truck, according to police, collided with an automobile operated by Daniel P. Handley, Potomac Street. Handley was fined $5 in Police Court yesterday after he told the magistrate that he "may have made a turn at the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Williams Street too fast."

The impounded car, police said, is owned by Rachel R. Dayton, Keyser but was operated by Glendon W. Dayton, McCoole, when it struck a fire hydrant on Greene Street Sunday morning. The car is being held pending payment for damage to city property.

Police are also searching for the operator of a car which struck the parked machine of Paul Shipley, 108 Greene Street, and Otis Bean, 16 Laing Avenue, about 12:15 a. m. Sunday on Greene Street.

Witnesses, according to authorities, said the driver stopped, got out of the car and then drove off after making a sarcastic comment.

In a reply to a resolution sent to him by Mayor Thomas S. Post several days ago, Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D. Md.) pledged his full consideration to the Cumberland flood control plan both in the Senate Appropriations Committee and on the Senate floor.

I have been in touch with the committee and I feel sure you have been in touch with members of the Maryland delegation in the House.

"As you know, I am a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee and when this bill comes to the Senate, I will give this matter my consideration both in the committee and on the floor in an effort to do all that I can to be helpful."

One Fatal Accident Here During January

One person was killed and 14 more injured in 24 traffic accidents reported in Allegany County during January, according to the Maryland Traffic Safety Commission, which also listed 25 fatal accidents in the state for the same period.

The fatality occurred in Cumberland when Philip Samuel Hollar, 55, B. and O. railroader from Brunswick, was killed on Route 40 at the western limit of the city on January 11.

One fatal accident was also reported in Garrett County, with the victim identified as Lawrence Shellingburg, Aurora, W. Va., who died from injuries suffered in an auto-truck collision on Route 219, two miles south of Oakland, January 17.

Police Probe Four Weekend Accidents

A local woman was injured, a driver fined in Police Court, an automobile impounded, and police were seeking for a hit-run driver yesterday, as the result of four motor vehicle accidents over the weekend.

Police identified the injured woman as Miss Ruth Humbertson, Oldtown Road, and said she suffered head injuries when she was thrown against the windshield of a truck operated by John H. Humbertson, also Oldtown.

Humbertson's truck, according to police, collided with an automobile operated by Daniel P. Handley, Potomac Street. Handley was fined $5 in Police Court yesterday after he told the magistrate that he "may have made a turn at the intersection of Maryland Avenue and Williams Street too fast."

The impounded car, police said, is owned by Rachel R. Dayton, Keyser but was operated by Glendon W. Dayton, McCoole, when it struck a fire hydrant on Greene Street Sunday morning. The car is being held pending payment for damage to city property.

Police are also searching for the operator of a car which struck the parked machine of Paul Shipley, 108 Greene Street, and Otis Bean, 16 Laing Avenue, about 12:15 a. m. Sunday on Greene Street.

Witnesses, according to authorities, said the driver stopped, got out of the car and then drove off after making a sarcastic comment.

Tydings Backs Flood Plan

In a reply to a resolution sent to him by Mayor Thomas S. Post several days ago, Sen. Millard E. Tydings (D. Md.) pledged his full consideration to the Cumberland flood control plan both in the Senate Appropriations Committee and on the Senate floor.

"It is my understanding," Tydings wrote, "that the Civil Functions Appropriations Bill for the Army, which would carry this item, if approved, is now under consideration in the House Appropriations Committee. I have been in touch with the committee and I feel sure you have been in touch with members of the Maryland delegation in the House.

"As you know, I am a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee and when this bill comes to the Senate, I will give this matter my consideration both in the committee and on the floor in an effort to do all that I can to be helpful."

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my beloved husband, James R. Williams, who passed away one year ago, February 24, 1947.

I cannot say, and I will not say,
That he is dead, he is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land.
Think of him still as the same, I say
He is not dead—he's just away.

Sadly missed by his wife, MRS. MARY WILLIAMS.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my beloved husband, James R. Williams, who passed away one year ago, February 24, 1947.

I cannot say, and I will not say,
That he is dead, he is just away.
With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land.
Think of him still as the same, I say
He is not dead—he's just away.

Sadly missed by his wife, MRS. MARY WILLIAMS.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank those who helped during the illness and at the time of our wife and mother's death. We especially wish to thank Rev. Gordon G. Jones, those who acted as pallbearers, those who sent flowers and donated cars for the funeral.
JAMES C. RILEY, SR. & CHILDREN.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy during our recent bereavement, the sudden death of our wife and Mother, Mrs. Mary Ellen Summers. We also wish to thank the pallbearers, those who sent floral tributes and those who loaned cars for the funeral.
HUSBAND, CHILDREN & GRANDCHILDREN.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
In the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland. Dorothy Ann Metz vs. James Franklin Metz, No. 20334 Equity.
The object of this suit to procure a divorce A VINCULO MATRIMONII by the plaintiff from the defendant.
The Bill of Complaint states that the parties were married at Salisbury, Maryland on the 10th day of August, 1939, and thereafter, resided together as husband and wife in Allegany County, Maryland until on or about the 24th day of May, 1944; that on or about the day and date aforesaid, the said defendant, without just cause or reason, abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and that said abandonment and desertion has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months before the filing of the Bill of Complaint in this case and was deliberate and final on the part of said defendant, and the separation of the parties hereto is beyond any reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation; that the plaintiff and defendant have both been residents of Allegany County, Maryland for more than one year before the filing of this suit, but that the said defendant has twice been returned NON EST and is without the Jurisdiction of Allegany County, and the defendant's whereabouts is unknown to the plaintiff; that three children, all of whom are residing with the plaintiff, were born as a result of said marriage, and the plaintiff seeks the permanent custody and guardianship of said infant children.
It is thereupon ordered this 14th day of February, 1948, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland, that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper published in the City of Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland, once in each of four successive weeks before the 17th day of March, 1948, giving notice of the object and substance of this Bill to said defendant, James Franklin Metz, as provided by law in the case of non-residents, warning him to be and appear in this Court in person or by Solicitor on or before the 2nd day of April, 1947, to show cause, if any he may have, why a Decree should not be granted as prayed.

1,777 New Voters Eligible To Cast Ballots In City

Young Registrants Show New Interest

Registering in unprecedented numbers so they can vote in the city Primary election March 2 and General election March 16, a total of 1,337 men and women placed their names on the city poll books yesterday. With a total of 440 new registrations the previous Monday, this makes a total of 1,777 new voters in the city.

Registrars worked several hours after the 20 registration places closed at 8 p. m. yesterday, and some did not finish the day's task until near midnight. In one registration place, 32 persons were standing in line at closing time, and were registered because they were inside before the closing hour.

Throughout all of the city's polling places, the story was much the same. The vast majority of new registrants were young people, and a large percentage were young veterans and their wives. Many of these men came home from service too late to register two years ago.

The highest number registered in any one precinct was at Ward 5, Precinct 2, Ray's Homemade Shop, Maryland and Central Avenues, where 119 new names were listed. Last week this precinct registered 28, for a total of 147 in two days.

The fewest number registered at Ward 3, Precinct 3, Bedford Street, where 28 names were added yesterday and 10 last week for a total of 38.

Interest Urged In Recreational Facilities Here

Suggestions Made In Panel Program

Allegany County has endless facilities for recreation, but those facilities will not be developed until sufficient group interest is shown, specialists in recreational planning said last night during a panel discussion at Allegany High School.

The discussion on development of a county-wide recreation program, sponsored by Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, was attended by 75 persons.

Mrs. C. Erich Roeder, who acted as moderator, said the AAUW social studies committee will continue its present program of stressing the need for recreation. She said the film "Playground, USA" will be made available to county groups for that purpose, and asked suggestions for future programs.

Cites Need For Interest

Edward B. Ballard, Annapolis, assistant director of forest and parks, pointed out that Green Ridge State Forest and Savage River State Forest have great potentialities for development, but that expenditure of public funds would not be warranted unless sufficient interest were shown.

Dr. Thomas G. Ferguson, Baltimore, state supervisor of physical education, said county residents should study opportunities for recreation available "at their doorstep," such as nature study, dramatics, music, library use and social activities.

In developing a recreation program, he warned, "first things should come first." He said at the start the program should be neither too large nor too costly, adding that once it is started, public interest will grow accordingly.

Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, who took part in the panel discussion, suggested that other county communities could develop orchestras and choral groups similar to the community organizations in Cumberland, without waiting for a county-wide recreation program to be instituted.

John W. Faust, New York, district representative of the National Recreation Association, cited several examples of successful recreation programs in eastern cities, stressing the importance of skilled leadership.

Kopp said city and county governments should have a vital interest in recreation as a means of developing well-balanced individuals, who in turn encourage a well-balanced community life.

Describes Project

At his request, Edward M. Kirk, president of the Gephart Playground Association, described that group's work in providing a skating rink which has attracted hundreds of persons this winter.

Kirk said the association, which developed the project without aid from the city, plans to expand the playground to include a concrete space for roller skating, and separate sections for younger and older children, with swings and other equipment.

Mrs. John J. Hafer, AAUW president, raised the question of the referendum on the proposed $150,000 bond issue for Cumberland playgrounds which will be voted on at the March 16 general election in the city.

Wilbur D. Sills said the recreation bond "will be well worth" whatever it may cost, and Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller said money raised by the bond issue would be used to purchase equipment as well as land for playgrounds.

Mrs. Hafer expressed the view the regular playground appropriation would be sufficient without authorizing the bond issue.

John J. Long, chairman of the former City Recreation Board, which included Kopp and Mrs. Roeder, reviewed briefly the reasons why board members resigned last May.

Long said the group was informed by Charles Z. Heskett, then city attorney, that in effect it had no authority under the ordinance creating the board.

"We were not interested in politics, and we couldn't work against a stone wall," Long said.

Kopp said efforts to organize a recreation program should be "reattempted."

Two Local Pilots Refused Use Of Airport Lights

State Mayor Gave "No Lights" Order

Two local aviation enthusiasts last night were refused landing light facilities at the Municipal Airport and said they were informed that Mayor Thomas S. Post issued the "no lights" order to the maintenance manager.

Mayor Post declined to comment on the situation, but members of the Municipal Airport Commission explained that the Mayor probably was within his rights, since he has been handling airport affairs since the Cumberland Airways, Inc., lease expired January 1.

W. Donald Smith, 906 Camden Avenue, said he appeared at the airport with the intention of flying several hours as a means of qualifying for a night pilot's license. Marvin Eye, airport attendant, however, refused to light the landing lamps, Smith said, and explained that he had orders not to.

Eye later said his orders were issued by Charles Heller, maintenance manager. Smith said he flew his plane last Tuesday night and intended to pay the cost of lighting the lamps last night as well as last Tuesday.

Smith explained that he received expense rates from the Potomac Edison Company regarding the cost of burning the lights and was informed it cost 32 cents to operate the lights for an hour.

George Ruhl, Civil Aeronautics Authority instructor, who was overseeing Smith's night flights, said the Mayor's action is hindering flying interest in the city.

T. Donald Shires, secretary of the Municipal Airport Commission, explained that while no official action was taken by the Commission to appoint the Mayor to oversee airport activities from the time the lease expired until March 1, when a new lease will be effective, the mayor has been acting in an executive capacity.

The question of turning on lights at night, Shires said, has not been raised before the commission during this period.

Mayor Post refused to say if the order was issued by him or what action he has taken in airport activities since the lease expired.

Two Youths Hurt While Skiing

Two youths were treated in Allegany Hospital last night for lacerations suffered in skiing accidents.

They were James Diehl, 19, 819 Mann's Terrace, who was treated for a one-inch laceration on the left knee after he fell while skiing, and Bradford Speelman, 17, Route 6, Potomac Park, for a laceration on the left wrist inflicted by a piece of glass while he was skiing.

Roy J. Loar, 27, 15 Maple Street, Frostburg, was treated in Allegany yesterday for a severe puncture wound in the right knee. The county roads workers said a brush hook struck his knee.

John Albert Aman, Jr., 3, 213 Hay Street, was treated in Allegany yesterday after his arm was caught in a washing machine wringer; Mrs. Paul Minke, 38, 410 Robbins Terrace, for a cut hand suffered while slicing meat, and Tim Law, LaVale, for a severe laceration on the first finger of the right hand after he was bitten by a dog.

HAGERSTOWN MEN TO SPEAK TO AFL HEADS

A delegation from the Hagerstown Central Labor Union will appear before the Allegany Trades Council at a meeting of the AFL group here tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Earl Rider, Philadelphia, AFL organizer, will accompany the group and an AFL official said the group will confer with AFL leaders of this county on possible political activity in this area.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the council, was authorized at the last meeting to appoint a committee to organize an "educational and information program" as set forth by AFL leaders to head off unfavorable legislation.

Other AFL meetings planned here this week include a regular meeting of Local 307, Electrical Workers Union, Thursday at 7:30 p. m. and the Building and Construction Trades Council Friday at 8 p. m. Both meetings will be in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Covington Paper Local Says Firm Will Not Bargain

Absence Of Key Men Disturbs Production

COVINGTON, Va., Feb. 23—(AP)—Local 675 of the United Paperworkers of America (CIO) today charged the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company with "violating all concepts of collective bargaining."

The local, representing workers at the company's Covington plant, said it was problematical whether the company was "interested in keeping the mill operating" or "more interested in destroying the union."

The company in a statement charged the union with "an organized effort to disturb production, chiefly by the refusal of employes to stay on or fill in in order to keep the mill going when absences occurred in key spots."

The UPA local has disclaimed responsibility for absences which have forced some paper machines to shut down at intervals during the past few days.

A union spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, said the local "challenged" the company to show that the union was responsible for "any of the absenteeism."

He said the company was "violating all concepts of collective bargaining and good labor-management relations by their vicious attack upon the union through the radio and press."

Earlier this month the union demanded an increase of from 25 to 35 cents per hour for all hourly paid employes, according to a statement released by the plant.

"The company was compelled to reject this demand," the statement read. "It would amount to slow suicide for both the mill and the employes."

Wage talks between representatives of the union and the company, which employs 2,500 persons, were held under a reopening clause of the company-union contract, not due to expire until August.

Two other plants of the company covered with the Covington plant as one unit in the contract, were reported to be in normal operation today. They are the Williamsburg, Pa., and the Luke, Md., plants.

Light Attacks C. Of C.; Post, Finan Clash

Mayor Questions Attorney's Stand

A verbal clash between Mayor Thomas S. Post and City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan over payment for the city audit, and an attack on the Chamber of Commerce by Street Commissioner Myers G. Light sparked the city's council meeting yesterday.

Light's attack on the Chamber of Commerce resulted from a letter submitted by the organization refering to "the dirty condition of our streets." The chamber should "tend to its own business," Light declared.

"What has the Chamber of Commerce done in the past 25 years?" Light demanded. "They are supposed to bring new industries to the city. The last was the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. If the chamber would tend to its own business instead of sticking its nose into other peoples' business we'd be better off," he asserted.

"I don't understand the Chamber of Commerce's stand in this matter," Light told the Mayor and Council. "It's out of the question to clean the cinders off the streets with the snows we've been having. Those cinders were placed to prevent accidents."

The verbal exchange between the Mayor and Finan occurred after Finan reported to the Mayor and Council on a letter sent to the municipal body last week by Charles F. Burke, Jr., city tax collector, who stated his January collections were being held up by Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

Finan declared that Gibson was under the impression Burke was to pay for the audit, but Burke made no such commitment, the city solicitor said, adding "from a legal standpoint I can't see how Burke can be made to pay for it."

Mayor Post immediately queried, "Mr. Finan, do you represent the people of Cumberland or the tax collector? I don't like your attitude in this matter. It seems to me you're kind of pleading for the tax collector."

Finan told the Mayor and Council he had called former City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett, now in Florida, and was informed that Burke made no commitment in regards to paying for the audit. Heskett also reported, according to Finan, that the tax collector was not present at any of the meetings in connection with making arrangements for the audit.

"The audit," the mayor retorted, "was ordered because or irregularities. I'm keeping it on the books."

Finan replied "I thought the Mayor was capable of handling the discussion of the matter on an unbiased basis." No further action was taken on the question at the Council meeting.

Cumberland Is Basis For Magazine Story

Cumberland's industries and geographical location, its religious habits and family life are featured in an article entitled "Cumberland" published in the March issue of "Home Life," a Christian family magazine published by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The article is written by Joe W. Burton who, in the story, tells of his visit during the Celanese strike and also mentions interviews with several of the citizens.

Load Limit May Be Lifted On Route 220

Restrictions on vehicle load limitations will be lifted on Route 220 from the Pennsylvania line to the Virginia line, G. Bates Chaires, Maryland Roads Commission district engineer, said yesterday.

Chaires said the load restrictions for heavy vehicles will continue in effect on all other state roads, however, until the frost is completely out of the ground.

Trucks that are believed to be overloaded are being weighed, according to Chaires, who said approximately 40 violators have been fined through the state since the restrictions were placed in effect last Saturday.

Temperature Reading

Mercury had its ups and downs yesterday, climbing from a minimum of 12 above to a maximum of 40 above. The afternoon temperatures which stayed well above freezing brought a steady thaw of the snow and ice, creating slush on streets, sidewalks and highways. Last night, however, temperature fell steadily and at 10 p. m. was reported at 24 above zero, with a further drop expected before morning. At 8 a. m. yesterday mercury was at 15 above. Skies remained clear most of the day and last night. No new snow was reported in the area. Mild and slightly cloudy weather is predicted for today.

$25 Theft Is Probed By Cumberland Police

The reported theft of $25 from a Bedford Street barber shop was being probed by police last night along with a breaking and entering at the Law Building, 117 South Liberty Street. Both occurred early Monday morning, according to authorities.

Police said intruders gained entrance to the barber shop operated by Harry Price at 114 Bedford Street by forcing a window. The money was removed from the cash register, they explained.

Nothing was taken from the law building, according to police, who said the offices of Gorman E. Getty, Hume O. Annan and George Tederick were entered after the intruders gained entrance through the basement.

Killed In Crash

A man identified as Amos Franklin Sager, 23, address not available, was killed yesterday in Jefferson County, W. Va., when the car he was driving wrecked, West Virginia State Police reported last night.

Motorist Forfeits Bond

Charged with careless driving, George Sapp, 19 Humbird Street, yesterday forfeited $10 bond when he failed to appear for a hearing in Police Court.

ARBITRATION CASES TO BE HEARD TODAY

Arbitration hearings will begin this morning in the Allegany County Court House on two disputes between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO.

The testimony will be heard before Sidney A. Wolff, New York City arbitrator, on the S-13 and the Newman and Breedlove cases.

The first case, S-13, a request by the union for an interpretation of that clause in the contract, is considered the more important since it affects seniority liability following an emergency shutdown.

The second case, that of Francis S. Newman and Loren W. Breedlove, involves separation pay resulting from technological improvements at the plant.

Wesley Cook, New York, assistant TWUA rayon director, will head the union delegation. Two days have been allotted for the hearings if necessary.

City-Wide Egg Hunt Will Be Held In Constitution Park Easter Sunday

"Kisses from Heaven" will be one of the dramatic features of the city-wide Easter Sunday celebration which is being planned at Constitution Park for the children of Cumberland, Ted Licot, recreational director of the park, announced yesterday.

The chief event of the afternoon, Licot said, will be an egg hunt for children up to 14 years of age to be held throughout the park. Plans are being made for at least 1,000 participants, he added.

Licot said he already had been assured of 150 dozens of eggs which members of the Cumberland Playground Association have promised to cook and color for the egg hunt.

Local merchants, he explained, will be asked to donate prizes which will be awarded to the persons who find the eggs marked with the winning numbers.

A plane has already been secured to drop some 50 pounds of candy kisses from about 1,000 feet over the ball field for the crowd about 1:30 o'clock Easter afternoon.

Parents will be allowed to accompany small children in the egg hunt which Licot said will be held throughout the entire park.

No eggs, however, will be hidden within 100 feet of flowers or shrubs in the park.

The Mayor and City Council, he said, have given permission to hold the egg hunt Easter afternoon.

Licot said he hopes the Constitution Park egg hunt will become an annual affair here.

Student Nurse Recruiting Drive Planned In Area

Committee Heads To Meet Sunday

Plans for an intensive recruiting drive for student nurses within a 150-mile radius of Cumberland were made yesterday at a meeting of the organization committee at the Allegany Hospital Nurses' Home, 212 Decatur Street.

Miss Anne Sloan, Lonaconing, chairman, presided at the meeting, which marked the official opening of the campaign, the first of its kind to be held in this area.

Because of the need for more nurses in the Tri-State area, the goal of the recruiting campaign will be to secure 100 young women to enter the September classes of the schools of nursing at Allegany and Memorial Hospitals.

Miss Sloan explained she hopes to appoint chairmen at large in 13 neighboring counties, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties in Maryland; Mineral, Grant, Hardy,, Pendleton, Tucker and Hampshire counties of West Virginia; and Westmoreland, Somerset, Bedford and Franklin counties in Pennsylvania.

Chairmen Nominated

The group suggested nominations for chairmen of five committees to serve in Cumberland and Allegany County, who would enlist the aid of secondary schools and colleges, church groups, clubs and other organizations both in securing prospective student nurses and in building up scholarship funds for young women who could not otherwise enter training.

Sister Mary Bernard, director of the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing, and Miss Frances Loftus, director of the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, both of whom attended the meeting, agreed to serve on the hospital committee.

Functions of that group would include providing specified information and a speakers' bureau to promote the campaign and to arrange for "open house" programs and tours through the two hospitals.

Miss Pauline McEvoy and Miss Mary Louise Buzzell will serve on the publicity committee, with other members to be appointed later.

A meeting of the organization group and committee chairmen will be held next Sunday at 8 p. m. at the nurses' home, 212 Decatur Street, to plan for a public meeting in behalf of the campaign.

Miss Loftus suggested that the chairman of the church committee be assisted by three co-chairmen representing Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups.

The clubs and organizations committee will be headed by two co-chairmen to work with men's and women's clubs, respectively.

Increased Need Cited

Sister Vincent Marie, superintendent of Allegany Hospital, said the current shortage of nurses has developed because of an increased need rather than because fewer nurses are in training.

Mrs. Arthur Bright, president of the Woman's Civic Club and a member of the organization committee, pointed out that hospital services have also increased, necessitating more nurses.

Miss Loftus explained that a number of nurses have joined the Army and Navy Nurse Corps, while others have married or have accepted nursing positions in industry, thus cutting down the number available for hospital duty.

Miss Sloan said some young women feel that college girls are less restricted than are student nurses, but Mrs. Bright said that is not the case in numerous colleges, where student activities are rigidly supervised.

Also attending the two-hour meeting was Miss Carmela A. Guarino, instructor at the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing. Refreshments were served following the session.

Related Instruction Classes Open Tonight

Approximately 125 veterans of World War II who are enrolled in on-the job training programs in the city, will begin tonight to attend related instruction classes at Fort Hill High School, according to J. D. Lonnholm, director of veterans' education.

Classes will be formed at Beall High School Wednesday night for veterans in the George's Creek region, and will continue each Tuesday and Thursday night at both schools until the advent of summer.

The classes, which deal with mechanical trades, are offered to give veterans taking on-the job-training the opportunity to fill the required minimum of 144 hours related instruction.

Classes will meet at 7 p. m. and continue until 9 p. m. Thomas R. Hinds and Robert Martin are instructors at Fort Hill while Lawrence Hayes will conduct classes at Frostburg.

Wanted: A Terrapin

Just about the time you think you know all the answers something like this comes along.

Officials of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce take in their stride appeals for such souvenirs as pencils, ash trays, embroidered pillows and pennants, but here's a request from a Columbus, O., youth that isn't in the book.

"Dear Sirs: I am collecting reptiles. Will you please send me a Diamond Back Terrapin.

P. S.—Will you please tell me what to feed it?"

Mayor To Call Charter Group Meeting Soon

Six New Members Asked To Serve

Stating that only one more appointment is needed to complete Cumberland's charter commission, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he plans to call the first meeting of the group early in March.

Six additional appointments were approved at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, bringing the present membership to 13.

The mayor said a 14th person, probably a newspaperman, will be named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of O. J. Hale, who was among the first eight persons to be appointed to the commission December 1.

Hale, former assistant managing editor of The Cumberland News, left last month for New Brunswick, N. J., to become executive secretary of the New Jersey Press Association.

Mayor Post said commission members will meet to organize the group, elect a chairman and other officers, and make plans to study the report of Dr. Joseph M. Ray, of the University of Maryland, with the purpose of submitting recommendations for favorable legislation and a proposed new city charter.

In his report, Dr. Ray recommended home rule and the city manager type of government for Cumberland. He made a similar recommendation in an earlier study of Hagerstown's municipal government.

Following approval of the new appointments, the mayor yesterday mailed letters to the six appointees, explaining the purpose of the commission and asking them to serve.

Those named were Alexander R. Buchanan, Narrows Park, president of the Buchanan Lumber Company; Owen E. Hitchins, 825 Buckingham Road, president of the Tri-State Mining and Mill Supply Company; Former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, 821 Buckingham Road; Charles A. Piper, 105 Luteman Road, president of Liberty Trust Company; Fred T. Small, 23 Washington Street, manager of the local Celanese plant; and W. J. Jones, 122 Hanover Street, labor.

Others named earlier were W. Earl Cobey, attorney, 819 Windsor Road; Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor, 210 Carroll Street; Thomas Lohr Richards, attorney, 843 Mt. Royal Avenue; Jean N. Bourckel, 127 Oak Street, labor; Earl L. Bracey, 218 Carroll Street, principal of Carver High School; Mrs. Emma M. Everstine, 624 North Mechanic Street, real estate; and Isaac Hirsch, 646 Washington Street, business.

Planet Mars Seen By Many Persons

Several persons telephoned the News office last night to call attention to a "big star that seems to be following the moon," and inquired as to what it is.

Harold Deetz and his son, James, Baltimore Avenue, who have one of the largest telescopes in the city, and who are quite well informed on the stars and the general subject of astronomy, identified the "big star" as Mars. They explain the planet is at its closest point to earth in many years.

Both Harold and James Deetz have been watching Mars since it appeared a couple of nights ago, and James made a sketch of the canals which seem to form a large triangle across its surface.

They also called attention to the fact that Saturn is also visible and appears in the same general area as Mars, in the easterly sky. Venus is also visible now in the western sky. In the early morning hours, James Deetz said, he has observed Jupiter, another interesting planet, during the past few days.

With Mars visible to the naked eye and seen in the early evening near the Moon, some people get the idea "there is a star following the Moon." But the local amateur astronomers say this is not true. It is actually an illusion, caused by the movement of the Earth and the planet. Later on the Moon will appear to be behind Mars, and not in front of it, they explain.

In May, they say they plan to observe a comet which is expected to appear, and are looking forward to this phenomenon with a great deal of interest.

Four Day Week Again Planned At Kelly Plant

Fuel Shortage Causes Minor Celanese Layoffs

A four-day week and "light furloughs" will be scheduled at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant this week, and the Celanese plant said limited furloughs had been placed in effect in one unit of that plant due to fuel shortages.

The local tire plant was placed on four-day operations last week also, the first time since prior to the war that work has been cut back to that rate.

A plant spokesman said the four-day schedule resulted in an average production drop of 20 per cent and added he hoped the cut would be less severe during the rest of the month.

Most of the furloughs are being made throughout the plant and staggered as to time so that the effect is not great, it was explained.

Has Been Booming

The plant has been operating on a six and seven day schedule for the most part for the past few years. There were scarcely any five day weeks last year, while operations were chiefly scheduled for six and sometimes seven days.

Union officials said they were told yesterday that lists of men to be furloughed are being prepared but added the only definite figure they had was a list of 17 to be dropped this week in the tube room.

A shortage of fuel was given as the cause of a limited furlough yesterday in the Cellulose-Acetate department of the Celanese plant.

Plant Not Affected

A company spokesman said about 100 employes of that department will be furloughed but added that the rest of the plant will not be affected.

He said he did not know how long the furloughs would last.

The gas company, he explained, cuts back the gas supply for industrial plants when cold weather creates greater demand for home and commercial users.

Both the Celanese plant, which depends on propane gas as a standby fuel, and the Luke paper plant, which uses oil for the same purpose, are able to operate as usual when cold weather strikes only so long as supplies of the standby fuel last or can be replaced.

Valley Road Will Get Water Supply

The Mayor and City Council yesterday promised 58 residents of the Valley Road section relief from a water supply shortage as soon as the 5,000 feet of pipe necessary to extend the city water line becomes available.

Attorney James Alfred Avirett appeared for the 58 taxpayers and said that because of the present water shortage a serious danger of typhoid exists. The fire hazard is especially great, Avirett told the municipal body.

Commissioner of Water and Light William J. Edwards told Avirett the city would be co-operative as possible and Street Commissioner Myers G. Light termed the request "just."

A group of South End citizens presented a petition to the Mayor and City Council protesting against the Potomac Edison Company being permitted to dump flyash on Tin Plate Mill property. City Attorney Thomas B. Finan was ordered to check the ordinance file to see if the council can take action.

A $2,000 donation from the city to Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross was ordered paid from the "Movie Charity Fund."

A $9,190 payment to the Cumberland Contracting Company for first and final estimates for work performed on the construction of roading improvement on Ford Avenue and the C. and O. Canal was ordered paid.

The city took under advisement a complaint by Guy F. Clark, 300 South Street, that a run back of South Street floods his ground during heavy rains, making it useless.

The Mayor and Council ordered a refund of taxes to Mountain Chapter No. 166, Military Order of the Purple Heart, for taxes on the grounds and building at 772 Greene Street.

City Engineer Ralph L. Rizer showed plans for widening Baltimore Avenue from Goethe Street to Weber Street by utilizing vacant ground along the street.

Road Resurfacing Contract Awarded

The Cumberland Contracting Company received word last night from the Maryland State Roads Commission that it has been awarded a contract to resurface 6.41 miles of Route 36 between Frostburg and Midland on its bid of $149,378, according to Earl C. Robertson, a company official.

The contract also includes resurfacing a short piece of Route 36 in the vicinity of Miners Hospital, Frostburg, and a short section of U. S. Route 40, between Eckhart and Frostburg.

Robertson said the contract calls for resurfacing the roads with blacktop, using State Roads specification D. He estimated that three months will be required to complete the project, and work is expected to begin about April 1, when weather is right.

Candidates May Speak

Candidates in the coming city election will be given an opportunity to present their views at an open meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

The meeting is open to all who desire the support of the Celanese local, Playford Aldridge, president, said. Several members of the local are candidates for council posts.

1,777 New Voters Eligible To Cast Ballots In City

Young Registrants Show New Interest

Registering in unprecedented numbers so they can vote in the city Primary election March 2 and General election March 16, a total of 1,337 men and women placed their names on the city poll books yesterday. With a total of 440 new registrations the previous Monday, this makes a total of 1,777 new voters in the city.

Registrars worked several hours after the 20 registration places closed at 8 p. m. yesterday, and some did not finish the day's task until near midnight. In one registration place, 32 persons were standing in line at closing time, and were registered because they were inside before the closing hour.

Throughout all of the city's polling places, the story was much the same. The vast majority of new registrants were young people, and a large percentage were young veterans and their wives. Many of these men came home from service too late to register two years ago.

Political observers commented, "There were enough new people registered yesterday to swing any election one way or the other."

$25 Theft Is Probed By Cumberland Police

The reported theft of $25 from a Bedford Street barber shop was being probed by police last night along with a breaking and entering at the Law Building, 117 South Liberty Street. Both occurred early Monday morning, according to authorities.

Police said intruders gained entrance to the barber shop operated by Harry Price at 114 Bedford Street by forcing a window. The money was removed from the cash register, they explained.

Nothing was taken from the law building, according to police, who said the offices of Gorman E. Getty, Hume O. Annan and George Tederick were entered after the intruders gained entrance through the basement.

Killed In Crash

A man identified as Amos Franklin Sager, 23, address not available, was killed yesterday in Jefferson County, W. Va., when the car he was driving wrecked, West Virginia State Police reported last night.

Motorist Forfeits Bond

Interest Urged In Recreational Facilities Here

Suggestions Made In Panel Program

Allegany County has endless facilities for recreation, but those facilities will not be developed until sufficient group interest is shown, specialists in recreational planning said last night during a panel discussion at Allegany High School.

The discussion on development of a county-wide recreation program, sponsored by Cumberland branch, American Association of University Women, was attended by 75 persons.

Mrs. C. Erich Roeder, who acted as moderator, said the AAUW social studies committee will continue its present program of stressing the need for recreation. She said the film "Playground, USA" will be made available to county groups for that purpose, and asked suggestions for future programs.

Cites Need For Interest

Edward B. Ballard, Annapolis, assistant director of forest and parks, pointed out that Green Ridge State Forest and Savage River State Forest have great potentialities for development, but that expenditure of public funds would not be warranted unless sufficient interest were shown.

Dr. Thomas G. Ferguson, Baltimore, state supervisor of physical education, said county residents should study opportunities for recreation available "at their doorstep," such as nature study, dramatics, music, library use and social activities.

In developing a recreation program, he warned, "first things should come first." He said at the start the program should be neither too large nor too costly, adding that once it is started, public interest will grow accordingly.

Charles L. Kopp, county superintendent of schools, who took part in the panel discussion, suggested that other county communities could develop orchestras and choral groups similar to the community organizations in Cumberland, without waiting for a county-wide recreation program to be instituted.

John W. Faust, New York, district representative of the National Recreation Association, cited several examples of successful recreation programs in eastern cities, stressing the importance of skilled leadership.

Kopp said city and county governments should have a vital interest in recreation as a means of developing well-balanced individuals, who in turn encourage a well-balanced community life.

Describes Project

At his request, Edward M. Kirk, president of the Gephart Playground Association, described that group's work in providing a skating rink which has attracted hundreds of persons this winter.

Kirk said the association, which developed the project without aid from the city, plans to expand the playground to include a concrete space for roller skating, and separate sections for younger and older children, with swings and other equipment.

Mrs. John J. Hafer, AAUW president, raised the question of the referendum on the proposed $150,000 bond issue for Cumberland playgrounds which will be voted on at the March 16 general election in the city.

Wilbur D. Sills said the recreation bond "will be well worth" whatever it may cost, and Finance Commissioner Clifton E. Fuller said money raised by the bond issue would be used to purchase equipment as well as land for playgrounds.

Mrs. Hafer expressed the view the regular playground appropriation would be sufficient without authorizing the bond issue.

John J. Long, chairman of the former City Recreation Board, which included Kopp and Mrs. Roeder, reviewed briefly the reasons why board members resigned last May.

Long said the group was informed by Charles Z. Heskett, then city attorney, that in effect it had no authority under the ordinance creating the board.

"We were not interested in politics, and we couldn't work against a stone wall," Long said.

Kopp said efforts to organize a recreation program should be "reattempted."

Load Limit May Be Lifted On Route 220

Restrictions on vehicle load limitations will be lifted on Route 220 from the Pennsylvania line to the Virginia line, G. Bates Chaires, Maryland Roads Commission district engineer, said yesterday.

Chaires said the load restrictions for heavy vehicles will continue in effect on all other state roads, however, until the frost is completely out of the ground.

Trucks that are believed to be overloaded are being weighed, according to Chaires, who said approximately 40 violators have been fined through the state since the restrictions were placed in effect last Saturday.

Temperature Reading

Mercury had its ups and downs yesterday, climbing from a minimum of 12 above to a maximum of 40 above. The afternoon temperatures which stayed well above freezing brought a steady thaw of the snow and ice, creating slush on streets, sidewalks and highways. Last night, however, temperature fell steadily and at 10 p. m. was reported at 24 above zero, with a further drop expected before morning. At 8 a. m. yesterday mercury was at 15 above. Skies remained clear most of the day and last night. No new snow was reported in the area. Mild and slightly cloudy weather is predicted for today.

Two Local Pilots Refused Use Of Airport Lights

State Mayor Gave "No Lights" Order

Two local aviation enthusiasts last night were refused landing light facilities at the Municipal Airport and said they were informed that Mayor Thomas S. Post issued the "no lights" order to the maintenance manager.

Mayor Post declined to comment on the situation, but members of the Municipal Airport Commission explained that the Mayor probably was within his rights, since he has been handling airport affairs since the Cumberland Airways, Inc., lease expired January 1.

W. Donald Smith, 906 Camden Avenue, said he appeared at the airport with the intention of flying several hours as a means of qualifying for a night pilot's license. Marvin Eye, airport attendant, however, refused to light the landing lamps, Smith said, and explained that he had orders not to.

Eye later said his orders were issued by Charles Heller, maintenance manager. Smith said he flew his plane last Tuesday night and intended to pay the cost of lighting the lamps last night as well as last Tuesday.

Smith explained that he received expense rates from the Potomac Edison Company regarding the cost of burning the lights and was informed it cost 32 cents to operate the lights for an hour.

George Ruhl, Civil Aeronautics Authority instructor, who was overseeing Smith's night flights, said the Mayor's action is hindering flying interest in the city.

T. Donald Shires, secretary of the Municipal Airport Commission, explained that while no official action was taken by the Commission to appoint the Mayor to oversee airport activities from the time the lease expired until March 1, when a new lease will be effective, the mayor has been acting in an executive capacity.

The question of turning on lights at night, Shires said, has not been raised before the commission during this period.

Mayor Post refused to say if the order was issued by him or what action he has taken in airport activities since the lease expired.

Two Youths Hurt While Skiing

Two youths were treated in Allegany Hospital last night for lacerations suffered in skiing accidents.

They were James Diehl, 19, 819 Mann's Terrace, who was treated for a one-inch laceration on the left knee after he fell while skiing, and Bradford Speelman, 17, Route 6, Potomac Park, for a laceration on the left wrist inflicted by a piece of glass while he was skiing.

Roy J. Loar, 27, 15 Maple Street, Frostburg, was treated in Allegany yesterday for a severe puncture wound in the right knee. The county roads workers said a brush hook struck his knee.

John Albert Aman, Jr., 3, 213 Hay Street, was treated in Allegany yesterday after his arm was caught in a washing machine wringer; Mrs. Paul Minke, 38, 410 Robbins Terrace, for a cut hand suffered while slicing meat, and Tim Law, LaVale, for a severe laceration on the first finger of the right hand after he was bitten by a dog.

ARBITRATION CASES TO BE HEARD TODAY

Arbitration hearings will begin this morning in the Allegany County Court House on two disputes between the Celanese Corporation of America and Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO.

The testimony will be heard before Sidney A. Wolff, New York City arbitrator, on the S-13 and the Newman and Breedlove cases.

The first case, S-13, a request by the union for an interpretation of that clause in the contract, is considered the more important since it affects seniority liability following an emergency shutdown.

The second case, that of Francis S. Newman and Loren W. Breedlove, involves separation pay resulting from technological improvements at the plant.

Wesley Cook, New York, assistant TWUA rayon director, will head the union delegation. Two days have been allotted for the hearings if necessary.

HAGERSTOWN MEN TO SPEAK TO AFL HEADS

A delegation from the Hagerstown Central Labor Union will appear before the Allegany Trades Council at a meeting of the AFL group here tonight at 7:30 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Earl Rider, Philadelphia, AFL organizer, will accompany the group and an AFL official said the group will confer with AFL leaders of this county on possible political activity in this area.

C. E. Stutzman, president of the council, was authorized at the last meeting to appoint a committee to organize an "educational and information program" as set forth by AFL leaders to head off unfavorable legislation.

Other AFL meetings planned here this week include a regular meeting of Local 307, Electrical Workers Union, Thursday at 7:30 p. m. and the Building and Construction Trades Council Friday at 8 p. m. Both meetings will be in Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Covington Paper Local Says Firm Will Not Bargain

Absence Of Key Men Disturbs Production

COVINGTON, Va., Feb. 23—(AP)—Local 675 of the United Paperworkers of America (CIO) today charged the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company with "violating all concepts of collective bargaining."

The local, representing workers at the company's Covington plant, said it was problematical whether the company was "interested in keeping the mill operating" or "more interested in destroying the union."

Meantime, a company spokesman said the Covington plant operated "with difficulty" today because of the absence of some key employes.

The company in a statement charged the union with "an organized effort to disturb production, chiefly by the refusal of employes to stay on or fill in in order to keep the mill going when absences occurred in key spots."

The UPA local has disclaimed responsibility for absences which have forced some paper machines to shut down at intervals during the past few days.

A union spokesman, who asked that his name not be used, said the local "challenged" the company to show that the union was responsible for "any of the absenteeism."

He said the company was "violating all concepts of collective bargaining and good labor-management relations by their vicious attack upon the union through the radio and press."

Tony Humphries, president of the local, said there was "no strike" at the Covington plant.

Earlier this month the union demanded an increase of from 25 to 35 cents per hour for all hourly paid employes, according to a statement released by the plant.

"The company was compelled to reject this demand," the statement read. "It would amount to slow suicide for both the mill and the employes."

Wage talks between representatives of the union and the company, which employs 2,500 persons, were held under a reopening clause of the company-union contract, not due to expire until August.

Two other plants of the company covered with the Covington plant as one unit in the contract, were reported to be in normal operation today. They are the Williamsburg, Pa., and the Luke, Md., plants.

Light Attacks C. Of C.; Post, Finan Clash

Mayor Questions Attorney's Stand

A verbal clash between Mayor Thomas S. Post and City Solicitor Thomas B. Finan over payment for the city audit, and an attack on the Chamber of Commerce by Street Commissioner Myers G. Light sparked the city's council meeting yesterday.

Light's attack on the Chamber of Commerce resulted from a letter submitted by the organization refering to "the dirty condition of our streets." The chamber should "tend to its own business," Light declared.

"What has the Chamber of Commerce done in the past 25 years?" Light demanded. "They are supposed to bring new industries to the city. The last was the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company. If the chamber would tend to its own business instead of sticking its nose into other peoples' business we'd be better off," he asserted.

"I don't understand the Chamber of Commerce's stand in this matter," Light told the Mayor and Council. "It's out of the question to clean the cinders off the streets with the snows we've been having. Those cinders were placed to prevent accidents."

The verbal exchange between the Mayor and Finan occurred after Finan reported to the Mayor and Council on a letter sent to the municipal body last week by Charles F. Burke, Jr., city tax collector, who stated his January collections were being held up by Auditor Arthur B. Gibson.

Finan declared that Gibson was under the impression Burke was to pay for the audit, but Burke made no such commitment, the city solicitor said, adding "from a legal standpoint I can't see how Burke can be made to pay for it."

Mayor Post immediately queried, "Mr. Finan, do you represent the people of Cumberland or the tax collector? I don't like your attitude in this matter. It seems to me you're kind of pleading for the tax collector."

"I represent the people," Finan snapped back. "There's not a bit of truth in your statement."

Finan told the Mayor and Council he had called former City Solicitor Charles Z. Heskett, now in Florida, and was informed that Burke made no commitment in regards to paying for the audit. Heskett also reported, according to Finan, that the tax collector was not present at any of the meetings in connection with making arrangements for the audit.

"The audit," the mayor retorted, "was ordered because or irregularities. I'm keeping it on the books." Finan replied "I thought the Mayor was capable of handling the discussion of the matter on an unbiased basis." No further action was taken on the question at the Council meeting.

Cumberland Is Basis For Magazine Story

Cumberland's industries and geographical location, its religious habits and family life are featured in an article entitled "Cumberland" published in the March issue of "Home Life," a Christian family magazine published by the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention.

The article is written by Joe W. Burton who, in the story, tells of his visit during the Celanese strike and also mentions interviews with several of the citizens.

City-Wide Egg Hunt Will Be Held In Constitution Park Easter Sunday

"Kisses from Heaven" will be one of the dramatic features of the city-wide Easter Sunday celebration which is being planned at Constitution Park for the children of Cumberland, Ted Licot, recreational director of the park, announced yesterday.

The chief event of the afternoon, Licot said, will be an egg hunt for children up to 14 years of age to be held throughout the park. Plans are being made for at least 1,000 participants, he added.

Licot said he already had been assured of 150 dozens of eggs which members of the Cumberland Playground Association have promised to cook and color for the egg hunt.

Local merchants, he explained, will be asked to donate prizes which will be awarded to the persons who find the eggs marked with the winning numbers.

A plane has already been secured to drop some 50 pounds of candy kisses from about 1,000 feet over the ball field for the crowd about 1:30 o'clock Easter afternoon.

Parents will be allowed to accompany small children in the egg hunt which Licot said will be held throughout the entire park.

No eggs, however, will be hidden within 100 feet of flowers or shrubs in the park.

The Mayor and City Council, he said, have given permission to hold the egg hunt Easter afternoon.

Licot said he hopes the Constitution Park egg hunt will become an annual affair here.

Student Nurse Recruiting Drive Planned In Area

Committee Heads To Meet Sunday

Plans for an intensive recruiting drive for student nurses within a 150-mile radius of Cumberland were made yesterday at a meeting of the organization committee at the Allegany Hospital Nurses' Home, 212 Decatur Street.

Miss Anne Sloan, Lonaconing, chairman, presided at the meeting, which marked the official opening of the campaign, the first of its kind to be held in this area.

Because of the need for more nurses in the Tri-State area, the goal of the recruiting campaign will be to secure 100 young women to enter the September classes of the schools of nursing at Allegany and Memorial Hospitals.

Miss Sloan explained she hopes to appoint chairmen at large in 15 neighboring counties, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties in Maryland; Mineral, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton, Tucker and Hampshire counties of West Virginia; and Westmoreland, Somerset, Bedford and Franklin counties in Pennsylvania.

Chairmen Nominated

The group suggested nominations for chairmen of five committees to serve in Cumberland and Allegany County, who would enlist the aid of secondary schools and colleges, church groups, clubs and other organizations both in securing prospective student nurses and in building up scholarship funds for young women who could not otherwise enter training.

Sister Mary Bernard, director of the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing, and Miss Frances Loftus, director of the Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, both of whom attended the meeting, agreed to serve on the hospital committee.

Functions of that group would include providing specified information and a speakers' bureau to promote the campaign and to arrange for "open house" programs and tours through the two hospitals.

Miss Pauline McEvoy and Miss Mary Louise Buzzell will serve on the publicity committee, with other members to be appointed later.

A meeting of the organization group and committee chairmen will be held next Sunday at 8 p. m. at the nurses' home, 212 Decatur Street, to plan for a public meeting in behalf of the campaign.

Miss Loftus suggested that the chairman of the church committee be assisted by three co-chairmen representing Catholic, Protestant and Jewish groups.

The clubs and organizations committee will be headed by two co-chairmen to work with men's and women's clubs, respectively.

Increased Need Cited

Sister Vincent Marie, superintendent of Allegany Hospital, said the current shortage of nurses has developed because of an increased need rather than because fewer nurses are in training.

Mrs. Arthur Bright, president of the Woman's Civic Club and a member of the organization committee, pointed out that hospital services have also increased, necessitating more nurses.

Miss Loftus explained that a number of nurses have joined the Army and Navy Nurse Corps, while others have married or have accepted nursing positions in industry, thus cutting down the number available for hospital duty.

Miss Sloan said some young women feel that college girls are less restricted than are student nurses, but Mrs. Bright said that is not the case in numerous colleges, where student activities are rigidly supervised.

Also attending the two-hour meeting was Miss Carmela A. Guarino, instructor at the Allegany Hospital School of Nursing. Refreshments were served following the session.

Related Instruction Classes Open Tonight

Approximately 125 veterans of World War II who are enrolled in on-the job training programs in the city, will begin tonight to attend related instruction classes at Fort Hill High School, according to J. D. Lonnholm, director of veterans' education.

Classes will be formed at Beall High School Wednesday night for veterans in the George's Creek region, and will continue each Tuesday and Thursday night at both schools until the advent of summer.

The classes, which deal with mechanical trades, are offered to give veterans taking on-the job-training the opportunity to fill the required minimum of 144 hours related instruction.

Classes will meet at 7 p. m. and continue until 9 p. m. Thomas R. Hinds and Robert Martin are instructors at Fort Hill while Lawrence Hayes will conduct classes at Frostburg.

Wanted: A Terrapin

Just about the time you think you know all the answers something like this comes along.

Officials of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce take in their stride appeals for such souvenirs as pencils, ash trays, embroidered pillows and pennants, but here's a request from a Columbus, O., youth that isn't in the book.

"Dear Sirs: I am collecting reptiles. Will you please send me a Diamond Back Terrapin.

P. S.—Will you please tell me what to feed it?"

Mayor To Call Charter Group Meeting Soon

Six New Members Asked To Serve

Stating that only one more appointment is needed to complete Cumberland's charter commission, Mayor Thomas S. Post said yesterday he plans to call the first meeting of the group early in March.

Six additional appointments were approved at yesterday's meeting of the Mayor and Council, bringing the present membership to 13.

The mayor said a 14th person, probably a newspaperman, will be named to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of O. J. Hale, who was among the first eight persons to be appointed to the commission December 1.

Hale, former assistant managing editor of The Cumberland News, left last month for New Brunswick, N. J., to become executive secretary of the New Jersey Press Association.

Mayor Post said commission members will meet to organize the group, elect a chairman and other officers, and make plans to study the report of Dr. Joseph M. Ray, of the University of Maryland, with the purpose of submitting recommendations for favorable legislation and a proposed new city charter.

In his report, Dr. Ray recommended home rule and the city manager type of government for Cumberland. He made a similar recommendation in an earlier study of Hagerstown's municipal government.

Following approval of the new appointments, the mayor yesterday mailed letters to the six appointees, explaining the purpose of the commission and asking them to serve.

Those named were Alexander R. Buchanan, Narrows Park, president of the Buchanan Lumber Company; Owen E. Hitchins, 825 Buckingham Road, president of the Tri-State Mining and Mill Supply Company; Former Judge D. Lindley Sloan, 821 Buckingham Road; Charles A. Piper, 105 Luteman Road, president of Liberty Trust Company; Fred T. Small, 23 Washington Street, manager of the local Celanese plant; and W. J. Jones, 122 Hanover Street, labor.

Others named earlier were W. Earl Cobey, attorney, 819 Windsor Road; Frank A. Wolfhope, auditor, 210 Carroll Street; Thomas Lohr Richards, attorney, 843 Mt. Royal Avenue; Jean N. Bourckel, 127 Oak Street, labor; Earl L. Bracey, 218 Carroll Street, principal of Carver High School; Mrs. Emma M. Everstine, 624 North Mechanic Street, real estate; and Isaac Hirsch, 646 Washington Street, business.

Planet Mars Seen By Many Persons

Several persons telephoned the News office last night to call attention to a "big star that seems to be following the moon," and inquired as to what it is.

Harold Deetz and his son, James, Baltimore Avenue, who have one of the largest telescopes in the city, and who are quite well informed on the stars and the general subject of astronomy, identified the "big star" as Mars. They explain the planet is at its closest point to earth in many years.

Both Harold and James Deetz have been watching Mars since it appeared a couple of nights ago, and James made a sketch of the canals which seem to form a large triangle across its surface.

They also called attention to the fact that Saturn is also visible and appears in the same general area as Mars, in the easterly sky. Venus is also visible now in the western sky. In the early morning hours, James Deetz said, he has observed Jupiter, another interesting planet, during the past few days.

With Mars visible to the naked eye and seen in the early evening near the Moon, some people get the idea "there is a star following the Moon." But the local amateur astronomers say this is not true. It is actually an illusion, caused by the movement of the Earth and the planet. Later on the Moon will appear to be behind Mars, and not in front of it, they explain.

In May, they say they plan to observe a comet which is expected to appear, and are looking forward to this phenomenon with a great deal of interest.

Four Day Week Again Planned At Kelly Plant

Fuel Shortage Causes Minor Celanese Layoffs

A four-day week and "light furloughs" will be scheduled at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant this week, and the Celanese plant said limited furloughs had been placed in effect in one unit of that plant due to fuel shortages.

The local tire plant was placed on four-day operations last week also, the first time since prior to the war that work has been cut back to that rate.

A plant spokesman said the four-day schedule resulted in an average production drop of 20 per cent and added he hoped the cut would be less severe during the rest of the month.

Most of the furloughs are being made throughout the plant and staggered as to time so that the effect is not great, it was explained.

Has Been Booming

The plant has been operating on a six and seven day schedule for the most part for the past few years. There were scarcely any five day weeks last year, while operations were chiefly scheduled for six and sometimes seven days.

Union officials said they were told yesterday that lists of men to be furloughed are being prepared but added the only definite figure they had was a list of 17 to be dropped this week in the tube room.

A shortage of fuel was given as the cause of a limited furlough yesterday in the Cellulose-Acetate department of the Celanese plant.

Plant Not Affected

A company spokesman said about 100 employes of that department will be furloughed but added that the rest of the plant will not be affected.

He said he did not know how long the furloughs would last.

The gas company, he explained, cuts back the gas supply for industrial plants when cold weather creates greater demand for home and commercial users.

Both the Celanese plant, which depends on propane gas as a standby fuel, and the Luke paper plant, which uses oil for the same purpose, are able to operate as usual when cold weather strikes only so long as supplies of the standby fuel last or can be replaced.

Valley Road Will Get Water Supply

The Mayor and City Council yesterday promised 58 residents of the Valley Road section relief from a water supply shortage as soon as the 5,000 feet of pipe necessary to extend the city water line becomes available.

Attorney James Alfred Avirett appeared for the 58 taxpayers and said that because of the present water shortage a serious danger of typhoid exists. The fire hazard is especially great, Avirett told the municipal body.

Commissioner of Water and Light William J. Edwards told Avirett the city would be co-operative as possible and Street Commissioner Myers G. Light termed the request "just."

A group of South End citizens presented a petition to the Mayor and City Council protesting against the Potomac Edison Company being permitted to dump flyash on Tin Plate Mill property. City Attorney Thomas B. Finan was ordered to check the ordinance file to see if the council can take action.

A $2,000 donation from the city to Allegany Chapter, American Red Cross was ordered paid from the "Movie Charity Fund."

A $9,190 payment to the Cumberland Contracting Company for first and final estimates for work performed on the construction of roading improvement on Ford Avenue and the C. and O. Canal was ordered paid.

The city took under advisement a complaint by Guy F. Clark, 300 South Street, that a run back of South Street floods his ground during heavy rains, making it useless.

The Mayor and Council ordered a refund of taxes to Mountain Chapter No. 166, Military Order of the Purple Heart, for taxes on the grounds and building at 772 Greene Street.

The Atlantic Refining Company, Roberts Street, was authorized to replace two 1,000-gallon gasoline storage tanks.

Road Resurfacing Contract Awarded

The Cumberland Contracting Company received word last night from the Maryland State Roads Commission that it has been awarded a contract to resurface 6.41 miles of Route 36 between Frostburg and Midland on its bid of $149,378, according to Earl C. Robertson, a company official.

The contract also includes resurfacing a short piece of Route 36 in the vicinity of Miners Hospital, Frostburg, and a short section of U. S. Route 40, between Eckhart and Frostburg.

Robertson said the contract calls for resurfacing the roads with blacktop, using State Roads specification D. He estimated that three months will be required to complete the project, and work is expected to begin about April 1, when weather is right.

Candidates May Speak

Candidates in the coming city election will be given an opportunity to present their views at an open meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the union hall.

The meeting is open to all who desire the support of the Celanese local, Playford Aldridge, president, said. Several members of the local are candidates for council posts.
